Anti-Trujillo Rumblings

2 Killed And 45 Injured In Dominican Violence

Martial Law Probably To Be Declared

Police Arrest 57 Of Youth Groups In Bloody Clash

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—This Caribbean island nation seethed with hostile anti-Trujillo rumblings today after a night of bloody rioting. Prospects heightened for a government proclamation of martial law.

Unofficial sources listed at least two teen-agers dead and about 45 other persons injured in Friday night's rioting—the most violent outbreak here since the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo last May.

The official police report mentioned no deaths but said an undetermined number were injured, including 15 policemen who suffered minor injuries from rock barrages.

Police announced the arrest of 57 members of youth groups who hurled stones in clashes with steel-helmeted police units in downtown streets of the capital. Officers beat back the attacks with semiautomatic rifles, water hoses and tear gas, while hundreds lined the sidewalks and rooted for the youngsters.

The exchange lasted about 25 minutes before police drove back the demonstrators and seized control. Offshoot demonstrations that formed later in nearby streets were quickly put down.

The battle capped five days of antigovernment demonstrations set off by student protests against the appointment of a new rector for Santo Domingo University accused of being a Trujillo man. An association of professors at the school joined the students Friday in demanding his removal.

The resolution approved by 141 of the university's 143 professors said that the closing of the school by the government following student demonstrations was no solution.

Signs of the impending violence came when youths sealed off streets in a two-square-block area which they called the "free territory of the Dominican Republic." Some were seen loading rooftops with stones and metal objects.

Four companies of police moved in later after several hundred demonstrators marched down a main street shouting "liberty! liberty!"

A young woman carrying a child was among at least 20 bleeding and weeping injured led from the scene. Police claimed the woman was hit by a rock.

There were reports that at least three members of the Trujillo family—all brothers of the late dictator—may leave the Dominican Republic this weekend. The departure of the family has been demanded by opposition factions before they will negotiate with President Joaquin Balaguer on his proposal for a coalition government.

The Trujillos headed for exile were identified as Gens. Hector, Jose Arizmendi and Pedro Trujillo.

Khrushchev Expected To 'Clean House'

Purge Under Way Already, Congress Events Indicate

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's heavy propaganda artillery is zeroing in on his enemies. The events at the Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow suggest he is winning his struggle and setting the scene for an announcement of a house-cleaning.

It seems likely, in fact, that the purge already is well under way. Probably it was started well in advance of the 22nd party congress, at least at the lower levels.

But Khrushchev wants and apparently needs total victory. This means at a minimum the expulsion from the Communist party of those he labeled antiparty in 1957.

The congress can provide the machinery for Khrushchev's purposes.

Awaiting formal approval are some new ideas concerning the statutes by which the Communist party is supposed to govern itself. The changes may involve new methods for expelling and punishing members who have fallen into disgrace. There are indications that new sins will be invented, such as failure to show sufficient devotion to the Communist cause or lack of faithfulness to the principle of collective leadership.

If Khrushchev has won, heads will roll. It will mean expulsion from the party and possibly worse for former Premier Georgi Malenkov, for Lazar Kaganovich, the one-time iron commisar of the Ukraine and a Stalin stalwart, for old former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, for former Premier Nikolai Bulganin and many others.

There may be shocks outside the U.S.S.R., too. Those Communists in parties abroad, particularly in the satellite nations, who have failed to show sufficient devotion to Khrushchev's free-wheeling interpretation of Marxism-Leninism may be slated for the political ax.

Alarm Rocket Launched In Experiment

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—A Midas missile-alarm rocket shot aloft today with a controversial cargo: 350 million tiny copper needles to be spread in a radio-reflective belt around the earth.

If successful the experiment will place in space a five-mile-wide band of hair-like reflectors which scientists can use to bounce radio waves half-way around the world.

Some astronomers have opposed the experiment on the grounds that if the needles go awry in space they could interfere with optical and radio observations of the stars, or even damage satellites.

Despite the controversy, approval for the test was given earlier this month by President Kennedy's scientific adviser, Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner.

Word on whether the Midas satellite achieved orbit, and whether it then properly ejected its package of needles, was expected two or more hours after launch.

The tiny needles, each 7-10 of an inch long and one-third the thickness of a human hair, were in a six-by-20-inch cylinder in the tail section of the 30-foot long Midas.

Potent Surge In Business Is Predicted

Economists Agree Advance To Extend Through Mid-'62

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Government and industry economists agreed today that a strong business advance would extend at least through mid-1962.

Official estimates that national output would reach a record rate of $565 to $570 billion were supported by only slightly less optimistic industry forecasts at the fall conference of the Business Council here.

The nearly 100 corporation heads devoted this morning to a survey of the business outlook, led by Frederick R. Kappel, board chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon took part. He told the council in a dinner speech Friday night that rising income and profits should insure the balanced 1963 budget, which President Kennedy intends to send Congress in January.

The threat seems remote that the $6.75-billion deficit of this 1962 fiscal year will promote inflation, Dillon said, because "government income and outgo will come into approximate balance by mid-December."

Unemployment remains "intolerably high," Dillon told the business executives. He added, however: "We expect a drop very soon. Unemployment should fall to about 5 per cent by next summer."

Forecasts that output of goods and services would reach a rate of $540 billion this quarter and move to $565 billion to $570 billion by mid-1962 were delivered to the meeting by Dr. Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers.

A rate of $570 billion would represent an impressive gain of more than 10 per cent over this year's second quarter rate of $516.1 billion.

District To Continue On DST Week More

The East Liverpool district and communities throughout the Ohio Valley and most Eastern states will follow Daylight Saving Time for one more week before turning the clocks back Oct. 29.

Some school districts in the area returned to Eastern Standard Time at the start of the month but cities and towns continued on the "summer" time, which began April 30.

Clocks were turned ahead an hour last spring and they will be turned back an hour for the resumption of EST, when residents will regain that lost hour of sleep.

Cunningham Receives Routine Test Of Heart

Ira W. Cunningham, former East Liverpool patrolman serving a 1-5-year term for an attempt to bribe a juror, is in the Ohio Penitentiary hospital at Columbus for a routine periodic checkup on a slight cardiac condition, prison officials said today.

Prison officials said the heart condition was detected Feb. 1 when Cunningham entered the penitentiary to serve the term for attempted bribery, which stemmed from a 1958 burglary trial for the ex-policeman and Jerry Raimond, one-time special officer.

Cunningham has been at the Zanesville honor camp since April 28, but returns to the prison hospital every three months for a routine check. The Pardon and Parole Commission is scheduled to give Cunningham a hearing Nov. 1.

In Wake Of Snow Storm

Southern West Virginia Labors Under Emergency

By The Associated Press

West Virginia mountain communities labored under emergency conditions today to shake off the effects of an unseasonable storm that blanketed some areas with nearly two feet of snow.

In the northeast, tropical storm Gerda lashed the coast with gale winds and high seas from Provincetown to Eastport, Maine. The storm churned northeastward in the Atlantic packing winds up to 65 miles an hour in gusts.

Residents melted snow for water.

Curfews were in effect in both communities and volunteers were called out to aid police in keeping residents off the dangerous streets. Some homes were without heat with temperatures hovering near 40 degrees during the night.

The snowfall measured eight inches in Bluefield, three inches in the Great Smokies near Gatlinburg, Tenn., with an inch falling on Mount Mitchell, N. C. with a midday temperature of 21 degrees.

High Court Refuses Reprieve For Schuck

BEAVER — Arthur G. Schuck of Baden, scheduled to die in the electric chair Monday for the slaying of Vincent J. Quigley, was denied a U.S. Supreme Court hearing Friday at Washington.

The appeal said he was denied due process of law by refusal of his attorneys at the trial to permit him to make a plea of innocent by reason of insanity. The appeal also said he had new evidence, discovered after he was sentenced to death.

6 Columbiana Girls Injured In Car Wreck

2 Wellsville Area Residents Hurt In 2nd County Mishap

Six teen-age Columbiana girls were hospitalized with injuries suffered in a one-car crash on County Rd. 421 a mile southeast of Columbiana Friday night at 9:55. Two Wellsvile area residents were hurt in another crash yesterday afternoon on Route 45.

The Ohio State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said a car driven by Cheryl Beiling, 16, of Columbiana left the highway on a curve and slammed into a utility pole, shearing it off.

Miss Beiling and five companions were admitted to Salem City Hospital with various injuries.

Those hurt and their injuries include:

Alice Baker, 16, of Main St. lacerations of the chest, abrasions of the arms, and possible back injuries.

Officers said they were not able to talk to the girls. Their 1956 Chevrolet was demolished.

A car driven by Wayne Hamilton, 60, of Wellsvile R. D. 1 was struck in the rear by another driven by Edwin Ewing, 70, of 401 5th St., Wellsville, yesterday at 5 p. m. on Route 45 about three and a half miles north of Wellsville.

Officers said Hamilton had slowed to make a left turn into the driveway of his home. Ewing was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Mrs. Beatrice Hamilton, 54, a passenger in her husband's car, suffered a whiplash injury of the neck, and Mrs. Anna Ewing, 75, a passenger in the Ewing vehicle, suffered bruises of the knees and legs. They were treated by a physician.

U.N. To OK Plan Canceling A-Test

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A call for the Soviet Union to abandon its plan to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb seemed assured today of U.N. approval.

Few nations are expected to oppose the appeal to Premier Khrushchev placed before the 101-nation U.N. Political Committee by six countries on the fringe of the Soviet test area.

But an Asian-African group sought to widen the resolution into an appeal for a moratorium on all tests.

India objected to the sponsor's demand that it be given top priority, and Guinea said it would not take part in the vote on grounds it was a cold war item. But most of the neutrals indicated privately they would support the move.

The Soviet Union kept silent during Friday's debate on the appeal, which was put forth by Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Japan, Iceland and Norway. Diplomats speculated, however, that the Soviets might reject it on grounds that the tests concerned only the Soviet Union.

"That's about the only way they could oppose it," said one delegate. The sponsors called for top priority on the appeal to get it to Khrushchev before the Soviet Union goes through with plans for the 50-megaton blast scheduled for Oct. 31.

A group of Asian-African nations, including Ethiopia, Ghana, Sudan and Nepal is behind the move to broaden the resolution into an appeal to all atomic powers to refrain from tests.

Some delegates opposed widening the scope of the resolution to embrace all tests for fear it would lose its impact. Others felt it would remove the sting from the original draft and lessen chances of Communist opposition.

Canadian Foreign Minister Howard Green said that fallout knew no boundaries and if the explosion were to take place, "It will signify contempt for the resolutions of the United Nations."

U.N. Congo-Katanga Agreement Reported

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) A controversial agreement between the U.N. Congo command and Katanga Province had the reported approval today both of the U.N. secretariat and of the Congolese central government.

Joint School Airing Halts Until Nov. 6

Deposition Taken Of Ohio University Director Of Survey

LISBON — Hearing on a mandamus action against the jointure of the Franklin Local and Southern Local School Districts was continued Friday until Nov. 6 after only one witness testified.

Dr. Samuel Hicks of Ohio University was scheduled to testify but only a deposition was taken as he had to return to Athens yesterday. He headed a university team that surveyed the district in early planning for a consolidation.

The hearing began Thursday before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard on the petition for a writ to compel a vote on the sentiments of Franklin residents on a merger with Carroll County school districts rather than Southern Local.

Fred Johnson of Summitville, who filed the mandamus action, was returned to the stand and gave exact figures for the travel distances which he had estimated while testifying Thursday. This is one of the main reasons residents of Franklin do not wish to join with Southern Local, he has claimed.

Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers, president of the County Board of Education, was the only witness called yesterday by Prosecutor S. Brokaw. He reported how the county board, along with Dr. Hicks, had met with the Franklin Local Board for a preliminary report of the survey and recommendations for Franklin's merger

Lions Club Asks Mayoral Stand On Income Tax

Although unsuccessful so far, the Lions Club still is trying to arrange a meeting at which the city's two mayoralty candidates can make a public statement concerning the city income tax measure, Charles Herman, president, reported at the club's luncheon Friday at the Travelers Hotel.

The club has officially and unanimously endorsed retention of the tax, which will be submitted to vote Nov. 7.

Club members have contacted both candidates, Mayor Bert Goodballet, Democrat, and O. Earl Greenawalt, Republican, Herman said, in an attempt to have them appear either at a joint luncheon or evening meeting of the service clubs or at any one of the club meetings.

Herman said the Rotary, Kiwanis and Business and Professional Women's Club agreed to co-operate in arranging a meeting.

A representative of Trades and Labor Council also would be invited. The central labor body circulated an initiative ordinance seeking repeal of the tax, which will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot.

After hearing the president's report, the club by a voice vote unanimously approved a motion that it endorse retention of the income tax. The motion was made by Leo C. Lawrence with Howard E. Tice offering the second.

Merger

after the university professor had examined the two districts.

Atty. John Bauknecht, one of the attorneys for Johnson, asked Atty. Elliott why the county board had not acted on the petition of approximately 85 per cent of voters of the Franklin to merge with three school districts, East, Fox and Augusta, in Carroll County.

Atty. Elliott said he was governed by law and that the petition was not a remonstrance petition to the consolidation and that he didn't believe the county board had to act.

Atty. Elliott added he believed it was the consensus of most of the county board members, as far back as January, that Franklin, the only eight-year district in Columbiana County, should be consolidated with Southern Local.

Questioned by Judge Buzzard on why the board didn't merge the two districts at that time, Atty. Elliott said Southern District had been given a $400,000 state grant for a new high school and the county board had been advised that if they merged at that time the entire district would have to reapply for this state aid and it was not known if they would receive it after such delay.

Dr. Hicks is not expected to be called for the resumption of the hearing Nov. 6 although his deposition will be introduced.

It is expected that Prosecutor Brokaw will call County Supt. James L. McBride to the stand then although Judge Buzzard probably will not rule immediately following the close of the testimony.

Five members of the proposed new district will be named at the Nov. 7 election. The new board will be elected by write-in votes in the combined district.

Both sides agreed that if an earlier date for the completion of the hearing can be set they would be available on short notice.

A 27-year-old Empire man will be given a hearing Monday in Municipal Court on a drunk driving charge stemming from a one-car crash early this morning in the West End. He was hurt slightly and his 1955 sedan was demolished when it struck a utility pole and then a concrete wall and steps.

Police said Turcovski refused to make a statement but Patrolman S. E. Hayes said evidence at the scene indicated the car struck the utility pole, jumped the curb and then hit the wall and steps at 923 W. 8th St.

An auto fire was blamed for an accident at 4:30 p. m. yesterday in the 1000 block on St. Clair Ave.

The mishap involved cars operated by Peggy L. Mangano, 29, of 399 Washington St., Newell, and Joseph L. Perrin, 52, of 1305 Smithfield St., police said.

The Newell woman said her 1958 sedan owned by Newell Central Service caught fire and she and a passenger, Mrs. Mary Mincuillo, jumped out.

Perrin told police he was following the Newell car up the hill and when the women jumped out the auto drifted back into the front of his car, damaging the front end.

City firemen were called and reported the fire damaged the wiring in the Newell woman's car.

His attention diverted by a friend's call, a car operated by Demar Dyke of the YMCA struck the parked 1960 auto of Arthur E. Frontz of LaCroft Ave. shortly after 6 p. m. yesterday at W. 6th St. and Peach Alley.

Dyke told police he was pulling from the curb when a friend called. He said he glanced away and his car hit the Frontz auto, shoving it up onto the sidewalk.

DETROIT (AP)—Driving for an over-all settlement within a week, the United Auto Workers Union and Chrysler Corp. concentrated today in around-the-clock bargaining on at-the-plant working agreements.

Local unions and managements were under orders to "devote as many hours as necessary" to settling their differences. Each side kept representatives on 24-hour duty in Detroit to advise at-the-plant bargainers.

The UAW and Ford signed a new three-year contract Friday. Before that, agreements had been reached with American Motors Corp. and General Motors Corp. Studebaker - Packard follows Chrysler on the union's new contract list.

Chester Driver Will Get Hearing

Charles W. White, 19, of Montana Ave., Chester, will be given a hearing next Saturday at 10 a. m. by Mayor Ray Collins on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Police said he lost control of a 1956 sedan Friday about 1 a.m., running into the yard of the home of Mrs. Effie Shooshan, 154 Pennsylvania Ave. damaging the lawn and a garbage can.

When backing out of the yard, he hit a parked 1953 sedan of Guy Micheals of Liberty Ave., Lawrenceville, police said. Micheals found a piece of tail-light rim which came off the White auto and gave it to Police Chief Harold Davis.

Patrolman Clarence Lennens spotted the auto parked on Montana Ave. at 4:15 p. m., shortly after he came on duty. The piece of trim matched.

White later reported the accident to police at City Hall. Slight damage was reported to his car and considerable to Micheal's.

Quakes Rattle Wide Areas In California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A series of earthquakes rattled Southern California from Los Angeles to San Diego Friday, but no one was injured and no serious damage was reported.

The first shock at 11:50 a.m., was felt strongly in Orange County and caused minor damage to new construction projects and market merchandise, which rolled off shelves.

The tremor also caused the City Hall tower in downtown Los Angeles to sway slightly.

Another heavy shock was felt at 2:35 p.m. It was the last of many recorded during the day by Dr. Charles Richter, head of the seismology laboratory in Pasadena.

Dr. Richter described the quakes as "deep seated" and "exciting but not very damaging."

The strongest of the shocks, the one at 11:50 a.m., was rated at 4.5 on the Richter scale. The San Francisco quake in 1906 was rated at 8.3.

Solicitors Air Gas Rate Case

Solicitors in Eastern Ohio cities agreed Frieay at a meeting in Steubenville on a plan in which the communities will present a united front to the Ohio Valley Gas Co.'s request for rate increases in 11 communities.

The plan was not revealed until it can be submitted to the Councils in the various cities for confirmation.

The solicitors decided to continue opposition to the rate request as a united group because it is "a common problem," Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper of East Liverpool said.

The problem was discussed yesterday with William Wasick, utility consultant for the city of Akron, who represented the Eastern Ohio communities in a hearing more than a year ago before the Public Utilities Commission.

At that time, the cities hired Wasick as a rate expert. Following the hearing, the PUC granted a rate increase less than that asked by the gas utility. Funds to pay the rate expert and carry out the fight were provided by each city on a per capita basis.

Attending the meeting besides Cooper were Atty. William Bush, Wellsville's legal counsel, and solicitors from Toronto, Bellaire, Mingo Junction, Martins Ferry, Tiltonsville, Yorkville, Steubenville and Wintersville.

Patrols Warn Of Throwing Items At Cars

Ohio State Highway Patrol units at Lisbon and Wintersville today issued a warning to anyone throwinf objects at moving vehicles or barricades of any tpye on the highways.

Officers said with the onset of Halloween, juvenile tricksters place barricades of old corn stalks and the like on the highways to bother motorists. The drivers are warned to be extra careful driving at night when it is hard to see such obstruction.

Officers said they also had rashes of reports of tomatoes being tossed at moving cars. They said that a tomato or any other object thrown against the windshield of a moving vehicle could break the glass or startle the driver and cause him to wreck.

Both units said anyone caught will be arrested and prosecuted.

The warning resulted after an accident Friday night on Route 213 about four miles north of Steubenville when a Toronto car struck a log that had been placed across a section of the highway.

Officers pointed out that such activities might easily cause a wreck in which someone could be seriously injured or killed.

Dairy Garage Thief Gets Soft Drink Coins

A quantity of dimes were stolen from a soft drink machine in the Golden Star Dairy garage, 235 W. 6th St., between Friday night and early today, police reported.

The theft occurred between 5 p.m. Friday and 7:30 a.m. today, officers said.

Frank Taylor, 128 E. 2nd St., reported to police this morning a battery charger valued at $50 was stolen from his garage at Kent and Beleck Sts. Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

Schools At Palestine Set Civil Defense Test

EAST PALESTINE — A Civil Defense drill, "Evacuation Day," will be held in the East Palestine school system Friday, Nov. 17.

George Malena, director, said a full day of activities is planned. Movies will be shown the students in the forenoon. At noon, each student will be timed on how many minutes it takes him to reach home.

A practice alert will be held in the afternoon to determine how many could be sheltered in the school buildings and how many would have to be sent home.

Phone Firm Begins Issuance Of 22,500 New Directories

Distribution of new Ohio Bell Telephone Co. directories to nearly 22,500 stations in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Newell and Salineville has been started.

The total includes 19,109 stations in East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville and 3,369 in Chester and Newell. A spokesman for the company pointed out "stations" are the number of telephones and not the number of customers since many businesses and individuals have more than one telephone.

The new directory includes a mixture of both old and new with many customers receiving the new all-number listings and others being listed under the old two letters and five digits.

The all-number system simply uses seven digits instead of the exchange name and five digits. Under all-number dialing, FU. 5 becomes 385.

However, a major change provides the numeral 1 must be dialed as the access number before making any direct distance dialing to other cities after Oct. 29.

In event the call is placed to a city in the same code area—216—as East Liverpool, the proper method would be to dial 1 and then the out-of-town number.

If the person you are calling resides outside this area, for example Pittsburgh, you must dial 1, then the area code number, 412, then the regular phone number, either seven digits or two letters and five numbers.

The blue section of the directory this year contains a three-year calendar in addition to civic information and maps of East Liverpool and Wellsville, and index to the classified directory, postal information and information on reporting highway emergencies and traffic suggestions.

Mrs. Virginia McDonald, president, presided. Next meeting is Nov. 10, Mrs. Helen Illig, publicity chairman, said.

First, You Dig A Hole

About this prospect of being buried by Russian Communists or any other kind of Communists, one thing is certain.

If they could do it, they would deserve to do it because that's the kind of a world it is. No one has a permanent lease on survival.

If the Communists became the world's top dog, no one could say they had no right to the distinction, because it's impossible to quarrel with the successful survivors in a competitive world.

But there's a substantial reason for doubting that the Communists can bury anybody in the long pull, though they can kick up a cloud of dust. Their way of doing things has a congenital weakness.

This is not because it's Communism, which is such a vague thing as practiced in Russia or anywhere else that no one can pin it down. The key fact about Communism is it never has been put into practice anywhere in the world, except in some isolated instances in the United States, where it was an absurd failure.

IT IS NOT Communism as much that will lick the Russians. It is what they have done in the name of Communism by setting up a one-party dictatorship in which power rests in the hands of a few men who are certain to clash over policy.

When the clashes occur, there is no way to settle the outcome without a bloody and wasteful struggle. There is no way to guarantee that the survivor of the power struggle will be able to organize a government and avert chaos.

Because no provision is made for periodic recalls of officials who have failed on their jobs, venality and inefficiency must be allowed to continue indefinitely, because there is no automatic review of progress, no automatic way to renew the momentum of the social and economic mechanism.

And because the only incentive permissable under the credo of state-worship is the greater glory of the politicians who take all the credit if things go well and wriggle out of the blame if they go badly, millions of men and women who will have turned sour on politics and statism will refuse to exert themselves. Some will go beyond passive resistance and try to hurt the state by sabotage and violence.

THIS IS a problem in capitalism, too. But in capitalism, few people work directly for the state; it doesn't matter how they feel about it and its politicians.

There is automatic turnover, in government; the political climate is always changing.

Communism — statism — absolutism — benevolent despotism — personality-cult dictatorship — authoritarianism — they all can be made to look good for a time because they have a kind of psuedo-efficiency about them. Things seem to get done quickly because no opposition is permitted.

But wrong things get done as quickly as right ones. Mistakes multiply and cannot be reversed because admissions of error are impossible under dictatorship.

Red China can boast of the progress it has made with forced-draft industrialism until it comes to light that it has made ghastly mistakes in agriculture and its industrial workers don't have enough to eat, as they never have had enough to eat in Russia.

If people like this are going to bury us, they will need to dig a hole bigger than the hole in which we intend to bury their despotism. They're more scared than we are, because their grave has been dug by history.

This Is A Special Occasion

Why do newspapers put on a special Newspaperboy Day each year at the end of Newspaper Week?

We do it because these young men who help to distribute our product represent one of the things Americans need to be concerned about saving—the self-reliance that used to be part of the training of most young men in this country.

Most modern newspaperboys don't fit the classical Horatio Alger picture of a generation ago. They are not scratching out a livelihood a penny at a time. They more often than not are "peddling their papers" by choice as much as by necessity. Many of them are doing it because their father and mothers have urged them to do it for their own good.

Newspapers think it's valuable training, too. We are glad to have the services of these young Americans. They are glad to have the chance to make money. We chuckle when we read about big-time social experiments to keep boys out of trouble by giving them something to do.

Delivering newspapers never has been an experiment in youth-training or character-building, but it has been producing good social results for many generations. Not all boys who carry newspapers grow up to be exemplary citizens, but this we can say with

No boy ever got into trouble because he was busy on a paper route.

All Quiet In Budapest

With their eyes and thoughts on that prison wall dividing Berlin, millions of Europeans this week will remember that Hungarians tried to break out of their prison five years ago — Oct. 23, 1956.

By Nov. 4 their effort had been thwarted beyond any chance of recovery. Russian tanks and troops from Central Asia put down their revolt so ruthlessly that Hungary has been politically silent ever since — the silence of the cemetery.

The jailers of the Hungarian people have demonstrated that it is possible to subdue a whole nation as if it had been locked up in a maximum security prison. Deserted by the West and by the United Nations, Hungarians are reported to be without hope. They have quit dreaming of what is impossible and have grown preoccupied with what is possible — an endless continuation of a drab existence as inconsequential members of the faceless masses allowed to exist and work for the power and the glory of a political dictatorship over which they have no control and from which they expect nothing but permission to live.

The Hungarian revolt, though commemorated on Oct. 23, began a day earlier when news reached Budapest that students at Szeged had set up an independent organization in defiance of the Communists. The news spread like wildfire. A revolution was under way before the students, workers, soldiers and intellectuals who were swept up in it comprehended what they were doing. It was spontaneous combustion.

It took 5,000 tanks and 200,000 troops brought in from Central Asia to smash the rebellious spirit of the Hungarians. It took some of the most agonizing decisions of the century for the West to let Hungary be ground under the heel of its captors. When the thing finally had been done and Hungary was silent and submissive, the one spark of freedom that might have been fanned into a flame in Europe was cold and dead — as cold and dead as the Germans in Berlin will be if that infamous wall cannot be torn down.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Diagnosing heart ailments at high speed by an electronic computer is latest IBM experiment. Tests can be completed in 20 seconds. "Mass screening of children is near and we will be able to run kids through in half a minute. This will reduce by 90 per cent the work of doctors" says Charles Bading, IBM engineer. This may forecast day when electronics will do the work of physicians in many ailments.

Doctor of tomorrow may be able to have his bill completed by an electric brain before he has time to figure it out himself, and while patient is still under examination. Fancy a diagnosis before you have had time to show your tongue! How will it affect patient?

WILL PUSH-BUTTON and clicking sound ever give a sick person the comfort and hope he or she gets from the human voice and time to tell whether doctor is a tall man with a red mustache or a midget with a beard. Won't a patient going in for a minor illness feel sicker if only a few seconds are taken to go over his symptoms?

Possible conversation between man boasting of his condition and a friend: "I've just been examined and found in perfect shape." "By what physician?" "No physician; just a computing machine." Electronic medicine age could bring up this question: If diagnosis is wrong can patient sue electronics corporation?

How will doctors take to it: Admittedly they have more patients than they can easily handle these days, but how will they feel if the Hippocratic oath has to include a pledge by the electrician's union.

What about the day when some patient makes a return visit, and doctor says, "I gave you my diagnosis a week ago, didn't I?" Patient then replies, "No, doc, don't you remember we had a short circuit that time?"

The well-known "travelers cheque" was introduced to the public in 1891 by James C. Fargo, of "Wells-Fargo" fame, and almost immediately became recognized as a "universal currency." Originally thought mainly a convenience for people traveling to Europe by steamship in the 1890's (when a first-class passage cost $50), travelers cheques today accompany a majority of travelers everywhere.

Aerial photography was practiced by means of kites and balloons before the airplane was invented, but not until World War I did its value become apparent toward the end. Later, great skill was developed in taking still pictures from the air and southeastern Alaska was mapped by the U. S. Army in 10 days.

Red Propaganda Hits Iran

By Michael Rowe

TEHERAN

With the first of Dr. Ali Amini's long-promised mass corruption trials now begun, the Iranian Premier has emerged at least partially victorious from the "behind the scenes" struggle for power that has been going on since he took over the tenuous control of the government six months ago.

The bringing to trial of Gen. Rouhollah Navisi, the former head of the State Fisheries Co., Mrs. Ehsan Davalou (known as Persia's "Caviar queen") and five others, has proved timely.

It now is obvious that Dr. Amini had been waging a long exhausting war with this powerful minority group over his proposed cleanup. (On two recent occasions the Premier requested audience with the Shah, reportedly in vain attempts to tender his resignation.)

But last week, the graying, hawk-nosed Premier, his hand considerably strengthened, announced in a pre-trial "meet the people" tour of Teheran: "The trials will show we mean business and that we have not made empty promises."

HIS TOUR, in which the Premier talked to workers, religious leaders and students, and visited schools and factories, is seen as a renewed push for popular political support, something he hitherto has been denied in a country with such a wide gulf between the poverty-stricken masses and the immensely wealthy minority.

His campaigning also is taken as a further indication that the Premier has overcome the immediate major obstacles and is now concentrating on consolidating his position.

He may soon be in a position to carry out an even wider purge of "those who have plundered the public treasury," as he has promised on several occasions.

On the foreign front, despite recurrent fears in Western diplomatic quarters of a Soviet attack on Iran, Teheran is outwardly calm. The government, and its Central Treaty Organization allies, continue to treat threats of nuclear devastation by Iran's powerful northern Communist neighbor as "sheer bluff."

But although there is no immediate war scare, the government is genuinely disturbed at possible danger from the stepped-up radio war from across the border.

SOVIET propaganda, which recently has been intensified, is aimed at the average Iranian's desire for neutrality, a broader democracy and better living conditions, and government fears that the propaganda is finding ready ears appear to be well-founded.

Many Iranians tune in secretly (some even openly) to the inflammatory broadcasts from the "Voice of Free Iran," a powerful radio transmitter stationed just across the border in Soviet Azerbaijan. The radio, which has launched attacks on the regime and its alliance with the Western bloc, also transmits items suppressed in Iran's newspapers.

The recent Russian expose of revealing plans of an attack on Russia from Iran were treated with credibility and alarm by many educated Iranians who are quick to point out that it would not be the first time that their country has been the pawn in a bigger game.

There have been open hints that Russia still has in mind the 1921 Irano-Soviet pact, and could use it as a cold war lever. One clause of this pact gave Russia the right to occupy Iran if Soviet security was felt to be threatened. The clause was cited in 1941 when Soviet troops marched in on a German spy hunt.

IRAN CLAIMS that treaty was aimed against a possible pro-Tsarist counter-attack against the new Moscow regime. As this is no longer likely the pact has therefore become void. But recent Russian claims that Iran has become an American military camp, and therefore a threat to her security, indicates that the Kremlin has far from forgotten the 1921 treaty, in which the clause at issue was never revoked.

The Persian government, while prepared to talk peace, is firing off a few broadsides of its own. Dr. Amini told a worker's convocation in East Teheran this week that the country would not bow to intimidation or threats and prophesied that "there will come a time when Russia will be all too eager to offer to us the hand of friendship."

Despite occasional border incidents and reported Russian troop movements, a Soviet attack is discounted. Such a venture would immediately involve the United States under a defensive alliance, and the CENTO nations, including Britain, which has a small force of instructors based at an Azerbaijan radar station.

Iran's 200,000 man army is U.S. trained and fairly well equipped. Its air force is equipped with rocket-firing F84 jet aircraft.

With new tensions on her borders—the Kurdish uprising, the Afghan-Pakistan dispute and the Egyptian-Syrian crisis—Iran is in the center of a trouble spot. As a result, neutrality is becoming more and more the key word.

"But if Churchill, Roosevelt, and Stalin failed to respect our neutrality during the last war," a thoughtful Tehrani told us this week, "Well . . . what could we expect from Khrushchev?"

Phony Shelters

By Victor Wilson

High government officials in Washington are concerned that, because of real public worry on whether to build or buy a fallout shelter, smart-money operators will move into that field, selling high-priced—but useless—shelters.

The officials, none of whom would be quoted, are uncertain on how to warn the public against shelter peddlers, and thus prevent, or at least reduce, the possibility of a financial field day for confidence men.

One approach that seems most likely is for the Federal Trade Commission to make a special study of the situation.

If this happens, and it will occur quickly if the idea is adopted, the FTC presumably would warn the public against phonies in the shelter field, stressing particularly the need to check into the credentials of anyone offering shelters for sale at any price.

This would be particularly true of salesmen who glibly plug ready-built contraptions, presumably offering assured protection, or representatives of contractors offering to reconvert basements to places utterly secure against hydrogen bombs.

As in any other scheme to bilk, these officials point out, one sure way to detect sharp practice is to starts with a high price, then keeps lowering it, finally taking whatever cash is offered.

The reluctance of concerned officials to openly discuss the situation, until they are ready to move, is based on the belief that it may discourage the building or purchase of worthwhile shelters, which government officers, from President Kennedy down, concede would be in the public interest.

But whatever course is finally decided upon to warn the public it is expected to come quickly.

At his last press conference, President Kennedy told reporters he expected the government to announce in mid-November its proposals for a shelter program, presumably privately financed by individual families.

Earlier, after conferring at the White House with a group of visiting editors, the President was quoted as saying he thought an adequate family shelter shouldn't cost more than $100 to $150.

It is impossible to learn whether any shelter sharpshooters already have moved into what could be a lush financial field. But presumably some have, or the concern among interested officials here wouldn't be so acute.

Odd Facts

The U. S. National Congress of Parents and Teachers (the PTA) now has more than 12 million memberships, the largest in its 64 years of growth. This tremendous growth in membership, according to the PTA, signifies the interest of parents and teachers to meet on a common ground for the good of the school-going population.

Peace For Russia

By David Lawrence

The Speech That Nikita Didn't Make

This is a story of a speech that Premier Nikita Khrushchev didn't write but should have delivered this week to the Communist Party Congress and the people of Soviet Union. It could have been broadcast throughout the world. It could have given biggest thrill of satisfaction and happiness, but, in particular it could have given the people of the Soviet Union a greater stimulus to progress than any Communist party program—past, present or future.

David Lawrence

The Soviet premier might have put it this way:

"The people of the Soviet Union today know more about the ill effects of war than any people on earth. They have suffered a devastation over the last 46 years far greater than would be inflicted by the dropping of a 100-megaton bomb on each of our 10 largest cities. We don't want war and shall never begin a war. Likewise, the United States and the West do not want war and will not start a war. This means there will be peace.

"We are still suffering today from the disasters of World War I and World War II. I shall quote to you here from a recent analysis of our 1959 census and of other census figures of the past. It says:

" 'Not a single generation of the Soviet people, except those who are today under 12 years of age, has escaped the repercussions of war, revolution, forced labor or famine. These misfortunes have left many scars on the Russian population.

" 'It has been estimated that in the period 1913 to 1959 population losses owing to such forces, together with birth deficits and modest emigration, amounted to the staggering total of 70 to 80 million people.

" 'Losses from World War I, revolution and turmoils of the initial post-revolution period have been assessed at more than 25 million.

" 'Preliminary results of the 1959 census showed that Soviet losses due to World War II alone amounted to 30 to 40 million.

" 'It now appears from the final census results and a population profile constructed for the total population that wartime losses, including birth deficits, were between 40 and 50 million, approximately as great as the total population of France today.

" 'The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics probably has the largest proportion of widows of any country in the world. This helps to explain the omnipresence of older women in the labor force, many of whom perform jobs that men would do in the United States.

" 'Women comprise 57 per cent of the agricultural labor force on collective farms.

" 'The deficit of boys and girls between 10 and 19 reflects the war-time decline in fertility, and the high infant and child mortality of World War II and the years which immediately followed the war. For some years, these birth deficits will limit the annual number of new entrants into the labor force and the armed services.'

"Those quotations present our massive population losses, but these have greater meaning for us when the Soviet Union's population growth during the period from 1913 to 1959 is contrasted with that of the United States.

"In 46 years, our population grew from 160 million to 208.8 million — only a 30 per cent increase. In contrast, the population of the United States increased 80 per cent, growing from 97 million in 1913 to 176 million in 1959.

"So, because of two wars, we today have a more difficult problem than America. We don't want any more war. We want to make a full recovery from the effects of the last two wars—and to build a better standard of living for our own people.

"While we feel that today we must pay out big sums for defense, we can hope sometime soon for disarmament agreements with the West which shall reduce this cost immeasurably and truly bring peace to the world."

The Soviet premier didn't write or deliver the foregoing speech, but he could logically have made it. He, more than anyone else in the Soviet Union, knows that public opinion in his own country is against war.

As for the statistics about population losses, the Soviet premier could easily verify them with his own census date. The source of the figures and of the quoted analyses given above is the Population Reference Bureau, Inc., a nonprofit, private scientific, educational organization which gathers, analyzes and interprets population date.

It is directed by a group of public-spirited American citizens interested in the study of the facts about population in relation to world problems.

One, Two, Three, Four

By Truman Twill

It says in the paper he now must get back in shape for golf and other physical activities after being on the shelf since he strained his back planting a tree in Ottawa last May.

A muscle-man from New York will call at the White House three times a week from now on to help Mr. Kennedy get squared away.

This is one of those situations where two hearts beat as one, because I too am getting squared away and from now on my perspiration will be HIS perspiration and vice versa, except he doesn't know this and I do, which is the way the publicity crumbles.

The thing I am getting ready for differs, because golf is out of my line — and someday I want to look into this, because I never have known of a farmer who plays golf, which is a game tailored to shut-ins who need to get out in the open air. Farmers don't have this problem.

Whatever else our President is getting ready for probably differs, too, because I will bet the heaviest lamb in the Twillery flock that he is not getting ready for the sheep roundup that takes place each year at the end of the grazing season when a weekend sheep farmer separates the keepers from the sellers.

It is not an easy thing to explain.

It is a catch-as-catch-can free-for-all that takes place between a given number of hysterical sheep and one overmatched man, and what takes place between the beginning and the end is like explaining what happens when you jump off a freight train backward.

But the idea is to get the sheep corraled in a place too small for them to get up steam while the sheepherder gets up steam in a place too big for his resources.

When he thinks he's as ready as he ever will be, he wades into the flock and grabs the nearest woolly around the waist, simultaneously giving the thing an upward hoist in the hope it will be a good sport and come off the ground without complications, other than his own vertebraes snapping out of place because some of these characters weigh more than 100 pounds and have the agility and strength of mountain goats.

The object is to flop the animal on its back so it can be examined for a number of things, all of which it hopes to conceal. Thereafter, it must be stuffed into its proper pen — one for keepers, one for boy sellers, one for girl sellers and one for across-the-board sellers.

Each separate transaction is the equivalent of 27 holes of golf. Altogether, the fall roundup is the equivalent of all the golf John F. Kennedy will play between now and the end of his White House incumbency.

My hat is off to him for wanting to get in shape. My hat will be off a couple dozen times. That's the way it always goes. That's the reason it takes me so long to get in shape; I get soft and flabby just thinking about it.

In unison now, Mr. President—one, two, three, four—ugh. Four, three, two, one — blast off! The strenuous life is something we share in common, sir. If I had that muscle-man from New York, I'd let him sort the sheep and I'd stand at a safe distance and cheer.

Scarbeck Confession Read To U.S. Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Irvin C. Scarbeck, accused of passing secret documents to Polish Communist agents, said in a signed confession "prison in the United States would be more acceptable to me than a happy life in any other country."

The confession by Scarbeck, former second secretary in the American Embassy in Warsaw, was read Friday to a federal court jury. It was the third signed confession the jury has heard since Scarbeck's trial began three weeks ago.

The jury also has heard a 10-hour tape recording of an interogation of Scarbeck by a State Department security officer.

Dog Sees For Him

Man Gets 'New Eyes'

Harold Lockett, 931 Fairview St., has a new pair of eyes in "Gloria," a 20-month old German shepherd guide dog with which he recently returned from Columbus after training at Pilot Dogs, Inc.

Lockett, whose previous guide dog, "Perk" was crippled when struck by an auto, spent two weeks at the Columbus organization training with his new pal, boarding buses, coping with revolving doors and crossing busy intersections.

Lockett, who resides with a sister, Mrs. Maria Smith, has been retired since the loss of his sight. He formerly drove trucks and horses in town.

"Perk", a 10-year-old Doberman pinchser, still is with Lockett, but because of his damaged legs, cannot be worked, and Lockett does not permit the occasionally frisky "Gloria" to play with "Perk" in fear that the male may be hurt.

County Commissioner Frank Wilson of Wellsville provided transportation for Lockett to Columbus. While there, both man and dog enjoyed the companionship of other students and the facilities of the organization.

Pilot Dogs are supplied to worthy blind persons without charge, and all necessary expenses such as room and board, laundry, are paid.

The Pilot Guide Dog Foundation of Chicago, a non - profit organization, has the sole purpose to raise funds for providing guide dogs to the blind. Much of the foundation's help comes through a label savings plan with the Perk Foods Co. on its pet food products.

The program is also supported by contributions of the general public, Lion's Clubs and other organizations.

Lockett said the organization will train any pinscher, Weimaraner or shepherd under 2 years old if the animals are provided.

Salesman Robbed Of $40,000 In Gems

CLEVELAND (AP)—Normally, Herman Eldot, a 68-year-old jewelry salesman, would have left his leather case containing $40,000 to $50,000 worth of uncut diamonds in the hotel safe.

But Eldot was preparing to leave town, he told police after he was robbed Friday, so he had the case with him when he went to his room at the hotel Statler-Hilton.

Before he got to his room on the ninth floor, two men jumped him in the corridor, slugged him twice and fled with the case, Eldot told police.

Commission Seen Needed

Efforts For Colt League Described By Club Guest

Atty. Donald E. Smith, speaker at the Lions Club luncheon Friday, related his experiences in attempting to establish a Colt baseball league for boys over 15 and the need for establishment of a Municipal Recreation Commission to provide the continuity required in various athletic programs.

Smith said some six months' work, mailing of some 500 letters and many personal contacts succeeded in raising only $866 of the $3,000 sought for the field, which has been constructed at the city landfill site near Bloomfield.

The $3,000 would be a "capital investment" for the city that would be useful for years, but there now is a deficit of $2,045.

The funds would not be used for operation of the league since operational expenses would be furnished by five sponsors, who already have been secured and agreed to put up $400 each, he said.

The attorney said he believes it is mandatory that something should be done after hearing some boys complain they were unable to play since they were beyond 14.

The first objective seemed to be securing a site and building the field, which would have a grass infield and outfield and meet major league specifications, Smith said.

The site finally was located at the city's landfill and the administration gave its permission. He praised Mayor Bert Goodballet and the late Lee Copenhaver, then safety - service director, for their co-operation.

He also thanked the Plate Excavating Co. for donating equipment to work at the site.

Smith said the fund - raising experience seemed to be significant of the general attitude in East Liverpool, Chester, Newell and surrounding areas. The Hancock communities were included in the proposal because both would have boys in the league, he said.

He praised the operation of both the Little League and Pony League but said the city virtually abandons any youth over 14 interested in baseball until he becomes old enough to play with an adult team.

Although primarily for the Colt League, it was planned to have the American Legion Post 374 junior baseball team and the high school team utilize the field for their games.

It would be the first baseball field as such the city ever has had, Smith said, explaining Patterson Field and Columbian Park were not laid out for baseball.

The attorney also said a nonpartisan recreational program listing five objectives for the city to attain was presented to Mayor Goodballet but no action has been taken.

The program provided establishment of a youth recreational center, 14 playgrounds, eight baseball fields, a municipal boat dock and possible purchase of a municipal golf course over a 10-year period.

The only way for such a program to be achieved, he said, was to have it operated by a Municipal Recreation Commission which would be divorced from politics and could provide continuity. It would operate similarly to the Board of Public Utilities, which administers the operation of the water department.

Because of the need for funds, Smith said he contacted 25 persons who have opposed the city income tax and reported 17 said they would work and support the tax measure if some means could be found to provide in the legislation that a certain percentage would be used for recreational purposes.

He concluded by urging the club to back the program. Smith was introduced by Laurin Stacey, program chairman. The club met at the Travelers Hotel.

Library Gets Biographies Of Sinclair Lewis, Hearst

Two great figures of American life in the 20's have been immortalized in fine biographies recently added to the Carnegie Public Library, Miss Frances Jones, librarian, said.

From the author's youth as a rebel against smalltown materialism to his degenerate old age as a fabulously successful novelist, Schorer presents a realistic portrayal of Lewis.

An equally rambunctious contemporary was William Randolph Hearst. Lively anecdotes spark meticulous documentation in W. A. Swanberg's "Citizen Hearst." The publisher playboy's income was estimated as $15 million a year.

A quartet of historical novels will be welcomed for those who prefer the romantic past.

A Scribner's editor, Joseph Hopkins, writes of a young village doctor, John Frayne, in the time of the American Revolution in "Patriot's Progress."

Delving also in that same period is "Eagles Where I Walk" by Stephen Longstreet. Four of New York's famous families figure in "Eagles Wher I Walk," about three generations of the Van Cortlandts, the Philipses, the Schuylers and the Livingstons.

Lafayette emerges as the most beloved figure in Longstreet's novel. Blockade runners in the Civil War create an exciting plot for Hamilton Cochran in his novel, "The Dram Tree." Modern history is the backdrop for Howard Simpson in a stirring tale of the struggle for Indo-China, "To a Silent Valley."

An age-old theme, the struggle of good and evil, concerns the Australian novelist, Patrick White, in "Riders in the Chariot." One of the chief characters is a half-mad spinster who lives on an estate called Xanadu outside Sidney. That old perennial, Fannie Hurst, displays her characteristic compassion and uncompromising analysis of people in "God Must be Sad." A ranching family in the Nevada desert provide a compelling narrative in Ramona Stewart's "The Stars Abide."

In an entirely different vein than other books on this week's shelf are the imaginative and courageous activities of Michel Hollard, French Resistance leader. The author of "The Man Who Saved London" is George Martelli.

The devotion of pets for their masters is most amply demonstrated in the trek of three animals who traveled 250 miles across Canada to find their new home. The title is "The Incredible Journey" by Burford.

17 Paratroopers Injured In Jump

FT. JACKSON, S. C. (AP)—Seventeen paratroopers went to the hospital with injuries ranging from broken bones to bruises after a jump of more than 1,200 men at this Army reservation Friday.

None of the injuries to the members of the 82nd Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg, N. C., was serious. The number, however, was higher than the norm of less than one per cent injured in jumps.

The practice assault, called Operation Apache, was carried out against an "aggressor" force of about 200 Ft. Jackson soldiers. The jump was made by the 82nd's Second Airborne Battle Group, 501st Infantry.

Freeway Footprints Blamed On Children

Movie stars impress their footprints in cement at Gruman's Chinese in Hollywood but it's not a suitable practice for the city's freeway.

Parents were asked today to caution their children to stop defacing newly - poured concrete on the freeway in the West End.

Police Chief Americo Radeschi said youngsters have been tramping into the fresh cement and cutting their initials, forcing contractors to refinish the surface.

Any youngsters apprehended will be taken to City Hall and their parents summoned, the chief warned.

Facts You Should Know About Septic Tanks

A Septic Tank is actually the "stomach" of the disposal system, its purpose being to digest and liquefy the solids entering it, discharging liquids to the disposal area.

In general, Septic Tanks are constructed of steel or concrete, varying in size from 500 to 10,000 gallon capacities. Correctly made and installed, they form an airtight and watertight chamber.

The inlet carries the raw sewage into the first chamber of the tank. Most of the solids will settle to the bottom of this chamber, developing bacterial colonies which "feed" on these solids. This bottom layer is termed, "sludge". A crust or "mat" will usually form on the top, this being composed mainly of grease and fatty substances which have a tendency to float. The second chamber enables further clarification of the water prior to passing out to the drainage area. Water leaving a Septic Tank is referred to as "effluent".

Septic Tanks will operate satisfactorily as long as the "mat" and "sludge" do not build up to the point where they start feeding through into the second chamber, and then out to the drainage area. Unfortunately, most people wait until the system "back-ups", which means that the tank is completely clogged and that large amounts of solids have passed through with the effluent.

Most Septic Tank failures are caused by (1) introduction of chemicals which destroy the bacteria life, (2) overloading, i.e., putting more into the tank in any 24-hr. period than its designed capacity, (3) temperature changes which slow down the bacterial digestion, and (4) excessive use of greases and fats.

Regular use of "SEA-CAL", preferably combined with an initial "seeding" of the tank with "SEA-CAL" will usually eliminate all of the problems by introducing powerful glandular enzymes which accelerate the digestive action and prevent the passage of solids to the drainage area. Enzymes, such as are used in "SEA-CAL", are also extremely resistant to temperature and pH changes, and the addition of millions of bacterial cultures (80,000,000 per gram) in SEA-CAL replaces the bacterial colonies that may have been destroyed.

It would be untrue to state that a Septic Tank need never be pumped, since sewage can only be digested to a point of "ash" and the introduction of inorganic materials, such as sand, grit, metal, and glass, will create a build-up over a period of time that will have to be removed. However, with regular monthly treatments of SEA-CAL, these pumpings should occur only at ten or twenty-year intervals.

PROMINENT MEN OF FAITH

Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg, D.D.

"There are deep moving tides of spirit carrying us along," said Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg of his communion alone in a rowboat on a lake "relaxed beneath the stars of God." For over 30 years the minister of the Delmar Baptist Church in St. Louis has prayed an entire vacation night on a lake, desert, plain, by a sea.

Yet, believing "There are times when we need to pull our oars with all our might," he has visited foreign mission fields, refugee centers, and armed forces overseas. He was awarded the Gandhi Peace Prize.

Rev. Dahlberg's church belongs to both the Northern and Southern Baptist Conventions. He headed the American Baptist Convention; was on the Executive Committee of the World Baptist Alliance; and was the first Baptist to be elected President of the National Council of Churches of Christ.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

The Joy Of Walking

A French businessman, an old friend of mine, made his first visit to the United States. I invited him to my house for dinner and of course put to him the usual question, "What impresses you most about our country?" "Nobody walks," was the immediate and surprising answer. "It's amazing," he continued. "My wife and I go out for our usual walk, but nobody else is walking. But we get our exercise all right," he grinned. "We get it dodging all you Americans in cars."

DR. PEALE

I had never thought of it before, but decided that my French friend had put his finger on a fact. Perhaps we shall go down in history as the soft - legged generation. I don't know how far you can press the matter, but there could be a relationship between soft legs and soft heads.

Anyway, this set me to thinking — so when I came back to Switzerland where I've been coming for vacations for a number of years I noted once again that everyone was out on the mountain paths and meadow walks and river promenades with a rucksack on the back and a sturdy metal-pointed walking stick in hand.

I decided I was as hardy as the Swiss, Germans, French and Italians trudging up and down the steep slopes with legs like pistons. "Where," I asked resolutely, "do they get this notion that an American can't walk, that he is soft in the legs? I'll show them, and I'll show myself, too!"

IT HAPPENED that my daughter Elizabeth, age 19, my wife Ruth, a little over 50 (I hope she doesn't read this), and myself, 63, were up at the Gorner Grat, 10,000 feet elevation, opposite the shoulder of the Matterhorn. It was really cold that August day — about 40 degrees Fahrenheit with snow all around. The air was crisp and stimulating, and when you were out of the wind the sun felt balmy.

We started down by mountain train to Zermatt, but when we came to Rifelalp I told Elizabeth and Ruth that there was a nice little tea chalet there so we got off. Near the chalet was a path leading down, and the sign read, "1 std (stunden), i.e. one hour to Zermatt." A Swiss with whom I talked assured me it was a nice easy path mostly through woods. "Let's walk and toughen ourselves up," I said.

We set off down the path. I've since had many discussions with walkers as to which is the touchest, walking down a steep grade or plodding up. Personally I favor up-walking, for when you trudge a long distance downward, especially over rocks and roots and sliding on pebbles, your legs, if soft, sure let you know they're not used to it.

I SOON learned to add to the figures on those encouraging sign posts which give you the walking time, for it was two hours and thirty minutes later that we stumbled across the final meadow and babbling stream into the chalet-lined streets of Zermatt. Off long since had come, coat, sweater, even shirt; tie was dangling out of pants pocket. I had to admit it — here was one American whose legs were soft.

"Daddy," opined Elizabeth with Mt. Holyoke thoughtfulness, "maybe our heads are soft also for taking a professional mountain walker's hike the first time out."

"Don't believe a word of it. Whose legs are soft?" I demanded as I wobbled painfully into my hotel. I bought a big bag of Epsom salts, dumped an ample portion of it into a hot bath, and boy, did my poor old muscles feel good! But next morning when I got out of bed! Well, I stumbled down to the drugstore and bought some liniment in a box which promised in three languages, French, German and English, that this ointment would penetrate, and penetrate it did, nearly taking the skin off in the process.

But the spirit of the rugged pioneer was not dead, for I got myself a metal-pointed walking stick. It sure helps in leaning. And I went back, muscles groaning, that very day at the mountain paths, only this time mostly up so as to work another set of muscles.

Believe me, those muscles realized that a determined spirit was set upon mastering them. And another half-dozen Epsom salt baths late they settled down and have been working fine ever since. If I say so myself, I can keep up pretty well with most of the walkers I meet. At least, my legs aren't soft any more. Can't say about the head. I must add that Elizabeth and Ruth (women, just think of it — women!) didn't need the penetrating liniment at all.

WALKING ISN'T as simple or easy as you might think. There's a real art to it. My friends, Max and Emily Schwab of Palm Springs, Calif., were with us. Max is a native - born Swiss and he and Emily are real walkers. Max taught us how to do it.

The idea is to plod with springy step, getting a bit of rhythm into your movements and just go at it steady and easy like. And it's important to know how to breathe on an up grade; two short inhalations, not deep — maybe about half lung. Then forcibly, even rather noisily expel. Keep this up until the grade lessens. Then breathe deeply, but easily a few times. By this method I was amazed to find that I could plod up long steep grades with nary a puff.

But the physical reactions and effects don't tell the whole story about walking. It's the slow paced and intimate communion with nature that satisfies you the most. You plod upward or downward along a swiftly - moving mountain stream which surges fresh and cold from the enormous glaciers between the snowy mountain peaks that are always above you.

This stream may assume various forms, sometimes as a surging torrent among the rocks of a deep gorge, and at another point dancing down a mountainside under trees through which sunshine sparkles on its surface, making it look for all the world like lace in motion.

You stop to make friends with a cow and listen to his dangling bell; you watch a farmer high on a towering mountainside slide a bunch of hay down a singing wire. Then, hot and deliciously tired, you rest at a rather primitive farm chalet and refresh yourself with rich creamy milk, listening meanwhile to a waterfall which arches out over a 1,000-foot drop from the Breithorn towering above you.

I was in complete agreement with a charming Swiss couple whom we met on the path at the far end of Lauterbrunnen Valley. "Up here," they said, "you discover nature and God and yourself." Indeed, there is joy and wisdom too in walking.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

When I talk to God I'm sure He listens. I'm too young to realize there is such a thing as a skeptic.

I admire the convictions of my Mother and Father. They have shown me by their example that they live what they believe.

Because I've learned to trust and depend on those who love me, I haven't any silly illusion of self-sufficiency. It makes sense to trust and depend on God.

I'm proud and happy that I'm a Christian—so I'm not afraid someone might laugh at me for believing the Truth.

But, of course, my faith is no accident. I'm in Church every Sunday to worship God. Religious training is a major part of my education. I'm one of the millions of Christian youngsters who are the hope of this frightened world.

And when I talk to God, I don't just talk to Him about ME. I talk to Him about YOU!

Community Fund Only Source

District Now Has 1,556 Girl Scouts

The operation of the East Liverpool Area Girl Scout Council depends solely on funds received through the annual Community Fund campaign now in progress.

The only other monies available to the council are the small profits realized from the annual cookie sale, it is pointed out in this article of a series about agencies aided by the Community Fund.

Currently, there are 1,556 Girl Scouts in the council with 1,069 from East Liverpool, 225 from Wellsville, 171 from Chester and 91 from Newell. In addition, there are more than 500 adult volunteer workers active in the area program.

MANY OF these adults are also serving now as workers in the fund campaign and are especially aware of the importance of continuing and expanding the Girl Scout program.

The entire Girl Scout program is based on reverence and respect for God and Country and a friendship for all peoples. The girls are taught to be self-reliant, to be creative, and to be aware of their duties and responsibilities as citizens.

LOCAL Girl Scouts are fortunate in having an expanded summer-fun program. They own and operate the Bryan Recreation Center in Dixonville and Camp Echo Dell on the Bell School Rd. The Bryan Center is open year-round for all Girl Scouts for various activities. Camp Echo Dell is used primarily for older girls.

The expansion of these camping facilities is the most recent accomplishment of the council. As the result of years of planning, cabins have been erected with built-in bunk beds to accommodate 24 girls, and a large outdoor pavilion, with indoor and outdoor fireplaces, tables and benches for up to 75, is now a part of camp facilities.

All troops use Echo Dell for picnics and all-day outings, but a supervised four-day camping program is offered girls of 13 years and older. For only $1 per girl, the program provides sleeping accommodations and food for the four days and the supervision of trained camp personnel.

WHILE facilities at the Bryan Recreation Center are available the year-round to all Girl Scouts, it is operated during June for Brownie Scouts, 7 through 10. For only $2 per girl, the council provides transportation to and from the camp and the Bus Terminal, trained supervision, a trained nurse, milk daily, one cook - out meal and program and handicraft supplies.

Girl Scouts acquire knowledge and skill in a large variety of creative arts and crafts through a continuing year-round program within the troops. Training courses in these arts and crafts are periodically available for the adult leaders.

Intermediate Girl Scouts, 10 through 13, have a rank and badge program. It provides a progressive educational program in scouting. There are four ranks—tenderfoot, second class, first class and the highest award—the Curved Bar.

PROFICIENCY badges are designed to develop depty of knowledge and skill in a specific subject, in contrast to the rank's purpose in creating interest in a variety of subjects.

Senior Girl Scouts follow a specialized program, designed primarily to provide opportunities for service to the community. But all program-levels, Brownie, Intermediate or Senior, give year-long community service to the hospitals, nursing homes and to shut-ins, etc. They participate in any community projects to which they are invited, provided it is not injurious to their health or safety.

WITHIN THE various troops, weekly dues is based on the ability of the girls to pay and varies from 5 to 10 cents. Uniforms are not compulsory, but they do serve to identify the girls (and adults) as members of the vast family of Girl Scouts.

Right now, there are two deterrents to membership expansion—the need for more adult leaders and additional funds to finance their training courses. Adult women are needed as troop leaders, assistants, committee members and program consultants. Leaders must be at least 21 and assistants 18 or older.

THE PRESENT Board of Directors of the council consists of 35 area women, who represent all local racial or religious groups, and every community within East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Newell and suburbs. The local program, spearheaded by the late Mrs. J. A. Bryan, began just 18 years ago, but today over 2,000 girls and women are benefiting from its activities.

Funds are needed to continue these efforts and to expand the program to include still more young people. The council has a modest budget for the coming year, a total of only $13,290, to cover all administrative and property-maintenance expenses. This is the amount needed from the Community Fund campaign now in progress if the Girl Scout program is to continue in this area.

Dedication Will Be Sunday For Salineville Monument

SALINEVILLE — Dedication of a new granite monument to veterans, replacing the former wooden honor roll, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2.

The grey granite monument was delivered about a week ago by the Logue Monument Co. of Salem, which donated it through the efforts of Mrs. Effie Potts, 103 W. Main St., one of the village's oldest citizens and who is interested in civic affairs.

The stone is located at the High Bridge opposite the Post Office at the site of the former honor roll, which was damaged in a windstorm earlier this year.

A new flag of 50 stars, donated by Mrs. Walter Lange, will be flown Sunday for the first time.

State Rep. Warren Bettis will be speaker at the ceremony, arranged by Mrs. Besse VanRoyen, president of the Mothers Service Club.

The auxiliary of American Legion Post 442 is in charge of the landscaping, and floral arrangements have been donated by Jay Cater, William Stackhouse, and Allison Greenhouse, local florists.

The dedication will begin with posting of colors by the American Legion. The Salineville High School band will play, and prayer will be given by Gerald Finnie of the Church of Christ and the Rev. William Buell of the Methodist Church.

Transfer Propane Gas

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP)—Workmen late Friday night completed the transfer of 8,750 gallons of explosive propane gas from an overturned tanker truck to another tanker. Interstate 75 north of Sidney was blocked off most of the day until the delicate operation was finished. The tanker truck failed to make a curve on the highway. The tanker portion broke loose and rolled down an embankment, but the driver was not hurt.

Air Pollution Control Planned For Beaver

BEAVER — The Beaver County Commissioners passed a resolution Thursday approving air pollution control.

It was reported that James Ross, commissioner chairman, and Kay Kluz, director of United Steelworkers District 20, were named Wednesday by Gov. David Lawrence to the Air Pollution Central Association for Region 3, which includes Beaver County and several others.

Commissioners also recommended to the county housing authority that a sub-standard area of Ohio Township, along Route 68 west of Midland, be improved with a housing project.

Four Fired, 18 Suspended By Canton's Mayor

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Mayor Charles L. Babcock fired four men and suspended 18 Friday in answer to a state examiner's report on payroll violations.

He also accused City Auditor Joseph DuBar of "gross neglect of duty" in keeping records, but said he did not "intend at this time" to file charges against his May primary election opponent.

Fired were former street superintendent Robert W. Hinten, timekeeper George Vince and laborers Frank J. Forchione and Louns O. Reolfi, all of whom were cited in the examiners' report.

Hinten had been demoted following an investigation made by the Democratic mayor at the time the examiners were here.

The examiners' report cited payroll violations dealing with sick leave pay, time card irregularities, gambling activities in the street department, political sign painting allegedly done on city time and snow removal from private property by city equipment and workers.

The report asked the city solicitor to recover $10,371 is said was illegally paid to workers.

Tigers Battle To Wire But Lose 16-8 In Fourth Quarter

Potters Show Letdown In 4th Loss

The Review Sports
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1961 PAGE 11

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Lacking a consistent offense and showing a big gap defensively, the East Liverpool Potters bowed, 20-6, to an invading Akron Central eleven Friday night at Patterson Field before a slim crowd of 2,500.

It was Central's first victory of the season.

Coach Bob Hedmond, following his team's fourth loss in six games, was the first to admit that the Potters didn't display the same fire that won them a decision over Youngstown Rayen just a week ago.

Meanwhile, veteran coach Felix Latona of Akron Central said "it feels great to win that first one." Latona and his squad had experienced three defeats and one tie before coming here.

It was too much Gary Gump, who has the potential of becoming a fine college quarterback, "Jumpin" Johnny Johnson and ball control.

GUMP DID about everything. His advanced billing showed he was an outstanding passer, but his running ability was just as dangerous.

Gump, a 200-pound quarterback, flipped a 12-yard touchdown pass to John Johnson, scored on a 48-yard run himself and was the bread and butter man on three different fourth down situations when Akron gambled for yardage and won.

Each time the Wildcats gambled it was Gump who dealt the cards and pushed his way for valuable yardage on quarterback sneaks.

Johnson scored two TD's, the other coming on an 11-yard sprint in the fourth period.

Baker dashed around the right side from one yard out to climax a 56-yard drive. The Potter signal caller was stopped on the conversion try when he tried to pass, but ended up keeping the ball.

—:—

THE POTTERS met a line about their size, but couldn't do too much with it. After gaining over 300 yards in the Rayen game, the Potters were held to a net of 33 yards last night.

Baker, who was chased out of the passing pocket many times was thrown for losses on several occasions.

Central, coming up with its top performance of the season, rolled up 17 first downs and a net of 295 yards on the ground. The Wildcats ran 58 plays to East Liverpool's 33.

Gump passed nine times and completed three for 33 yards, giving Central a total offense of 328.

The big play of the drive was a 31-yard pass from Baker to end Jim Richardson, which carried to the Central 19.

Central came back and drove 84 yards in 22 plays, with Gump hitting Johnson on a 12-yard touchdown pass with 6:35 remaining in the second quarter. A pass for the conversion failed.

In the drive, Gump on two different occasions, once at midfield, gambled on fourth down and picked up the necessary yardage himself.

EAST LIVERPOOL was handed a golden opportunity early in the third period. Akron was forced to punt for only the second time of the evening, and Len Johnson of Central, attempting to kick, saw Bob Parsons rushing in hard, tried to run with the ball but slipped and fell on his own 38-yard line.

This brought the Potter fans to their feet, but three plays later fullback Jerry Bell fumbled on the Central 22-yard line and Bill Brant recovered for the visitors.

Late in the third quarter, Akron took over on its own 29 and the march was on for another TD. In 10 plays Central moved to the Potters 11-yard line, from where the elusive Johnson ripped up the middle for his second touchdown. Gump ran the conversion with 10:52 remaining in the contest for a 14-6 lead.

A Baker-to-Richardson pass, good for 25 yards, carried East Liverpool into Akron territory on the 31 as the Potters started their last bid.

Central's line, however, drove the Potters back to halt any threat and Akron took over on its own 47-yard line.

The Potters got their hands on the ball for the last time but were forced to punt.

Cumberland Wins, 40-20, Over Rams

Once-beaten New Cumberland High scored five touchdowns in the first half to coast to a 40-20 victory over visiting South Side Friday night.

New Cumberland went to work early, building up a 34-6 halftime lead on the way to the triumph.

Katzenmeyer scored touchdowns on runs of 45- 39 and one yard, tossed a 20-yard pass to end Ken Freshwater for another and booted three extra points in the greatest point-producing night of his scholastic career.

Also joining in the Blue Raider scoring parade were halfback Ed Wudarsky, who tallied on a two-yard run, and fullback Allen Pettit, who scored on a 35-yard run. Pettit also plunged for one conversion.

South Side (3-3) came through with single scores in every period but the first.

Wilbur King scored the first TD for the Rams on a two-yard run, while Curtis Clay added another on a three-yard buck. Quarterback Chuck Schmidt passed to end Bob Malone for South Side's first conversion.

Ram tackle Kifling made one of the most sensational runs of the game, scooting 75 yards with a New Cumberland fumble in the final period. King bucked over for the conversion.

New Cumberland showed a 14-10 edge in first downs and an edge of 320 to 266 in yards gained. Katzenmeyer completed six of eight passes, while South Side failed to complete any of seven.

Beery's 89-Yard Return Sparks Quakers

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Underdog Wellsville High, held in check by costly penalties and a key injury, turned in one of its best games of the season Friday night but bowed to Salem, 16-8.

The Tigers gave up a touchdown on the opening kickoff, then proceeded to battle their rivals on even terms before succumbing to superior manpower and an apparent "jinx."

Outplayed in the first half, Salem High used quarterback Bill Beery's 89-yard kickoff return to gain an early edge, then capitalized on favorable breaks to gain the 18th consecutive victory over the Tigers.

Beery's dazzling run on the opening kickoff proved to be the deciding factor of a rugged, fast-moving game which otherwise might have ended in a tie.

The Quakers had posted an 8-0 lead with only 14 seconds elapsed in the first quarter as Beery weaved his way through fine blocking and raced from his own 11-yard stripe to the end zone practically untouched by a defender.

Wellsville battled back to tie the score at 8-8 on quarterback Roger Ours' five-yard skirt around right end, and his pass to end Andy Dash for the conversion, with 10:25 left in the second quarter.

The touchdown which broke the tie and gave victory to Salem didn't come easy and followed some evenly-matched football.

It came with 10:13 left in the game after the invaders had marched 75 yards in a series of 14 plays. Halfback Dave Edling bucked one-yard for the score and Jim Gibb crashed over for his second conversion to provide the eight-point margin of victory.

Between the opening whistle and the final play there were some fine moments for Woods' Tiger squad.

Fullback John Euill turned in a standout performance in spearheading Wellsville's ground attack. The 170-pound senior gained 133 yards in 19 carries, his longest being 30 yards.

The steady play of Wellsville's forward wall drew praise from Tiger Coach Woods. From end-to-end the line blocked and tackled hard and threw Salem backs for losses totaling 25 yards.

An injury in the first half to halfback Alvin Thompson, leading scorer and a key in the secondary defense, proved costly for Wellsville. He sat out the last two quarters, his tackling and pass defending skills missed visibly.

The Wellsville line contained for the most part any inside rushing attempts, but halfback Dave Edling of Salem proved a hard runner to stop once he got started to the outside.

In 21 carries, Edling, 152-pound senior, picked up 135 yards, an average of 6.4. Fullback Bob Owens, subbing for the injured regular Fred Kaiser, gained 38 yards in nine carries.

Wellsville turned to passing for a large part of its offensive attack, and Ours succeeded on hitting six of 17. Halfback Mark Leyda hauled in one for a 57-yard gain, and made a diving catch of another. Ours also hit Frank Luckino for a 17-yard gainer.

Playing yeoman roles on the Tiger line were regulars Andy Dash and Jack Culp, ends, tackles Alvin Jackson and Mike Thompson, guards Mike Rubino and Roger Miller, and center Jack Cataldo. Thompson went most of the way although slowed by a leg injury.

The defeat was Wellsville's fourth in seven games. Salem is now 5-2 for the year.

Palestine Defeated By Minerva, 20-0

Unbeaten Minerva High came up with an important victory in Tri-County League action Friday night, blanking East Palestine, 20-0.

The defeat, only the second in league play in five years for East Palestine, seriously jeopardizes the Bulldogs' chances of repeating as league champions.

Minerva moved into a deadlock for first place in the league with Poland, each having 4-0 records. Poland, however, was favored to defeat Leetonia in a battle this afternoon at 2.

Minerva capitalized on a faulty punt and an intercepted pass to put the damper on East Palestine's bid for its sixth straight loop crown, or at least a share of it.

The Lions (7-0) packed all their scoring into the second quarter, and a stiff defense blanked the Bulldogs the remaining quarters that were waged fairly evenly.

Folllowing a short punt by East Palestine, the Lions registered again on a one-yard buck and Frank Haynam added the conversion.

Bingham intercepted a pass and went 37 yards for Minerva's final touchdown.

East Palestine's only league loss in five seasons past came in 1959 and Minerva also was the villain then, winning 14-6.

Columbiana KO's Sebring In 44-6 Rout

COLUMBIANA — Columbiana didn't even need homecoming as an incentive after digging into Sebring for a 44-6 victory here Friday night.

Pretty Miss Becky Way reigned as homecoming queen after being crowned at halftime by Dave Garrod, Columbiana's football captain.

The Clippers posted two first period touchdowns and were on their way to their fourth victory in six outings.

Dale Murphy scored twice on runs of five and three yards, while Randy Miller opened the scoring on an eight-yard dash. Dave Bailey scored one TD himself from two yards out and passed to Dave Gerrod for a 25-yard scoring play. Jeff Lindsey accounted for the final touchdown, but his 80-yard run was the most electrifying.

Fred O'Donnell passed 35 yards to Gary Erb for Sebring's lone touchdown.

Louisville Gains 14-6 Verdict Over Blue Devils

LISBON — Lisbon bowed to Louisville, 14-6, as the visitors chalked up their third Tri-County victory here Friday night.

The Leopards drew first blood by scoring on a 70-yard run by halfback Bill Givens. Larry Miller's conversion made it 8-0 in the first quarter.

Lisbon bounced back when Gary Peruihetti sprinted 10 yards for the touchdown later in the opening quarter. A pass for the extra points failed.

Perkins Seeks Junior Welter Crown Tonight

But without yet stepping into the ring for their scheduled 15-round match, they are practically killing each other with kindness. Each feels he will win, though the latest odds give the edge to Loi.

Loi, 32, considered the best fighter Italy ever had, said he felt edgy.

Although "confident of winning," he said the 24-year-old American Negro "has shown too much consideration for me, as a fighter and as a man."

Perkins accepted without a word of protest two postponements of the fight asked by Loi, ailing the first time from a sprained arm and the second from an intestinal disturbance.

Chester Edges Crestview, 13-6; Stanton Rolls At Newell

Myers And Jarvis Net Touchdowns

Coach Dom Amedeo's forces notched their third win in seven starts while Crestview absorbed its fourth loss in six outings.

Jim Cosgrove intercepted a Crestview pass on the Chester 42-yard line with 13 seconds remaining. George Bebout then hit fullback Ralph Rossy with a pass that carried to the Crestview nine-yard line with Rossy going out of bounds to stop the clock with two seconds left in the first half.

With only time for one play, Bebout flipped a short pass to halfback Bob Myers for the touchdown. A run for the extra point was stopped.

Following a scoreless third quarter, Larry Jarvis picked up a Crestview fumble on the Chester 47 and ran to the visitors' 21. A few plays later Jarvis, who set it up, tallied from one-yard away. Don Reese passed to Kelse Johnson for the 13th point.

Chester's second touchdown came with 10:11 remaining in the contest. With 3:54 left, Skip Campbell scampered over from seven yards away to climax a 70-yard march turned in by Crestview.

The New Waterford eleven then drove to the Chester 30 after intercepting a pass, but Chester picked off a Crestview pass in the last minute to kill the scoring threat.

Sugar's 11-5 Favorite In TV Battle Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been six years since Sugar Ray Robinson fought twice within a month. That was in 1955 when he began his first comeback and it wound up with Robinson regaining the middleweight title.

Since then Sugar Ray has won the middleweight crown twice more and lost it thrice. At the moment, at 41 and fading, he still hopes to grab a piece of the middleweight crown for the sixth time.

Robinson makes his second start within the past 30 days tonight as an 11-5 favorite over 22-year-old Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore. They clash in a television—ABC-TV 9 p.m., EST—ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The Harlem dandy didn't look impressive in his last outing against easy-to-hit Wilfie Greaves at Detroit, Sept. 25. Robinson was dropped and had to rally to gain a split decision.

Robinson's punch isn't as lethal as it used to be and he no longer can unload combination punches in clusters of four, five and six.

Downes of London and Fullmer of West Jordan are coholders of the world middleweight championship. Downes has New York, Massachusetts and European recognition. Fullmer is recognized by the NBA.

Robinson's record is 144-9-3 including 93 knockouts. He is ranked fifth among the contenders. Moyer, ranked ninth, has a 30-5 record, including eight KOs.

Play-Bearers Near Bottom As Receivers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Clarke and Gern Nagler, the Cleveland Browns' slot ends, have served as coach Paul Brown's play-bearing messengers most of the season, but both are near the end of the line when it comes to pass receiving.

They have caught only eight passes between them although one or the other is in on every play on offense. There are no records to show how many passes have been thrown in their direction.

Milt Plum's favorite target so far this season has been Ray Renfro, with Jim Brown a close second. Renfro has caught 21 passes for 336 yards and Brown has taken 20 for 138 yards.

Others ahead of the slot ends in the receiving department are Bobby Mitchell, with 14 catches for 137 yards, and Rich Kreitling, with nine for 99 yards.

However, Brown doesn't attach any particular significance to the figures.

"The slot ends are the prime receivers on certain plays," he said Friday as the Browns prepared for the game with the Steelers in Pittsburgh Sunday. "It depends a lot on the defense. One of these afternoons you may find Gern or Leon catching a whole flock of passes . . .

Navy's Rally Beats Detroit By 37 To 19

By The Associated Press

With Detroit again thwarted in its bid to gain national recognition, the college football focus Saturday centered on Notre Dame's attempt to return to the top of the heap against mighty Michigan State.

Navy, after blowing a 13-0 lead, surged from behind a 19-16 third period deficit with three quick touchdowns and spoiled Detroit's unbeaten season 37-19 in the top game Friday night.

The Titans, hampered by first period jitters, relied on the passing arm of Jerry Gross, one of the nation's top college quarterbacks, to forge their third period lead.

Gross, who entered the game No. 2 among the nation's total offense leaders, hit Larry Vargo with strikes of 6, 10 and 26 yards to wipe out Navy's early lead.

Dick Drummond scored four touchdowns, including an 86-yard kickoff return, to spark George Washington to a 49-12 rout of William and Mary in the only other major game.

The effort of Notre Dame, unbeaten in three and ranked fifth in the nation, to regain its former stature against top-ranked Michigan State claimed most of the attention today.

Michigan State, which gained the top spot of its victory over Michigan last week, is unbeaten and holds the favorite's role.

Four Southeastern Conference battles and the game that may produce the Southwest Conference champion head the remainder of the schedule.

Mississippi, unhappy at being holted out of its No. 1 rating, opens serious defense of its Southeastern title against four-touchdown underdog Tulane (1-3). Ole Miss (4-0) fell to the No. 2 spot despite its 47-7 frolic against Houston.

Alabama, ranked fifth in the latest Associated Press poll and unbeaten in four games, goes against Tennessee. Georgia Tech (No. 8) takes on Auburn and Louisiana State, tied for the No. 10 spot with Arkansas, plays Kentucky.

Third-ranked Texas sends its powerful offense against Arkansas in a match that could produce the Cotton Bowl host on New Year's day.

Grafton Stings Fairmont East's Bees, 14 To 13

By The Associated Press

Fairmont East fell from the ranks of the unbeaten last night's state high school football action, but two other all-winning Class AAA elevens kept their records spotless.

The Bees lost their first game in seven starts, 14-13, when Grafton scored a touchdown and added the winning extra point with just seven seconds left in the game.

Huntington (7-0) splashed its way to a fumble-marred 14-12 victory over Logan in a game played in the rain and mud at Logan.

St. Albans, the top-ranked team in the state, belted Huntington East, 25-0.

Mount Hope, tied with Williamson for the Class AA lead, won its seventh straight, 13-0, over Man. Williamson's game with Wayne was postponed until tonight.

New Martinsville continued undefeated among Class AA squads with a 38-7 victory over Warwood. Spencer ran its record to 6-0 by beating West Union, 35-7.

Winfield, the Class A pacesetter, won its seventh straight, 31-6, over Fort Gay. Williamstown and Middlebourne, (both unbeaten), played to a 13-13 deadlock.

Bears, Dallas Face Crucial Tests Sunday

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago and Dallas face make-or-break contests Sunday, challenging major obstacles in their fight to stay alive in the National Football League title chase.

The Bears take on powerful San Francisco, coleader in the West, while Dallas plays host to defending champion Philadelphia, coleader in the East.

A victory by either the Bears or the Cowboys would put them very much in the running. A loss would leave them only a long-shot chance at the division titles. Each has a 3-2 mark and is tied for third in their divisions.

The Bears, who have won three of their last four, must stop San Francisco's powerful, whirling shotgun offense that features three alternating quarterbacks. San Francisco's defense has allowed only 57 points in five games—second best in the league.

Dallas will rely on its fine pass defense that has come up with 14 interceptions, to discourage Sonny Jurgensen's tosses to ace receivers Pete Retzlaff, Tommy McDonald and Bobby Walston.

The Eagles sport a 4-1 mark and are tied with New York for the Eastern lead.

The Giants, fresh off an all-winning four-game road trip, begin a five-game home stand facing a Los Angeles Rams squad that may be better than its 1-4 mark would indicate.

"There's not much difference between 4-1 and 1-4 when you still have nine games to play," New York Coach Al Sherman said.

Each team is expected to alternate quarterbacks. New York has veterans Charlie Conerly and Y. A. Tittle, while the Rams use Zeke Bratkowski and Frank Ryan. Sherman has not yet announced his starter.

Other games pit powerful Green Bay (4-1), coleader in the West, against the Minnesota Vikings (1-4); Cleveland (3-2) is at Pittsburgh (1-4), St. Louis (2-3) at Washington (0-5) and Baltimore (2-3) at Detroit (3-2).

Plan Against Attack Now, Speaker Says

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—There is a need to plan now "to assure that state and local government will be preserved and will continue to function effectively" in the event of an enemy attack, a federal consultant told a group of Civil Defense, city and county officials here Friday.

The consultant, Francis X. Dooley, who is in the continuity of government office of emergency planning in the executive office of President Kennedy, urged that Ohio voters pass a constitutional amendment Nov. 7 that would authorize providing for emergency continuity of government in the event of attack. Dooley said 32 states have taken action on this type of legislation.

Mills Stands Out In Irons Victory

It was "Bob Mills night" at Newell Friday when the veteran signal caller showed up all over the field to pace Stanton Local in a 46-0 victory over a crippled Newell squad.

Mills scored two touchdowns and passed for another pair as Stanton rebounded for its sixth win of the season after suffering its only defeat last week to Springfield.

Two first period touchdowns set Newell on its heels. Mills ran 66 yards to start the rout and then flipped a pass to Curt Rose for the conversion.

Before the first quarter was over John Pearson scampered 34 yards for a TD and Stan Wickham tacked on the conversion.

Mills had a hand in both touchdowns scored in the second quarter. He passed to Rose on a play covering 36 yards and then turned around and intercepted a pass and raced 63 yards for his second touchdown of the evening.

A fumble by Newell on the second half kickoff gave Stanton the ball in Viking territory and Mills passed to Wickham on a touchdown play good for 35 yards.

With substitutes filling the Stanton lineup, Jim Pilutti raced 18 yards for another third period touchdown.

Newell's deepest drive carried to the Stanton 15-yard line in the final quarter.

The Vikings have now dropped seven straight.

Next week Stanton will meet Brilliant Thursday night at 7:30 on the Irondale gridiron. The game was moved up due to a teachers' meeting involving Stanton Local.

Wilt Loops 57 Points As Philly Tops Lakers

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain is off and running in the national Basketball Association scoring derby with 103 points in the first two games of the season.

The Stilt poured through 57 points Friday night to lead the Philadelphia Warriors over the Los Angeles Lakers, 122-115 in the only NBA action of the day. The day before Wilt picked up 46 as the Warriors lost to the Lakers, 118-113.

The Warriors, who took the lead permanently in the first period, had to withhold a late surge by the Lakers. The third quarter ended with the Warriors holding an 88-86 advantage.

Wilt's total on 24 field shots and 9 of 17 free throws broke his own record of 56 for Philadelphia's Convention Hall. The Stilt's personal game high is 67.

Four games are scheduled today, with New York and Philadelphia meeting in the afternoon television game of the week and Detroit at Boston, Chicago at Syracuse and Cincinnati at St. Louis tonight.

AFL Contest Postponed By Storm Threat

BOSTON (AP) — The first weather-forced postponement in the two-year history of the American Football League sends the Boston Patriots against the Buffalo Bills Sunday afternoon.

The Eastern Division clubs originally had been scheduled to meet Friday night at Boston University Field. The postponement was based on the threat posed by tropical storm Gerda.

Boston club President Bill Sullivan conferred with AFL Commission Joe Foss and Buffalo owner Ralph Wilson prior to making the announcement. Foss made the decision to postpone the game.

Buffalo is riding the crest of two straight victories over Houston and Dallas behind the direction of its new quarterback tandem of M.C. Reynolds and Warren Rabb.

Boston had managed only a tie in its last three starts despite a scoring output of 88 points.

In other league games Sunday, San Diego is at Oakland, New York is at Denver and Dallas is at Houston.

Lonesome Girl Turns To Overeating

Compulsive eating is always an attempt to make up for something that is missing in life. One can recognize that "stuffing like a pig" only makes matters worse, and still not know how to go about changing. A young woman who signs herself "Desperate" writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"I know there's not much you can do to help me, but I really am desperate. I simply cannot lose weight. I've read your column for years...it hasn't helped. I know about nutrition and the psychology of dieting but I can't lose. I just don't care anymore. I would like to be thin but I lack motivation.

"I live in the country right now and I don't see any boys. It is very boring here because I don't get along with my family and I don't have any friends. In short, I'm lonesome.

"ALL I DO is eat all day long and mother encourages me to eat instead of helping me to diet. I was slender when I was young, but went on some starvation diets to become thin. Then I ate so much afterwards I became bloated like a pig.

"I feel like a pig too. I just don't care. I stuff myself until I am sick and I don't really enjoy eating so much. When I'm not at home I don't eat as much. I'm ready to run away...but I haven't any money. I don't know what to do. I'm 21, I've never had a real boy friend, and it doesn't look like I ever will.

"I'm intelligent and could be attractive. When I was a freshman in college I lost lots of weight and my measurements were 37-23-37...but they're not any more, I would like to do something practical to lose weight. I'm 5 feet 7 tall and weigh 150 pounds. I look best at 120 pounds. Do you have any suggestions?"

Yes, try to ferret out why you are so cross with life. Weight is not really the problem for you are not a fatty. The trouble is that you are idle and bored. This preoccupation with food is either just someting to do or an expression of resentment.

When you are away from home you do not feel compelled to continue stuffing food into your mouth. You need to change your environment, but do not run away in rebellion. Make arrangements to get out and earn your way.

COULD YOU think in terms of going back to college? If funds are lacking, take night courses. You need the stimulation of outside interests and activities. Stop blaming your circumstances and resenting your situation and your mother.

At 21, all of life is still ahead of you. What do you want to do with your life? Nothing just happens. You have to make it happen. A goal is all - important.

If will power isn't used in the direction of a goal it's a form of wilfullness. Take charge of your life, get excited about the possibilities of what you can do for yourself — then do it!

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Can Be Taught ABCs At Home

In the average school in the United States, a child learns a few letters of the alphabet in the first grade and doesn't know nearly all of them until he's in the second grade. A recent publication from the National Education Association — "How to Help Your Child Learn: a Handbook for Parents of Children in Kindergarten Through Grade 6" — has this to say: "He learns the alphabet as he learns to read — not separately for reciting aloud. Actually, he will probably pick up names of many of the letters in the first grade.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"JIM WILL WRITE his name on the board in manuscript and thus learn the letters in his name, or the teacher will point out letters occasionally and name them for the class. Second grade is the time when names of all the letters are usually learned."

Therefore, if your child is in the average first grade class, he may not know nearly all his ABCs at the end of the school year. He may have to wait until he's in the second grade to learn all 26 of them — unless you have already taught them to him at home.

Even if your child is in the second grade, he may not be able to identify all the letters of the alphabet.

Chances are that you don't know whether your child has learned his alphabet or not, be he in the first, second or even third grade. You might be surprised if you tried him out on them.

IF YOU DISCOVER that he does not know them or confuses some of them, why not set out to teach him these letters at home?

Even if he entered the first grade in September he's probably had practice at school at learning to identify on sight some whole words, even whole phrases. Also his learning some of the letters now at home hardly would interfere with his practice in word-reading at school.

But you would not be wise to express surprise to this child that he has not learned his letters at school. Just help him learn them at home, without ever suggesting to him that he should have learned them at school.

DON'T HAVE HIM attack more than one, two or three letters an evening. If more than one letter, have him dwell on it alone before attacking another. Print or type this letter plainly. Have him print or type it several times. Then have him find this letter in words on a printed page.

If he has confused two letters like "b" and "d", "b" and "h" or "b" and "p", don't let him see them together for some time. Have him dwell on either letter with the other out of sight until this first letter is familiar to him.

It's well to have him learn the small or lower-case letters first, as he will have most need for using them.

Unless you observe the foregoing, you will be inclined to have him try to learn ten or a dozen letters an evening — the surest way to get him all mixed up and discouraged.

Kennedy Hopes To Take Cruise

The weather forecast was for cloudy skies and crisp autumn winds, not usually a deterrent to Kennedy's love of the sea.

At Hammersmith Farm, the home of Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, the President planned to get in a weekend of rest and relaxation. There were no formal appointments on his schedule.

Castro Predicts Great Future In Cuba's Economy

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro says Cuba will reach in eight years the rate of economic growth that will take other Latin-American countries 25 years under President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress plan.

The Cuban prime minister painted that rosy future in an economic report to the nation Friday night.

He also charged the United States with keeping Latin America in economic stagnation and with using the threat of war to impose "an imperialist system all over the world."

Castro predicted all unemployment in rural areas would be eliminated next year. He acknowledged the prospects were not as encouraging in the cities. Since taking over power in 1959 Castro said his government has scaled down unemployment from nearly 700,000 to 214,000.

WALTER J. BLACK'S CLASSICS CLUB INVITES YOU TO ACCEPT

THESE 3 beautifully bound classics

FOR ONLY $1.00 AS A NEW MEMBER

PLATO FIVE GREAT DIALOGUES

NOTHING short of amazing is the way this great classic (written more than two thousand years ago) hits so many nails squarely on the head today! Here, in the clearest reasoning in all literature, is the pure essence of how to get the best out of life — whether we possess worldly wealth or only the riches in our hearts and minds.

This beautiful edition contains the five great dialogues. In these conversations between friends — fresh, spontaneous, humorous, informal — you have "philosophy brought down from heaven to earth."

MARCUS AURELIUS MEDITATIONS

THROUGH these writings, you gaze as if through a powerful telescope at the Rome of eighteen centuries ago. You will be struck by resemblances to our own era as you read the wise Meditations of the great emperor-philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, the Stoic who found peace in traditional customs . . . the witty arguments of Lucian, the Skeptic, who punctured so many beliefs . . . the impassioned words of Justin, the Christian, willing to die for the new religion.

ARISTOTLE ON MAN IN THE UNIVERSE

"THE master of them that know," this supreme mind of the fabulous Golden Age of Greece was called by the poet Dante. He was so far ahead of his era that his ideas are astonishingly timely today. Nature, politics, art, drama, logic, morals — he explored them all, with a mind open to truth and a heart eager for understanding.

Included is the essence of his five celebrated essays. You will be amazed, as you read them, how this great philosopher discovered by pure reason so many truths upon which modern scientists and thinkers have only recently agreed.

Why The Classics Club Offers You This Superb Value

These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "pressed for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

Only Book Club of Its Kind

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes to its members the world's classics at a low price. 2. Its members are not obligated to take any specific number of books. 3. Its volumes are luxurious De Luxe Editions — bound in the fine buckram ordinarily used for $5 and $10 bindings. They have tinted page tops; are richly stamped in genuine gold, which will retain its original lustre — books you and your children will read and cherish for many years.

A Trial Membership Invitation to You

You are invited to accept a Trial Membership. With your first books will be sent an advance notice about future selections. You may reject any book you do not wish. You need not take any specific number of books — only the ones you want. No money in advance, no membership fees. You may cancel membership at any time.

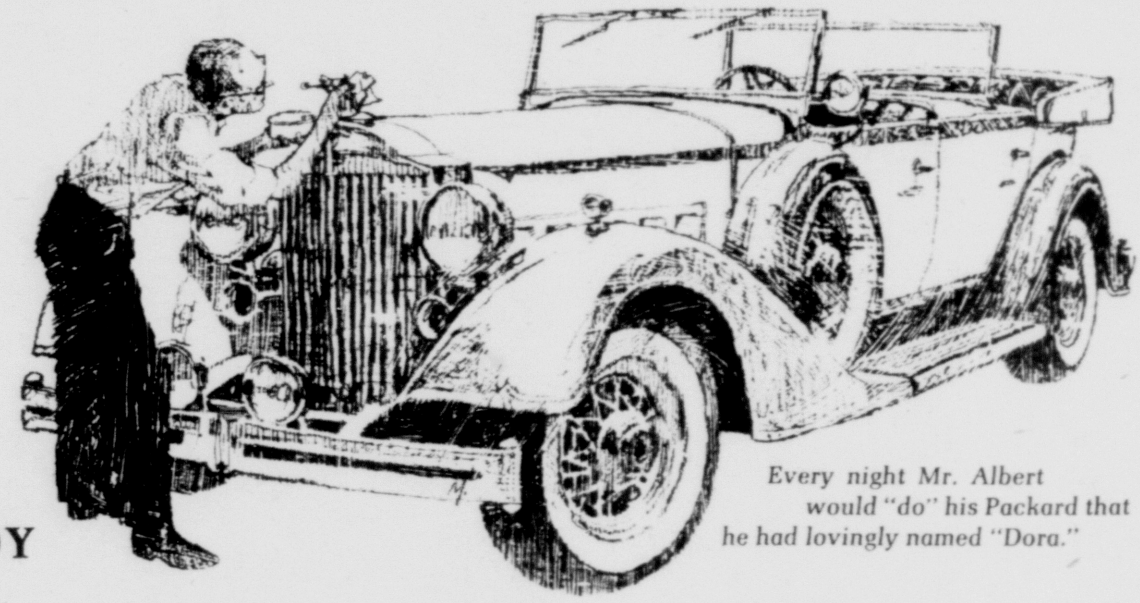
Mail this Invitation Form now. Paper, printing, binding costs are rising. The low introductory price for these THREE beautiful volumes cannot be assured unless you respond promptly. THE CLASSICS CLUB, Roslyn, L. I., New York.

1962 Auto Show

ILLUSTRATION BY MIKE MIKOS

Automobiles Are People!

By KEN PURDY



Every night Mr. Albert would "do" his Packard that he had lovingly named "Dora."

Don't call that car a hunk of steel—she may be somebody's sweetheart!

TO WOMEN, the idea of developing a sense of personal affection for an inanimate thing like an automobile seems weird and inexplicable—but men find it reasonable enough.

Three or four decades ago, when the automobile was comparatively a new factor in our lives, and when the tendency was to keep a car for five, 10 years, or longer, a whole family's attachment to a car could be deep indeed. Father's decision to sell the big high-sided touring car that had carried everyone to a decade's weddings, christenings, funerals, picnics, and unnumbered Sunday "rides" might well bring on a mutiny.

The conviction was real that the car was very nearly as much a living thing as the patient, sway-backed horse it had replaced. After all, each had its whimsies, characteristic faults, and endearing traits. In these days of quick trade-ins there is less of this family affection, but some men still fall in love with a car.

I know a man, for example, who became deeply attached to a '56 Cadillac. After much inner struggling, he sold it last year—and next day phoned the buyer and asked to buy it back. He hadn't been able to sleep all night! The man sold it to him—for $500 profit!

At the opposite end of the scale: three or four months ago I was talking with Dave Garroway, who is an advanced automobile connoisseur. He asked me whom I would recommend to do a really superior restoration on a 1952 Buick. I asked him why in the world anyone would want to restore a 1952 Buick, a useful enough automobile but certainly no immortal design.

Dave said that one of his friends was hopelessly attached to this '52 Skylark, loved it like a brother, and wanted no other automobile. The car was, after all, 10 years old and rather the worse for wear. Dave had spirited the car away on a pretext and had had it completely rebuilt mechanically at a cost well into four figures. Now he wanted it completely done over.

We agreed on Gustave Reuter, whose two-man shop in the Bronx, N. Y., produces work that cannot be improved upon. The Buick was finally upholstered and painted as no other 1952 Buick ever was. Dave cheerfully paid Reuter's bill, another four-figure item, and gave his friend's car back to him as a surprise. Garroway's friend owns the most expensive Skylark of all time.

Race-car drivers particularly tend to personalize their cars. An exception was the great Marquis de Portago. Usually he couldn't tell one car from another, yet he did take a dislike to the 3.8 Ferrari. He considered it malevolent and especially ill-disposed toward him. Portago had ample courage but was afraid of the 3.8 and wrote so just before the 1957 Mille Miglia in which he was scheduled to drive one. He was killed in it—he, his passenger, and 10 spectators.

YEARS AGO I knew a man who seemed to care more for his car than for his wife and children. The car was a Packard touring car which he named "Dora." It was a double-cowl phaeton, carrying an extra windshield for the back-seat passengers. Its owner was a man I'll call Mr. Albert, a machinist, a quiet, rather sad man.

He worked 5½ days a week, and every Saturday after lunch he went to the little garage behind his house and began to "do" his Packard. He worked on the car straight through, except for supper, until 10 o'clock at night. On Sunday morning he washed and polished it. After Sunday dinner, he changed into his good suit, and he and his wife went for a ride, usually not longer than three hours.

Every weekday night, winter and summer, he spent two to three hours in the garage. What was he doing? He was taking care of Dora. I used to watch him by the hour. "Dear Dora," he would say, "there you are, good as new!"

DORA RAN like a watch. She was mechanically so nearly silent that sometimes all I could hear was the crunch of her tires on the gravel as Mr. Albert backed out on Sunday mornings. Now and then on his Sunday drives, Mr. Albert would get caught in a rainstorm. When that happened, he would go into the garage with chamois leathers and dry the car—top and bottom.

He was doing that one cold September night when Dora came off the jack and caught him across the chest with her front axle. He died, they said, instantly. His wife, who had come out to bring him some coffee, said his last words were spoken not to her but to Dora. "Darned old idiot!" he had said to the car, apparently because he was having trouble reaching around something. Then Dora came off the jack.

Mrs. Albert was driven home from the funeral. She sat on the front porch, and when a man came by she called him over and gave the Packard to him. He gave her a dollar, to make the transaction a legal one, and drove it away. Later she told a neighbor that she had made the man promise to destroy the car.

"It's a killer," she said. "I made him promise." Of course, he did nothing of the kind.

I've never forgiven her. She might have thought of me. After all, at one dollar, the Packard was well within my means that year.

Fiesta Roast Pork

This roast pork, with its tantalizing tomato sauce, will remind you of dinner in an intimate, candlelit restaurant in Old Mexico.

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO ROAST: ABOUT 3 HRS.

- 4-lb. pork loin roast
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 teaspoon rubbed sage
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅓ cup flour
- 2 cups tomato purée
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 cup water
- ½ cup thinly sliced ripe olives
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup dark seedless raisins
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms

1. Rub pork with a mixture of the garlic, sage, oregano, and salt. Place pork, fat side up, in a roasting pan. Insert roast-meat thermometer in center of thickest part of meat, being sure the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone.

2. Roast pork, uncovered, at 350°F 2 to 2½ hrs. (Allow 35 to 40 min. per pound.) Meat is done when internal temperature reaches 185°F. Remove meat and pour off drippings; return ¼ cup drippings to pan. Reduce oven temperature to 250°F.

3. Blend the flour into drippings in pan. Stirring constantly, heat until mixture bubbles. Remove from heat. Add gradually a mixture of the tomato purée, chili powder, and water, stirring constantly. Return to heat and bring to boiling; continue stirring and cook until sauce thickens; cook 1 to 2 min. longer. (Scrape pan to blend in brown residue.) Stir in remaining ingredients and cook 10 min.

4. Return pork roast to pan. Basting occasionally with sauce, roast at 250°F about 30 min. Serve hot.

7 ways to enjoy trouble-free driving

There will be no breakdown and bills tomorrow if you give your car a little care today

By STANLEY H. BRAMS

■ IN A SENSE, your car is like the human body. It can be abused for a long time—overworked, neglected—and seemingly it will keep working, even though less effectively than it might. But a day of reckoning will come for a shabbily treated automobile, just as it will for a human being who disdains the ordinary rules of healthful living.

You can minimize your car-care problems by ordinary horse sense and an awareness that every mile you drive brings the need of some kind of maintenance closer. This seven-point check list will make your motoring more trouble-free:

1. Keep Your Engine Tuned

Signs of trouble ahead include excessive intervals before the motor starts in the morning, stalling at stop lights, sudden reduction in mileage per gallon, rough idling, sluggish pickup.

Those slow morning starts often occur in fall; the engine has been tuned for summer driving, and more gas flow is needed for cold weather—you'll be well advised to have the carburetor adjusted in time.

Worn spark plugs (your dealer will tell you how often they need changing) often misfire and waste fuel. Fall is a good time to change, before rigorous winter requirements arise. Points may need replacement; timing adjustment will often result in happier driving. Also, ask the mechanic to check the fan belt for proper tension.

2. Use the Right Fuel

This is a pocketbook saver. Using better-grade fuel than your engine needs merely improves the turnover of your bankroll. In general, a fuel that drives your car without creating engine knock is good enough for steady use, although some fuels have additives which help certain phases of car performance.

3. Keep Your Car Clean

You'll be well advised to start off with an undercoating—at the time you get your new car, or after an older one has been thoroughly steam-cleaned. It deadens rattles and delays under-car corrosion.

Keep your car washed. Water and dirt carry corrosive materials from the roadway. Make a habit of touching up your car finish regularly. Little bits of gravel or stones can crack enamel or lacquer loose from its hold on the body surface, starting a rust patch.

The same goes for bright work. Neglected, it will get dingy, may even corrode; in any case, it won't help the price you'll get when you eventually sell the car. Your serviceman will tell you the best treatment—it varies, depending on the kind of bright work on your car.

4. Keep It Greased

Most 1962s have semipermanent grease systems and don't require lubing for 30,000 miles or so. But others should be lubricated regularly, at least every 2,000 miles to avoid squeaks and rattles and the danger of failure caused by surfaces rubbing against each other instead of on a thin coating of lubricant. Under the heading of greasing, too, remember that wheel bearings need repacking regularly.

5. Check Your Tires

To begin with, they should be rotated periodically—front to rear, one side to the other, with the spare worked into the shift pattern. Look regularly at your tires for cuts and bruises—have them fixed. Pry out bits of embedded glass and metal and have the cut vulcanized.

When the time comes to buy new tires, if you drive a smaller car you might find savings in the new two-ply casings introduced this fall on the compacts. They're just as safe as the four-ply tires, say the manufacturers, and run cooler—hence last longer.

Have your wheels balanced—at least your front wheels. You'll eliminate annoying vibration that can sometimes become downright dangerous.

6. Watch Your Battery

New, improved batteries rarely need refilling, but whether your car has a fine new one or an old one, it pays to watch the water level in the cells. A dry battery performs badly only for a short time—then it's completely ruined.

Scrape off those white deposits of acid on the case and terminals. They rob you of power—you pay for it in excessive gas use, shortened battery life, and the continuing danger of electrical-system failure.

7. Clean Your Cooling System

Before you install any antifreeze in your cooling system, your serviceman should check all hoses and fittings and flush out the system, if possible with a high-pressure reverse flow of water.

One warning we all need: install antifreeze before that first sudden swoop of icy weather to avoid frustrating steamups and possible radiator damage.

This check list can be a lucky seven for you if you observe it. Being careless about it can, at best, be annoying—and, at worst, dangerous and expensive.

CHALLENGED NIAGARA

Sixty years ago this week, a woman became the first to dare the Falls; others have tried since— some to find fame, others death

the ball is pulled out. No one knows if I'm dead or alive.

"At 4:23 the ball is finally opened. I am exhausted but smiling. Jean is proud to have carried the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes over Niagara Falls."

Now the score stood 3-1 in favor of the daredevils, but not for long. The next two challengers were destined to die. George L. Stathakis, a Buffalo, N. Y., chef, took the plunge in a wood and steel barrel July 3, 1930. The barrel remained intact but was trapped behind the Horseshoe Falls for 22 hours. Stathakis suffocated.

William "Red" Hill, Jr., a veteran Niagara riverman, built a contraption of truck inner tubes, webbing, and fish net. The conveyance, which he called "The Thing," broke up when it plummeted over Niagara on Aug. 5, 1951. Hill's body was recovered from the river the next day.

WHAT HAD these daredevils gained? All made a little money, but not much considering the risks. Anna Edson Taylor died penniless, nearly blind and friendless in the county infirmary near Niagara Falls. Bobby Leach slipped on an orange peel in New Zealand, breaking a leg. He died soon after the leg was amputated. Jean Lussier became a factory worker during World War II, is now retired but still makes occasional public appearances.

Despite the dismal prospects, still another daredevil was to try his luck. He called himself Nathan Boya when he entered his steel and rubber ball July 15, 1961. In reality, he was William A. Fitzgerald of Jamaica, N. Y.

"Compulsion" drove him into the river, Fitzgerald said. His ball, based on the design of Jean Lussier's, was badly dented in the plunge over Niagara, but its occupant emerged smiling. A Canadian judge fined him $113 for stunting, which modern-day authorities frown upon.

The exploits of all these daredevils pale, however, beside the fate of seven-year-old Roger Woodward. With his sister Deanne, 17, he ventured into the placid river some five miles above the Falls in a boat operated by a family friend. July 9, 1960, was a pleasant day for an outing. The temperature was in the 90s.

The boat, powered by a small outboard motor, headed downstream. Then, suddenly, it was in trouble. The motor failed. The friend, James Honeycutt, began to row frantically, but the current was too strong. The boat was sucked relentlessly into the treacherous rapids.

In a few moments the craft was swamped, its occupants thrown into the water above the Horseshoe Falls. The current carried them closer and closer to the brink. Roger and Honeycutt were swept toward the center of the cataract, Deanne toward the American shore.

At the U. S. flank of the Horseshoe, two tourists leaped into action. John R. Hayes of Vauxhall, N. J., grasped the girl's arm as he maintained a perilous grip on a railing with his other hand. John Quattrochi of Penns Grove, N. J., raced to his assistance. The men pulled Deanne to safety.

But the girl's brother and friend were swept over Niagara.

In the river below the Falls, Maid of the Mist II, an excursion vessel, plied its regular course toward the Horseshoe Falls. "There was nothing there, and then up he popped," Capt. Clifford Keech recalls.

Clad only in bathing trunks and a life jacket, frail Roger Woodward had emerged, dazed but alive, from the seething caldron at the base of Niagara. He was rescued by the boat's crew.

Jean Lussier happened to be standing at the Falls that afternoon. As the drama unfolded in the river below, Jean said: "The Lord was with that boy like He was with me. It just wasn't his time to die."

Will we be able to send him to college?

With a growing family, are we free to accept new opportunities?

Could my wife pay off the mortgage, if I were not here?

Will my family always be able to count on me?

Will my wife and I be independent in our later years?

How 5 unique advantages of life insurance help answer these questions-- bringing peace of mind at the stroke of a pen

1 BY GUARANTEEING FUNDS FOR COLLEGE. By figuring in advance the cost of sending their children to college, parents can make sure—through their life insurance—that college expenses can be met.

2 BY ENABLING YOU TO ACCEPT NEW OPPORTUNITIES WITH CONFIDENCE. You know, in advance, exactly how much money will be available in your life insurance at any given time. Secure in this knowledge, you feel free to accept the risks of a new opportunity more readily.

3 BY SAFEGUARDING THE HOME. With life insurance, a man can safeguard the home his family loves by owning a policy which takes care of any unpaid mortgage.

4 BY GUARANTEEING FAMILY PROTECTION. With life insurance, a family is protected right from the start. For life insurance guarantees, at the stroke of a pen, an amount of money far greater than most couples could save in many years.

5 BY PROVIDING A STEADY RETIREMENT INCOME. A couple can get more pleasure from their later years when their life insurance provides a steady income guaranteed to last for both their lifetimes.

The wise family head estimates his family's future needs, then plans his life insurance accordingly. Since family circumstances change, many couples review their program with their life insurance agent regularly. In this way, they get the most from their life insurance.

By CLIFF SPIELER

THOUSANDS OF THRILL-SEEKERS lined the river banks above and below thundering Niagara on a bright autumn day 60 years ago this week. Everyone watched an oak barrel tossing and turning in the raging rapids, buffeted mercilessly from rock to rock as it swept headlong for the cataract's brink and the terrifying 161-foot plunge over the Horseshoe Falls.

For hundreds of years sight-seers had marveled at the beauty of the cataracts and at their relentless power, but not until Oct. 24, 1901, had any human mustered the courage to attempt to conquer mighty Niagara Falls.

Inside the barrel, disregarding what Niagara rivermen considered certain death, a widowed 43-year-old schoolteacher rode toward the precipice. Anna Edson Taylor was traveling the deadly route to what she hoped would be glory and financial security.

The drop took about three seconds. Then the crudely constructed barrel disappeared in the boiling mist rising from the base of the Horseshoe. Ten seconds later it bobbed into view and, as the crowd gasped, floated toward the Canadian shore.

The minutes—17 of them—seemed like hours until a riverman named Kid Brady hooked the barrel with a long pole. In a short time the cask was opened. Carlisle Graham was the first to peer inside. "She's alive!" he said disbelievingly.

Mrs. Taylor, married at 19, widowed at 20, graduate of Albany, N. Y., Normal School, a Michigan schoolteacher and dancing instructor—all in all, an unlikely candidate for such a stunt—had accomplished what no man had dared. And had added a new expression to our speech. She had "gone over Niagara Falls in a barrel."

Others would follow Mrs. Taylor's path, risking the rocks and the torrent which dump 1,500,000 gallons of water every second over Niagara's brink into a 180-foot-deep pool at the base of the falls. Three men would die in their attempts; three others would succeed. And on a summer day 59 years later, a seven-year-old boy would amaze the world by surviving the wrath of the Thunderer of Waters, as the Indians once called Niagara.

It was stage center for Anna Edson Taylor—for 10 years at least. Then a circus stunt man, Bobby Leach, crawled into a steel barrel in the middle of the upper Niagara River July 25, 1911. Forty minutes later, aides helped the small, 54-year-old Englishman, cut and bruised, from his conveyance. He, too, had conquered the falls.

MANY HAVE DIED in the churning waters of the Niagara River. Several persons each year, drawn in some eerie fashion by the cataracts, take their lives by plunging into the raging river. Not until 1920, however, did a daredevil sacrifice himself in trying to conquer the falls.

Charles G. Stephens, a 38-year-old English barber, plunged over the Horseshoe Falls July 11, 1920, in a heavy oak barrel. It was crushed like an eggshell; Stephens was torn to pieces.

Undaunted, a handsome, gregarious French-Canadian-New Englander decided to bid for fame and fortune at Niagara—not in a steel or wooden barrel, but in a seemingly vulnerable rubber ball.

Joseph Albert Jean Lussier's six-foot ball, with two layers of fabric and rubber stretched over a steel frame, was cut loose from a boat July 4, 1928. A crowd estimated at 150,000 persons had come to watch. Jean Lussier hit the brink at 3:35 p.m.

But let him tell the story in his French-Canadian English:

"Hitting below the Falls the water pressure is so heavy I'm going to the bottom of the river and the first cover is smashed. Water is rushing in between the two covers and the ball is rolling behind the Falls.

"It circles around maybe five or six seconds and then it's coming out with a strong current. Men are waiting with a boat and big-selling brands of cigarettes? Then along came king-sized smokes, filters long and short, boxes and redesigned packages, and menthol types. Your cigarette store today is banked with shelves of various brands, all with large and loyal followings.

The same thing is happening to cars. About four years ago, the auto makers caught on to the fact that the public was tiring of gargantuan, chrome-bedecked gas burners. They turned to compacts like the Chevrolet Corvair, Ford Falcon, Plymouth Valiant and found a booming market.

Then the manufacturers learned that while some buyers wanted austere economy, others wanted small size and mileage—plus luxury upholstery, choice of color and trim, and more power. The result is flashy, hot-rodded compacts which will command half the sales in the small-car field this year.

Even the overcrowded medium-priced field got into the act. Buick, Mercury, and Oldsmobile scaled down their models without sacrificing the "big-car" concept in appointments and equipment. In fact, all the hallowed old names except

Meanwhile, Rambler, which started the compact trend, and Studebaker, which followed closely, broadened their existing lines to include such models as convertibles.

You'd think the automakers could sit back, and except for the usual facelift, concentrate on selling what they already have. But no—it appears that still another area has been neglected. Some people who felt that standard cars were too big also felt that even the biggest of the compacts were too small. For this "in-between" group, Ford and Chevrolet will each offer an all-new "in-between" series of cars this coming year, in addition to their larger and smaller models. Plymouth and Dart, on the other hand, have shed so much weight and girth that their 1962 offerings for all practical purposes fall into the new category.

And all is not over yet! There seems to be still another vocal minority who think that compacts are not small enough. For them Ford is planning a Volkswagen-sized car for introduction next spring. It may be called the Cardinal and will have a V-4 engine and front-wheel drive. Studebaker has a similarly sized car in the design stage, and others are studying the field.

STYLING: Any professional will agree that most of the new cars are styled with excellent taste. Cadillac and Imperial are the only makes to retain tailfins and these are relatively subdued. Emphasis is on sculptured body panels with chrome used sparingly for headlights. The vast windshields of the recent past have for the most part been abandoned in favor of simpler curvatures and therefore less distortion. Honors for the most complete styling change should be shared by Plymouth and Dart, although Studebaker has done a creditable job in eliminating the boxiness characteristic of previous models.

BODIES: The new Chevrolet offering, called Chevy II, has a full line of unitized bodies including a smart convertible. They are only a few inches longer than the Corvair but roomier inside. The "in-between" cars offered by Ford and Mercury use a unitized body shell on a 115.5-inch wheelbase. Plymouth and Dart have shed up to 400 pounds and 10 inches of length as a result of a completely new unitized body. Buick Special, Pontiac Tempest, and Olds F-85 have each added a convertible to their line, and Rambler offers a two-door in its Classic series for the first time. All makes have paid considerable attention to deadening sound and adding some extra leg room.

of engine has been used in trucks and a few European passenger cars but never in an American car. It is of cast-iron construction and rated at 135 horsepower. Optional on the Special and Pontiac Tempest and standard on the F-85 is the aluminum, 155-horsepower V-8 of last year.

Tempest continues its slant four-cylinder, liquid-cooled unit standard in the Chevy II. It produces a peppy 90 horsepower, and the optional six-cylinder unit for this car is rated at 120 horsepower. Both engines are of similar design, to the extent that many of the reciprocating parts are interchangeable. Corvair is sticking with its familiar rear-mounted, air-cooled power plant.

The Ford in-between cars (Fairlane and Meteor) offer the option of a new 221-cubic-inch V-8 for the performance-minded. Rambler continues to offer its aluminum six in some models, as do Lancer and Valiant. This last engine is little known to the public, but was tested extensively last year in fleets. The manufacturers claim exceptional performance with little sacrifice of economy. Engine design in larger cars has remained relatively static although a family of power plants have been developed over the years for each make ranging from detuned, regular gas units to hot rods.

DRIVE TRAIN: Pontiac Tempest, with its transaxle, and Corvair, with both engine and transmission in the rear, continue to be the only unorthodox designs. The three newcomers, the Chevy II and Ford's Fairlane and Meteor, have a conventional layout with a front-mounted engine and transmission driving the rear wheels. Next spring, though, the Cardinal will re-introduce front-wheel drive on the American scene for the first time since the late, lamented 1937 Cord.

Rambler has come up with what it calls an "E-stick" transmission on its American series. The driver shifts through the standard pattern, but the clutch action is entirely automatic. The unit is tagged to sell for about $60.

RUNNING GEAR: Big news here is the large number of cars switching to chassis bearings that need little if any greasing. Only Chevrolet, Falcon, Comet, F-85, Studebaker, Buick, and some Ramblers still require a monthly grease job. Oldsmobile and Cadillac never need greasing in normal usage, and the rest specify a 30,000-35,000-mile interval.

Other trends in this service-free direction include almost universal use of self-adjusting brakes (the kind that adjust themselves automatically when you back up), extended warranties, and Chevrolet's, Ford's, and Rambler's two-year coolants. Another item new to smaller 1962 cars is the two-ply tire. These are just as strong as the old four-ply design, but producers claim they give a softer ride and better gas mileage. Suspension remains about the same except for detailed refinements to improve ride.

INCIDENTALS: Lincoln Continental has a hydraulically driven windshield wiper and the only 24-month, 24,000-mile guarantee in the business. Rear-window defrosters have been revived for sedan models of many makes, and so, too, have bucket seats. If you want an air-conditioned convertible, Cadillac has one.

In fact, no matter what you might want in a new car, some auto manufacturer probably has anticipated you and has your dream buggy ready to roll.

Balloon Balance
By Ragna Eskil

Pass uninflated balloons around and tell each player to inflate his own. Divide the players into two teams and each group into pairs. Give each player a teaspoon and set a goal line. The players, a pair from each team, balancing the balloon on their teaspoons held in one hand, see who can reach the goal first. Or, to make it even harder, the teaspoon may be held between the teeth!

Let's Count!
By Ragna Eskil

This game is for playing on a long auto ride. Players try to be the first to spy numbers, in their sequence, from 1 to 20 in signs along the road. When it comes to the double numbers, they may occur (if in sequence) in any long number. For instance, the long number 2118 could count as 2, 11, or 18, depending upon the number the player is looking for.

Anti-Trujillo Rumblings

2 Killed And 45 Injured In Dominican Violence

Martial Law Probably To Be Declared

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—This Caribbean island nation seethed with hostile anti-Trujillo rumblings today after a night of bloody rioting. Prospects heightened for a government proclamation of martial law.

Unofficial sources listed at least two teen-agers dead and about 45 other persons injured in Friday night's rioting—the most violent outbreak here since the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo last May.

The official police report mentioned no deaths but said an undetermined number were injured, including 15 policemen who suffered minor injuries from rock barrages.

Police announced the arrest of 57 members of youth groups who hurled stones in clashes with steel-helmeted police units in downtown streets of the capital. Officers beat back the attacks with semiautomatic rifles, water hoses and tear gas, while hundreds lined the sidewalks and rooted for the youngsters.

The exchange lasted about 25 minutes before police drove back the demonstrators and seized control. Offshoot demonstrations that formed later in nearby streets were quickly put down.

The battle capped five days of antigovernment demonstrations set off by student protests against the appointment of a new rector for Santo Domingo University accused of being a Trujillo man. An association of professors at the school joined the students Friday in demanding his removal.

The resolution approved by 141 of the university's 143 professors said that the closing of the school by the government following student demonstrations was no solution.

Signs of the impending violence came when youths sealed off streets in a two-square-block area which they called the "free territory of the Dominican Republic." Some were seen loading rooftops with stones and metal objects.

Four companies of police moved in later after several hundred demonstrators marched down a main street shouting "liberty! liberty!"

A young woman carrying a child was among at least 20 bleeding and weeping injured led from the scene. Police claimed the woman was hit by a rock.

There were reports that at least three members of the Trujillo family—all brothers of the late dictator—may leave the Dominican Republic this weekend. The departure of the family has been demanded by opposition factions before they will negotiate with President Joaquin Balaguer on his proposal for a coalition government.

The Trujillos headed for exile were identified as Gens. Hector, Jose Arizmendi and Pedro Trujillo.

Khrushchev Expected To 'Clean House'

Purge Under Way Already, Congress Events Indicate

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's heavy propaganda artillery is zeroing in on his enemies. The events at the Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow suggest he is winning his struggle and setting the scene for announcement of a house-cleaning.

It seems likely, in fact, that the purge already is well under way. Probably it was started well in advance of the 22nd party congress, at least at the lower levels.

But Khrushchev wants and apparently needs total victory. This means at a minimum the expulsion from the Communist party of those he labeled antiparty in 1957.

The congress can provide the machinery for Khrushchev's purposes.

Awaiting formal approval are some new ideas concerning the statutes by which the Communist party is supposed to govern itself. The changes may involve new methods for expelling and punishing members who have fallen into disgrace. There are indications that new sins will be invented, such as failure to show sufficient devotion to the Communist cause or lack of faithfulness to the principle of collective leadership.

If Khrushchev has won, heads will roll. It will mean expulsion from the party and possibly worse for former Premier Georgi Malenkov, for Lazar Kaganovich, the one-time iron commisar of the Ukraine and a Stalin stalwart, for old former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, for former Premier Nikolai Bulganin and many others.

There may be shocks outside the U.S.S.R., too. Those Communists in parties abroad, particularly in the satellite nations, who have failed to show sufficient devotion to Khrushchev's free-wheeling interpretation of Marxism-Leninism may be slated for the political ax.

Alarm Rocket Launched In Experiment

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—A Midas missile-alarm rocket shot aloft today with a controversial cargo: 350 million tiny copper needles to be spread in a radio-reflective belt around the earth.

If successful the experiment will place in space a five-mile-wide band of hair-like reflectors which scientists can use to bounce radio waves half-way around the world.

Some astronomers have opposed the experiment on the grounds that if the needles go awry in space they could interfere with optical and radio observations of the stars, or even damage satellites.

Despite the controversy, approval for the test was given earlier this month by President Kennedy's scientific adviser, Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner.

Word on whether the Midas satellite achieved orbit, and whether it then properly ejected its package of needles, was expected two or more hours after launch.

The tiny needles, each 7-10 of an inch long and one-third the thickness of a human hair, were in a six-by-20-inch cylinder in the tail section of the 30-foot long Midas.

Potent Surge In Business Is Predicted

Economists Agree Advance To Extend Through Mid-'62

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Government and industry economists agreed today that a strong business advance would extend at least through mid-1962.

Official estimates that national output would reach a record rate of $565 to $570 billion were supported by only slightly less optimistic industry forecasts at the fall conference of the Business Council here.

The nearly 100 corporation heads devoted this morning to a survey of the business outlook, led by Frederick R. Kappel, board chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon took part. He told the council in a dinner speech Friday night that rising income and profits should insure the balanced 1963 budget, which President Kennedy intends to send Congress in January.

The threat seems remote that the $6.75-billion deficit of this 1962 fiscal year will promote inflation, Dillon said, because "government income and outgo will come into approximate balance by mid-December."

Unemployment remains "intolerably high," Dillon told the business executives. He added, however: "We expect a drop very soon. Unemployment should fall to about 5 per cent by next summer."

Forecasts that output of goods and services would reach a rate of $540 billion this quarter and move to $565 billion to $570 billion by mid-1962 were delivered to the meeting by Dr. Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers.

A rate of $570 billion would represent an impressive gain of more than 10 per cent over this year's second quarter rate of $516.1 billion.

District To Continue On DST Week More

The East Liverpool district and communities throughout the Ohio Valley and most Eastern states will follow Daylight Saving Time for one more week before turning the clocks back Oct. 29.

Some school districts in the area returned to Eastern Standard Time at the start of the month but cities and towns continued on the "summer" time, which began April 30.

Clocks were turned ahead an hour last spring and they will be turned back an hour for the resumption of EST, when residents will regain that lost hour of sleep.

Cunningham Receives Routine Test Of Heart

Ira W. Cunningham, former East Liverpool patrolman serving a 1-5-year term for an attempt to bribe a juror, is in the Ohio Penitentiary hospital at Columbus for a routine periodic checkup on a slight cardiac condition, prison officials said today.

Prison officials said the heart condition was detected Feb. 1 when Cunningham entered the penitentiary to serve the term for attempted bribery, which stemmed from a 1958 burglary trial for the ex-policeman and Jerry Raimond, one-time special officer.

Cunningham has been at the Zanesville honor camp since April 28, but returns to the prison hospital every three months for a routine check. The Pardon and Parole Commission is scheduled to give Cunningham a hearing Nov. 1.

In Wake Of Snow Storm

Southern West Virginia Labors Under Emergency

By The Associated Press

West Virginia mountain communities labored under emergency conditions today to shake off the effects of an unseasonable storm that blanketed some areas with nearly two feet of snow.

In the northeast, tropical storm Gerda lashed the coast with gale winds and high seas from Provincetown to Eastport, Maine. The storm churned northeastward in the Atlantic packing winds up to 65 miles an hour in gusts.

Curfews were in effect in both communities and volunteers were called out to aid police in keeping residents off the dangerous streets. Some homes were without heat with temperatures hovering near 40 degrees during the night.

The snowfall measured eight inches in Bluefield, three inches in the Great Smokies near Gatlinburg, Tenn., with an inch falling on Mount Mitchell, N. C. with a midday temperature of 21 degrees.

High Court Refuses Reprieve For Schuck

BEAVER — Arthur G. Schuck of Baden, scheduled to die in the electric chair Monday for the slaying of Vincent J. Quigley, was denied a U.S. Supreme Court hearing Friday at Washington.

The appeal said he was denied due process of law by refusal of his attorneys at the trial to permit him to make a plea of innocent by reason of insanity. The appeal also said he had new evidence, discovered after he was sentenced to death.

6 Columbiana Girls Injured In Car Wreck

2 Wellsville Area Residents Hurt In 2nd County Mishap

Six teen-age Columbiana girls were hospitalized with injuries suffered in a one-car crash on County Rd. 421 a mile southeast of Columbiana Friday night at 9:55. Two Wellsvile area residents were hurt in another crash yesterday afternoon on Route 45.

The Ohio State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said a car driven by Cheryl Beiling, 16, of Columbiana left the highway on a curve and slammed into a utility pole, shearing it off.

Miss Beiling and five companions were admitted to Salem City Hospital with various injuries.

Those hurt and their injuries include:

Alice Baker, 16, of Main St. lacerations of the chest, abrasions of the arms, and possible back injuries.

Officers said they were not able to talk to the girls. Their 1956 Chevrolet was demolished.

A car driven by Wayne Hamilton, 60, of Wellsvile R. D. 1 was struck in the rear by another driven by Edwin Ewing, 70, of 401 5th St., Wellsville, yesterday at 5 p. m. on Route 45 about three and a half miles north of Wellsville.

Officers said Hamilton had slowed to make a left turn into the driveway of his home. Ewing was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Mrs. Beatrice Hamilton, 54, a passenger in her husband's car, suffered a whiplash injury of the neck, and Mrs. Anna Ewing, 75, a passenger in the Ewing vehicle, suffered bruises of the knees and legs. They were treated by a physician.

U.N. To OK Plan Canceling A-Test

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A call for the Soviet Union to abandon its plan to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb seemed assured today of U.N. approval.

Few nations are expected to oppose the appeal to Premier Khrushchev placed before the 101-nation U.N. Political Committee by six countries on the fringe of the Soviet test area.

But an Asian-African group sought to widen the resolution into an appeal for a moratorium on all tests.

India objected to the sponsor's demand that it be given top priority, and Guinea said it would not take part in the vote on grounds it was a cold war item. But most of the neutrals indicated privately they would support the move.

The Soviet Union kept silent during Friday's debate on the appeal, which was put forth by Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Japan, Iceland and Norway. Diplomats speculated, however, that the Soviets might reject it on grounds that the tests concerned only the Soviet Union.

"That's about the only way they could oppose it," said one delegate. The sponsors called for top priority on the appeal to get it to Khrushchev before the Soviet Union goes through with plans for the 50-megaton blast scheduled for Oct. 31.

A group of Asian-African nations, including Ethiopia, Ghana, Sudan and Nepal is behind the move to broaden the resolution into an appeal to all atomic powers to refrain from tests.

Some delegates opposed widening the scope of the resolution to embrace all tests for fear it would lose its impact. Others felt it would remove the sting from the original draft and lessen chances of Communist opposition.

Canadian Foreign Minister Howard Green said that fallout knew no boundaries and if the explosion were to take place, "It will signify contempt for the resolutions of the United Nations."

Joint School Airing Halts Until Nov. 6

LISBON — Hearing on a mandamus action against the jointure of the Franklin Local and Southern Local School Districts was continued Friday until Nov. 6 after only one witness testified.

Dr. Samuel Hicks of Ohio University was scheduled to testify but only a deposition was taken as he had to return to Athens yesterday. He headed a university team that surveyed the district in early planning for a consolidation.

The hearing began Thursday before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard on the petition for a writ to compel a vote on the sentiments of Franklin residents on a merger with Carroll County school districts rather than Southern Local.

Fred Johnson of Summitville, who filed the mandamus action, was returned to the stand and gave exact figures for the travel distances which he had estimated while testifying Thursday. This is one of the main reasons residents of Franklin do not wish to join with Southern Local, he has claimed.

Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers, president of the County Board of Education, was the only witness called yesterday by Prosecutor S. Brokaw. He reported how the county board, along with Dr. Hicks, had met with the Franklin Local Board for a preliminary report of the survey and recommendations for Franklin's merger

Although unsuccessful so far, the Lions Club still is trying to arrange a meeting at which the city's two mayoralty candidates can make a public statement concerning the city income tax measure, Charles Herman, president, reported at the club's luncheon Friday at the Travelers Hotel.

The club has officially and unanimously endorsed retention of the tax, which will be submitted to vote Nov. 7.

Club members have contacted both candidates, Mayor Bert Goodballet, Democrat, and O. Earl Greenawalt, Republican, Herman said, in an attempt to have them appear either at a joint luncheon or evening meeting of the service clubs or at any one of the club meetings.

Herman said the Rotary, Kiwanis and Business and Professional Women's Club agreed to co-operate in arranging a meeting.

A representative of Trades and Labor Council also would be invited. The central labor body circulated an initiative ordinance seeking repeal of the tax, which will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot.

After hearing the president's report, the club by a voice vote unanimously approved a motion that it endorse retention of the income tax. The motion was made by Leo C. Lawrence with Howard E. Tice offering the second.

Merger

after the university professor had examined the two districts.

Atty. John Bauknecht, one of the attorneys for Johnson, asked Atty. Elliott why the county board had not acted on the petition of approximately 85 per cent of voters of the Franklin to merge with three school districts, East, Fox and Augusta, in Carroll County.

Atty. Elliott said he was governed by law and that the petition was not a remonstrance petition to the consolidation and that he didn't believe the county board had to act.

Atty. Elliott added he believed it was the consensus of most of the county board members, as far back as January, that Franklin, the only eight-year district in Columbiana County, should be consolidated with Southern Local.

Questioned by Judge Buzzard on why the board didn't merge the two districts at that time, Atty. Elliott said Southern District had been given a $400,000 state grant for a new high school and the county board had been advised that if they merged at that time the entire district would have to reapply for this state aid and it was not known if they would receive it after such delay.

Dr. Hicks is not expected to be called for the resumption of the hearing Nov. 6 although his deposition will be introduced.

It is expected that Prosecutor Brokaw will call County Supt. James L. McBride to the stand then although Judge Buzzard probably will not rule immediately following the close of the testimony.

Five members of the proposed new district will be named at the Nov. 7 election. The new board will be elected by write-in votes in the combined district.

Both sides agreed that if an earlier date for the completion of the hearing can be set they would be available on short notice.

Wellsville Motorist Fined And Sentenced

A Wellsville motorist was fined and jailed for driving while under the influence of alcohol at a hearing today before Mayor William J. Shoub of Wellsville. Two other motorists forfeited appearance bonds.

Austin Eastham of 18th St. Heights was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to three days for drunk driving. He was arrested Friday night at 10:50 on Kountz Ave., police said.

Robert Carpenter of Toronto R. D. 2 forfeited a $10 bond for speeding and Donald Hazelet, 536 Campground Rd., forfeited $33.70 for reckless operation. Carpenter was arrested Oct. 9 on Clark Ave. and Hazelet Sunday on 13th St.

City Motorist Fined At Chester Hearing

Walter J. Sisco, 22, of Sherwood Ave. was fined $25 and costs Friday evening by Chester Mayor Ray Collins on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

He was also fined $10 and costs for driving the wrong way on a one-way St. He was cited Friday at 12:20 p.m. at 2nd St. and Indiana Ave. by Police Chief Harold Davis.

Arthur C. Marshall, 25, also of Sherwood Ave. and owner of the car, was fined $25 and costs for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his vehicle.

Both pleaded guilty.

Hearing Due Empire Man

A 27-year-old Empire man will be given a hearing Monday in Municipal Court on a drunk driving charge stemming from a one-car crash early this morning in the West End. He was hurt slightly and his 1955 sedan was demolished when it struck a utility pole and then a concrete wall and steps.

Michael Turcovski was cited by police for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor after the crash at 3:47 a. m. at W. 8th and Division Sts.

Police said Turcovski refused to make a statement but Patrolman S. E. Hayes said evidence at the scene indicated the car struck the utility pole, jumped the curb and then hit the wall and steps at 923 W. 8th St.

Police records show a motorist named Mike A. Turcovski, also of Empire, was fined $5 and costs Monday in Municipal Court for driving the wrong way on a one-way street after being cited early Sunday on Jackson St.

An auto fire was blamed for an accident at 4:30 p. m. yesterday in the 1000 block on St. Clair Ave.

The mishap involved cars operated by Peggy L. Mangano, 29, of 399 Washington St., Newell, and Joseph L. Perrin, 52, of 1305 Smithfield St., police said.

Perrin told police he was following the Newell car up the hill and when the women jumped out the auto drifted back into the front of his car, damaging the front end.

City firemen were called and reported the fire damaged the wiring in the Newell woman's car.

His attention diverted by a friend's call, a car operated by Demar Dyke of the YMCA struck the parked 1960 auto of Arthur E. Frontz of LaCroft Ave. shortly after 6 p. m. yesterday at W. 6th St. and Peach Alley.

Dyke told police he was pulling from the curb when a friend called. He said he glanced away and his car hit the Frontz auto, shoving it up onto the sidewalk.

Newell Boy In Band Hurt While Marching

A Newell High School Band member injured while marching Friday night was admitted to City Hospital where three other persons were treated yesterday.

David Gamble, 13, son of David Gamble, 419-A Jefferson St., is in "good" condition today with head injuries suffered when he fell while performing last night.

Solicitors Air Gas Rate Case

Solicitors in Eastern Ohio cities agreed Frieay at a meeting in Steubenville on a plan in which the communities will present a united front to the Ohio Valley Gas Co.'s request for rate increases in 11 communities.

The plan was not revealed until it can be submitted to the Councils in the various cities for confirmation.

The solicitors decided to continue opposition to the rate request as a united group because it is "a common problem," Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper of East Liverpool said.

The problem was discussed yesterday with William Wasick, utility consultant for the city of Akron, who represented the Eastern Ohio communities in a hearing more than a year ago before the Public Utilities Commission.

At that time, the cities hired Wasick as a rate expert. Following the hearing, the PUC granted a rate increase less than that asked by the gas utility. Funds to pay the rate expert and carry out the fight were provided by each city on a per capita basis.

Attending the meeting besides Cooper were Atty. William Bush, Wellsville's legal counsel, and solicitors from Toronto, Bellaire, Mingo Junction, Martins Ferry, Tiltonsville, Yorkville, Steubenville and Wintersville.

Patrols Warn Of Throwing Items At Cars

Ohio State Highway Patrol units at Lisbon and Wintersville today issued a warning to anyone throwinf objects at moving vehicles or barricades of any tpye on the highways.

Officers said they also had rashes of reports of tomatoes being tossed at moving cars. They said that a tomato or any other object thrown against the windshield of a moving vehicle could break the glass or startle the driver and cause him to wreck.

Both units said anyone caught will be arrested and prosecuted.

The warning resulted after an accident Friday night on Route 213 about four miles north of Steubenville when a Toronto car struck a log that had been placed across a section of the highway.

Distribution of new Ohio Bell Telephone Co. directories to nearly 22,500 stations in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Newell and Salineville has been started.

The total includes 19,109 stations in East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville and 3,369 in Chester and Newell. A spokesman for the company pointed out "stations" are the number of telephones and not the number of customers since many businesses and individuals have more than one telephone.

The new directory includes a mixture of both old and new with many customers receiving the new all-number listings and others being listed under the old two letters and five digits.

The all-number system simply uses seven digits instead of the exchange name and five digits. Under all-number dialing, FU. 5 becomes 385.

However, a major change provides the numeral 1 must be dialed as the access number before making any direct distance dialing to other cities after Oct. 29.

In event the call is placed to a city in the same code area—216—as East Liverpool, the proper method would be to dial 1 and then the out-of-town number.

If the person you are calling resides outside this area, for example Pittsburgh, you must dial 1, then the area code number, 412, then the regular phone number, either seven digits or two letters and five numbers.

The blue section of the directory this year contains a three-year calendar in addition to civic information and maps of East Liverpool and Wellsville, and index to the classified directory, postal information and information on reporting highway emergencies and traffic suggestions.

First, You Dig A Hole

About this prospect of being buried by Russian Communists or any other kind of Communists, one thing is certain.

If they could do it, they would deserve to do it because that's the kind of a world it is. No one has a permanent lease on survival.

If the Communists became the world's top dog, no one could say they had no right to the distinction, because it's impossible to quarrel with the successful survivors in a competitive world.

But there's a substantial reason for doubting that the Communists can bury anybody in the long pull, though they can kick up a cloud of dust. Their way of doing things has a congenital weakness.

This is not because it's Communism, which is such a vague thing as practiced in Russia or anywhere else that no one can pin it down. The key fact about Communism is it never has been put into practice anywhere in the world, except in some isolated instances in the United States, where it was an absurd failure.

IT IS NOT Communism as much that will lick the Russians. It is what they have done in the name of Communism by setting up a one-party dictatorship in which power rests in the hands of a few men who are certain to clash over policy.

When the clashes occur, there is no way to settle the outcome without a bloody and wasteful struggle. There is no way to guarantee that the survivor of the power struggle will be able to organize a government and avert chaos.

Because no provision is made for periodic recalls of officials who have failed on their jobs, venality and inefficiency must be allowed to continue indefinitely, because there is no automatic review of progress, no automatic way to renew the momentum of the social and economic mechanism.

And because the only incentive permissable under the credo of state-worship is the greater glory of the politicians who take all the credit if things go well and wriggle out of the blame if they go badly, millions of men and women who will have turned sour on politics and statism will refuse to exert themselves. Some will go beyond passive resistance and try to hurt the state by sabotage and violence.

THIS IS a problem in capitalism, too. But in capitalism, few people work directly for the state; it doesn't matter how they feel about it and its politicians.

There is automatic turnover, in government; the political climate is always changing.

Communism — statism — absolutism — benevolent despotism — personality-cult dictatorship — authoritarianism — they all can be made to look good for a time because they have a kind of psuedo-efficiency about them. Things seem to get done quickly because no opposition is permitted.

But wrong things get done as quickly as right ones. Mistakes multiply and cannot be reversed because admissions of error are impossible under dictatorship.

Red China can boast of the progress it has made with forced-draft industrialism until it comes to light that it has made ghastly mistakes in agriculture and its industrial workers don't have enough to eat, as they never have had enough to eat in Russia.

If people like this are going to bury us, they will need to dig a hole bigger than the hole in which we intend to bury their despotism. They're more scared than we are, because their grave has been dug by history.

This Is A Special Occasion

Why do newspapers put on a special Newspaperboy Day each year at the end of Newspaper Week?

We do it because these young men who help to distribute our product represent one of the things Americans need to be concerned about saving—the self-reliance that used to be part of the training of most young men in this country.

Most modern newspaperboys don't fit the classical Horatio Alger picture of a generation ago. They are not scratching out a livelihood a penny at a time. They more often than not are "peddling their papers" by choice as much as by necessity. Many of them are doing it because their father and mothers have urged them to do it for their own good.

Newspapers think it's valuable training, too. We are glad to have the services of these young Americans. They are glad to have the chance to make money. We chuckle when we read about big-time social experiments to keep boys out of trouble by giving them something to do.

Delivering newspapers never has been an experiment in youth-training or character-building, but it has been producing good social results for many generations. Not all boys who carry newspapers grow up to be exemplary citizens, but this we can say with

No boy ever got into trouble because he was busy on a paper route.

All Quiet In Budapest

With their eyes and thoughts on that prison wall dividing Berlin, millions of Europeans this week will remember that Hungarians tried to break out of their prison five years ago — Oct. 23, 1956.

By Nov. 4 their effort had been thwarted beyond any chance of recovery. Russian tanks and troops from Central Asia put down their revolt so ruthlessly that Hungary has been politically silent ever since — the silence of the cemetery.

The jailers of the Hungarian people have demonstrated that it is possible to subdue a whole nation as if it had been locked up in a maximum security prison. Deserted by the West and by the United Nations, Hungarians are reported to be without hope. They have quit dreaming of what is impossible and have grown preoccupied with what is possible — an endless continuation of a drab existence as inconsequential members of the faceless masses allowed to exist and work for the power and the glory of a political dictatorship over which they have no control and from which they expect nothing but permission to live.

The Hungarian revolt, though commemorated on Oct. 23, began a day earlier when news reached Budapest that students at Szeged had set up an independent organization in defiance of the Communists. The news spread like wildfire. A revolution was under way before the students, workers, soldiers and intellectuals who were swept up in it comprehended what they were doing. It was spontaneous combustion.

It took 5,000 tanks and 200,000 troops brought in from Central Asia to smash the rebellious spirit of the Hungarians. It took some of the most agonizing decisions of the century for the West to let Hungary be ground under the heel of its captors. When the thing finally had been done and Hungary was silent and submissive, the one spark of freedom that might have been fanned into a flame in Europe was cold and dead — as cold and dead as the Germans in Berlin will be if that infamous wall cannot be torn down.

The Once Over

Diagnosing heart ailments at high speed by an electronic computer is latest IBM experiment. Tests can be completed in 20 seconds. "Mass screening of children is near and we will be able to run kids through in half a minute. This will reduce by 90 per cent the work of doctors" says Charles Bading, IBM engineer. This may forecast day when electronics will do the work of physicians in many ailments.

Doctor of tomorrow may be able to have his bill completed by an electric brain before he has time to figure it out himself, and while patient is still under examination. Fancy a diagnosis before you have had time to show your tongue! How will it affect patient?

WILL PUSH-BUTTON and clicking sound ever give a sick person the comfort and hope he or she gets from the human voice and time to tell whether doctor is a tall man with a red mustache or a midget with a beard. Won't a patient going in for a minor illness feel sicker if only a few seconds are taken to go over his symptoms?

Possible conversation between man boasting of his condition and a friend: "I've just been examined and found in perfect shape." "By what physician?" "No physician; just a computing machine." Electronic medicine age could bring up this question: If diagnosis is wrong can patient sue electronics corporation?

How will doctors take to it: Admittedly they have more patients than they can easily handle these days, but how will they feel if the Hippocratic oath has to include a pledge by the electrician's union.

What about the day when some patient makes a return visit, and doctor says, "I gave you my diagnosis a week ago, didn't I?" Patient then replies, "No, doc, don't you remember we had a short circuit that time?"

The well-known "travelers cheque" was introduced to the public in 1891 by James C. Fargo, of "Wells-Fargo" fame, and almost immediately became recognized as a "universal currency." Originally thought mainly a convenience for people traveling to Europe by steamship in the 1890's (when a first-class passage cost $50), travelers cheques today accompany a majority of travelers everywhere.

Aerial photography was practiced by means of kites and balloons before the airplane was invented, but not until World War I did its value become apparent toward the end. Later, great skill was developed in taking still pictures from the air and southeastern Alaska was mapped by the U. S. Army in 10 days.

Another Troika We Could Do Without

By Michael Rowe

TEHERAN

With the first of Dr. Ali Amini's long-promised mass corruption trials now begun, the Iranian Premier has emerged at least partially victorious from the "behind the scenes" struggle for power that has been going on since he took over the tenuous control of the government six months ago.

The bringing to trial of Gen. Rouhollah Navisi, the former head of the State Fisheries Co., Mrs. Ehsan Davalou (known as Persia's "Caviar queen") and five others, has proved timely.

It now is obvious that Dr. Amini had been waging a long exhausting war with this powerful minority group over his proposed cleanup. (On two recent occasions the Premier requested audience with the Shah, reportedly in vain attempts to tender his resignation.)

But last week, the graying, hawk-nosed Premier, his hand considerably strengthened, announced in a pre-trial "meet the people" tour of Teheran: "The trials will show we mean business and that we have not made empty promises."

HIS TOUR, in which the Premier talked to workers, religious leaders and students, and visited schools and factories, is seen as a renewed push for popular political support, something he hitherto has been denied in a country with such a wide gulf between the poverty-stricken masses and the immensely wealthy minority.

His campaigning also is taken as a further indication that the Premier has overcome the immediate major obstacles and is now concentrating on consolidating his position.

He may soon be in a position to carry out an even wider purge of "those who have plundered the public treasury," as he has promised on several occasions.

On the foreign front, despite recurrent fears in Western diplomatic quarters of a Soviet attack on Iran, Teheran is outwardly calm. The government, and its Central Treaty Organization allies, continue to treat threats of nuclear devastation by Iran's powerful northern Communist neighbor as "sheer bluff."

But although there is no immediate war scare, the government is genuinely disturbed at possible danger from the stepped-up radio war from across the border.

SOVIET propaganda, which recently has been intensified, is aimed at the average Iranian's desire for neutrality, a broader democracy and better living conditions, and government fears that the propaganda is finding ready ears appear to be well-founded.

Many Iranians tune in secretly (some even openly) to the inflammatory broadcasts from the "Voice of Free Iran," a powerful radio transmitter stationed just across the border in Soviet Azerbaijan. The radio, which has launched attacks on the regime and its alliance with the Western bloc, also transmits items suppressed in Iran's newspapers.

The recent Russian expose of revealing plans of an attack on Russia from Iran were treated with credibility and alarm by many educated Iranians who are quick to point out that it would not be the first time that their country has been the pawn in a bigger game.

There have been open hints that Russia still has in mind the 1921 Irano-Soviet pact, and could use it as a cold war lever. One clause of this pact gave Russia the right to occupy Iran if Soviet security was felt to be threatened. The clause was cited in 1941 when Soviet troops marched in on a German spy hunt.

IRAN CLAIMS that treaty was aimed against a possible pro-Tsarist counter-attack against the new Moscow regime. As this is no longer likely the pact has therefore become void. But recent Russian claims that Iran has become an American military camp, and therefore a threat to her security, indicates that the Kremlin has far from forgotten the 1921 treaty, in which the clause at issue was never revoked.

The Persian government, while prepared to talk peace, is firing off a few broadsides of its own. Dr. Amini told a worker's convocation in East Teheran this week that the country would not bow to intimidation or threats and prophesied that "there will come a time when Russia will be all too eager to offer to us the hand of friendship."

Despite occasional border incidents and reported Russian troop movements, a Soviet attack is discounted. Such a venture would immediately involve the United States under a defensive alliance, and the CENTO nations, including Britain, which has a small force of instructors based at an Azerbaijan radar station.

Iran's 200,000 man army is U.S. trained and fairly well equipped. Its air force is equipped with rocket-firing F84 jet aircraft.

With new tensions on her borders—the Kurdish uprising, the Afghan-Pakistan dispute and the Egyptian-Syrian crisis—Iran is in the center of a trouble spot. As a result, neutrality is becoming more and more the key word.

"But if Churchill, Roosevelt, and Stalin failed to respect our neutrality during the last war," a thoughtful Tehrani told us this week, "Well . . . what could we expect from Khrushchev?"

Phony Shelters

By Victor Wilson

High government officials in Washington are concerned that, because of real public worry on whether to build or buy a fallout shelter, smart-money operators will move into that field, selling high-priced—but useless—shelters.

The officials, none of whom would be quoted, are uncertain on how to warn the public against shelter peddlers, and thus prevent, or at least reduce, the possibility of a financial field day for confidence men.

One approach that seems most likely is for the Federal Trade Commission to make a special study of the situation.

If this happens, and it will occur quickly if the idea is adopted, the FTC presumably would warn the public against phonies in the shelter field, stressing particularly the need to check into the credentials of anyone offering shelters for sale at any price.

This would be particularly true of salesmen who glibly plug ready-built contraptions, presumably offering assured protection, or representatives of contractors offering to reconvert basements to places utterly secure against hydrogen bombs.

As in any other scheme to bilk, these officials point out, one sure way to detect sharp practice is to starts with a high price, then keeps lowering it, finally taking whatever cash is offered.

The reluctance of concerned officials to openly discuss the situation, until they are ready to move, is based on the belief that it may discourage the building or purchase of worthwhile shelters, which government officers, from President Kennedy down, concede would be in the public interest.

But whatever course is finally decided upon to warn the public it is expected to come quickly.

At his last press conference, President Kennedy told reporters he expected the government to announce in mid-November its proposals for a shelter program, presumably privately financed by individual families.

Earlier, after conferring at the White House with a group of visiting editors, the President was quoted as saying he thought an adequate family shelter shouldn't cost more than $100 to $150.

It is impossible to learn whether any shelter sharpshooters already have moved into what could be a lush financial field. But presumably some have, or the concern among interested officials here wouldn't be so acute.

Peace For Russia

By David Lawrence

The Speech That Nikita Didn't Make

This is a story of a speech that Premier Nikita Khrushchev didn't write but should have delivered this week to the Communist Party Congress and the people of Soviet Union. It could have been broadcast throughout the world. It could have given biggest thrill of satisfaction and happiness, but, in particular it could have given the people of the Soviet Union a greater stimulus to progress than any Communist party program—past, present or future.

David Lawrence

"The people of the Soviet Union today know more about the ill effects of war than any people on earth. They have suffered a devastation over the last 46 years far greater than would be inflicted by the dropping of a 100-megaton bomb on each of our 10 largest cities. We don't want war and shall never begin a war. Likewise, the United States and the West do not want war and will not start a war. This means there will be peace.

"We are still suffering today from the disasters of World War I and World War II. I shall quote to you here from a recent analysis of our 1959 census and of other census figures of the past. It says:

" 'Not a single generation of the Soviet people, except those who are today under 12 years of age, has escaped the repercussions of war, revolution, forced labor or famine. These misfortunes have left many scars on the Russian population.

" 'It has been estimated that in the period 1913 to 1959 population losses owing to such forces, together with birth deficits and modest emigration, amounted to the staggering total of 70 to 80 million people.

" 'Losses from World War I, revolution and turmoils of the initial post-revolution period have been assessed at more than 25 million.

" 'Preliminary results of the 1959 census showed that Soviet losses due to World War II alone amounted to 30 to 40 million.

" 'It now appears from the final census results and a population profile constructed for the total population that wartime losses, including birth deficits, were between 40 and 50 million, approximately as great as the total population of France today.

" 'The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics probably has the largest proportion of widows of any country in the world. This helps to explain the omnipresence of older women in the labor force, many of whom perform jobs that men would do in the United States.

" 'Women comprise 57 per cent of the agricultural labor force on collective farms.

" 'The deficit of boys and girls between 10 and 19 reflects the war-time decline in fertility, and the high infant and child mortality of World War II and the years which immediately followed the war. For some years, these birth deficits will limit the annual number of new entrants into the labor force and the armed services.'

"Those quotations present our massive population losses, but these have greater meaning for us when the Soviet Union's population growth during the period from 1913 to 1959 is contrasted with that of the United States.

"In 46 years, our population grew from 160 million to 208.8 million — only a 30 per cent increase. In contrast, the population of the United States increased 80 per cent, growing from 97 million in 1913 to 176 million in 1959.

"So, because of two wars, we today have a more difficult problem than America. We don't want any more war. We want to make a full recovery from the effects of the last two wars—and to build a better standard of living for our own people.

"While we feel that today we must pay out big sums for defense, we can hope sometime soon for disarmament agreements with the West which shall reduce this cost immeasurably and truly bring peace to the world."

The Soviet premier didn't write or deliver the foregoing speech, but he could logically have made it. He, more than anyone else in the Soviet Union, knows that public opinion in his own country is against war.

As for the statistics about population losses, the Soviet premier could easily verify them with his own census date. The source of the figures and of the quoted analyses given above is the Population Reference Bureau, Inc., a nonprofit, private scientific, educational organization which gathers, analyzes and interprets population date.

It is directed by a group of public-spirited American citizens interested in the study of the facts about population in relation to world problems.

One, Two, Three, Four

By Truman Twill

It says in the paper he now must get back in shape for golf and other physical activities after being on the shelf since he strained his back planting a tree in Ottawa last May.

A muscle-man from New York will call at the White House three times a week from now on to help Mr. Kennedy get squared away.

This is one of those situations where two hearts beat as one, because I too am getting squared away and from now on my perspiration will be HIS perspiration, and vice versa, except he doesn't know this and I do, which is the way the publicity crumbles.

The thing I am getting ready for differs, because golf is out of my line — and someday I want to look into this, because I never have known of a farmer who plays golf, which is a game tailored to shut-ins who need to get out in the open air. Farmers don't have this problem.

Whatever else our President is getting ready for probably differs, too, because I will bet the heaviest lamb in the Twillery flock that he is not getting ready for the sheep roundup that takes place each year at the end of the grazing season when a weekend sheep farmer separates the keepers from the sellers.

It is not an easy thing to explain.

It is a catch-as-catch-can free-for-all that takes place between a given number of hysterical sheep and one overmatched man, and what takes place between the beginning and the end is like explaining what happens when you jump off a freight train backward.

But the idea is to get the sheep corraled in a place too small for them to get up steam while the sheepherder gets up steam in a place too big for his resources.

When he thinks he's as ready as he ever will be, he wades into the flock and grabs the nearest woolly around the waist, simultaneously giving the thing an upward hoist in the hope it will be a good sport and come off the ground without complications, other than his own vertebraes snapping out of place because some of these characters weigh more than 100 pounds and have the agility and strength of mountain goats.

The object is to flop the animal on its back so it can be examined for a number of things, all of which it hopes to conceal. Thereafter, it must be stuffed into its proper pen — one for keepers, one for boy sellers, one for girl sellers and one for across-the-board sellers.

Each separate transaction is the equivalent of 27 holes of golf. Altogether, the fall roundup is the equivalent of all the golf John F. Kennedy will play between now and the end of his White House incumbency.

My hat is off to him for wanting to get in shape. My hat will be off a couple dozen times. That's the way it always goes. That's the reason it takes me so long to get in shape; I get soft and flabby just thinking about it.

In unison now, Mr. President—one, two, three, four—ugh. Four, three, two, one — blast off! The strenuous life is something we share in common, sir. If I had that muscle-man from New York, I'd let him sort the sheep and I'd stand at a safe distance and cheer.

Scarbeck Confession Read To U.S. Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Irvin C. Scarbeck, accused of passing secret documents to Polish Communist agents, said in a signed confession "prison in the United States would be more acceptable to me than a happy life in any other country."

The confession by Scarbeck, former second secretary in the American Embassy in Warsaw, was read Friday to a federal court jury. It was the third signed confession the jury has heard since Scarbeck's trial began three weeks ago.

The jury also has heard a 10-hour tape recording of an interogation of Scarbeck by a State Department security officer.

Dog Sees For Him

Man Gets 'New Eyes'

Harold Lockett, 931 Fairview St., has a new pair of eyes in "Gloria," a 20-month old German shepherd guide dog with which he recently returned from Columbus after training at Pilot Dogs, Inc.

Lockett, whose previous guide dog, "Perk" was crippled when struck by an auto, spent two weeks at the Columbus organization training with his new pal, boarding buses, coping with revolving doors and crossing busy intersections.

Lockett, who resides with a sister, Mrs. Maria Smith, has been retired since the loss of his sight. He formerly drove trucks and horses in town.

"Perk", a 10-year-old Doberman pinchser, still is with Lockett, but because of his damaged legs, cannot be worked, and Lockett does not permit the occasionally frisky "Gloria" to play with "Perk" in fear that the male may be hurt.

County Commissioner Frank Wilson of Wellsville provided transportation for Lockett to Columbus. While there, both man and dog enjoyed the companionship of other students and the facilities of the organization.

Pilot Dogs are supplied to worthy blind persons without charge, and all necessary expenses such as room and board, laundry, are paid.

The Pilot Guide Dog Foundation of Chicago, a non - profit organization, has the sole purpose to raise funds for providing guide dogs to the blind. Much of the foundation's help comes through a label savings plan with the Perk Foods Co. on its pet food products.

The program is also supported by contributions of the general public, Lion's Clubs and other organizations.

Lockett said the organization will train any pinscher, Weimaraner or shepherd under 2 years old if the animals are provided.

Before he got to his room on the ninth floor, two men jumped him in the corridor, slugged him twice and fled with the case, Eldot told police.

Commission Seen Needed

Efforts For Colt League Described By Club Guest

Atty. Donald E. Smith, speaker at the Lions Club luncheon Friday, related his experiences in attempting to establish a Colt baseball league for boys over 15 and the need for establishment of a Municipal Recreation Commission to provide the continuity required in various athletic programs.

Smith said some six months' work, mailing of some 500 letters and many personal contacts succeeded in raising only $866 of the $3,000 sought for the field, which has been constructed at the city landfill site near Bloomfield.

The $3,000 would be a "capital investment" for the city that would be useful for years, but there now is a deficit of $2,045.

The funds would not be used for operation of the league since operational expenses would be furnished by five sponsors, who already have been secured and agreed to put up $400 each, he said.

The attorney said he believes it is mandatory that something should be done after hearing some boys complain they were unable to play since they were beyond 14.

The first objective seemed to be securing a site and building the field, which would have a grass infield and outfield and meet major league specifications, Smith said.

The site finally was located at the city's landfill and the administration gave its permission. He praised Mayor Bert Goodballet and the late Lee Copenhaver, then safety - service director, for their co-operation.

He also thanked the Plate Excavating Co. for donating equipment to work at the site.

Smith said the fund - raising experience seemed to be significant of the general attitude in East Liverpool, Chester, Newell and surrounding areas. The Hancock communities were included in the proposal because both would have boys in the league, he said.

He praised the operation of both the Little League and Pony League but said the city virtually abandons any youth over 14 interested in baseball until he becomes old enough to play with an adult team.

Although primarily for the Colt League, it was planned to have the American Legion Post 374 junior baseball team and the high school team utilize the field for their games.

It would be the first baseball field as such the city ever has had, Smith said, explaining Patterson Field and Columbian Park were not laid out for baseball.

The attorney also said a nonpartisan recreational program listing five objectives for the city to attain was presented to Mayor Goodballet but no action has been taken.

The program provided establishment of a youth recreational center, 14 playgrounds, eight baseball fields, a municipal boat dock and possible purchase of a municipal golf course over a 10-year period.

The only way for such a program to be achieved, he said, was to have it operated by a Municipal Recreation Commission which would be divorced from politics and could provide continuity. It would operate similarly to the Board of Public Utilities, which administers the operation of the water department.

Because of the need for funds, Smith said he contacted 25 persons who have opposed the city income tax and reported 17 said they would work and support the tax measure if some means could be found to provide in the legislation that a certain percentage would be used for recreational purposes.

He concluded by urging the club to back the program. Smith was introduced by Laurin Stacey, program chairman. The club met at the Travelers Hotel.

Library Gets Biographies Of Sinclair Lewis, Hearst

Two great figures of American life in the 20's have been immortalized in fine biographies recently added to the Carnegie Public Library, Miss Frances Jones, librarian, said.

From the author's youth as a rebel against smalltown materialism to his degenerate old age as a fabulously successful novelist, Schorer presents a realistic portrayal of Lewis.

An equally rambunctious contemporary was William Randolph Hearst. Lively anecdotes spark meticulous documentation in W. A. Swanberg's "Citizen Hearst." The publisher playboy's income was estimated as $15 million a year.

A quartet of historical novels will be welcomed for those who prefer the romantic past.

A Scribner's editor, Joseph Hopkins, writes of a young village doctor, John Frayne, in the time of the American Revolution in "Patriot's Progress."

Delving also in that same period is "Eagles Where I Walk" by Stephen Longstreet. Four of New York's famous families figure in "Eagles Wher I Walk," about three generations of the Van Cortlandts, the Philipses, the Schuylers and the Livingstons.

Lafayette emerges as the most beloved figure in Longstreet's novel. Blockade runners in the Civil War create an exciting plot for Hamilton Cochran in his novel, "The Dram Tree." Modern history is the backdrop for Howard Simpson in a stirring tale of the struggle for Indo-China, "To a Silent Valley."

An age-old theme, the struggle of good and evil, concerns the Australian novelist, Patrick White, in "Riders in the Chariot." One of the chief characters is a half-mad spinster who lives on an estate called Xanadu outside Sidney. That old perennial, Fannie Hurst, displays her characteristic compassion and uncompromising analysis of people in "God Must be Sad." A ranching family in the Nevada desert provide a compelling narrative in Ramona Stewart's "The Stars Abide."

In an entirely different vein than other books on this week's shelf are the imaginative and courageous activities of Michel Hollard, French Resistance leader. The author of "The Man Who Saved London" is George Martelli.

The devotion of pets for their masters is most amply demonstrated in the trek of three animals who traveled 250 miles across Canada to find their new home. The title is "The Incredible Journey" by Burford.

Freeway Footprints Blamed On Children

Movie stars impress their footprints in cement at Gruman's Chinese in Hollywood but it's not a suitable practice for the city's freeway.

Parents were asked today to caution their children to stop defacing newly - poured concrete on the freeway in the West End.

Police Chief Americo Radeschi said youngsters have been tramping into the fresh cement and cutting their initials, forcing contractors to refinish the surface.

Any youngsters apprehended will be taken to City Hall and their parents summoned, the chief warned.

Facts You Should Know About Septic Tanks

A Septic Tank is actually the "stomach" of the disposal system, its purpose being to digest and liquefy the solids entering it, discharging liquids to the disposal area.

In general, Septic Tanks are constructed of steel or concrete, varying in size from 500 to 10,000 gallon capacities. Correctly made and installed, they form an airtight and watertight chamber.

The inlet carries the raw sewage into the first chamber of the tank. Most of the solids will settle to the bottom of this chamber, developing bacterial colonies which "feed" on these solids. This bottom layer is termed, "sludge". A crust or "mat" will usually form on the top, this being composed mainly of grease and fatty substances which have a tendency to float. The second chamber enables further clarification of the water prior to passing out to the drainage area. Water leaving a Septic Tank is referred to as "effluent".

Septic Tanks will operate satisfactorily as long as the "mat" and "sludge" do not build up to the point where they start feeding through into the second chamber, and then out to the drainage area. Unfortunately, most people wait until the system "back-ups", which means that the tank is completely clogged and that large amounts of solids have passed through with the effluent.

Most Septic Tank failures are caused by (1) introduction of chemicals which destroy the bacteria life, (2) overloading, i.e., putting more into the tank in any 24-hr. period than its designed capacity, (3) temperature changes which slow down the bacterial digestion, and (4) excessive use of greases and fats.

Regular use of "SEA-CAL", preferably combined with an initial "seeding" of the tank with "SEA-CAL" will usually eliminate all of the problems by introducing powerful glandular enzymes which accelerate the digestive action and prevent the passage of solids to the drainage area. Enzymes, such as are used in "SEA-CAL", are also extremely resistant to temperature and pH changes, and the addition of millions of bacterial cultures (80,000,000 per gram) in SEA-CAL replaces the bacterial colonies that may have been destroyed.

It would be untrue to state that a Septic Tank need never be pumped, since sewage can only be digested to a point of "ash" and the introduction of inorganic materials, such as sand, grit, metal, and glass, will create a build-up over a period of time that will have to be removed. However, with regular monthly treatments of SEA-CAL, these pumpings should occur only at ten or twenty-year intervals.

Rev. Dahlberg's church belongs to both the Northern and Southern Baptist Conventions. He headed the American Baptist Convention; was on the Executive Committee of the World Baptist Alliance; and was the first Baptist to be elected President of the National Council of Churches of Christ.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

The Joy Of Walking

A French businessman, an old friend of mine, made his first visit to the United States. I invited him to my house for dinner and of course put to him the usual question, "What impresses you most about our country?" "Nobody walks," was the immediate and surprising answer. "It's amazing," he continued. "My wife and I go out for our usual walk, but nobody else is walking. But we get our exercise all right," he grinned. "We get it dodging all you Americans in cars."

DR. PEALE

I had never thought of it before, but decided that my French friend had put his finger on a fact. Perhaps we shall go down in history as the soft - legged generation. I don't know how far you can press the matter, but there could be a relationship between soft legs and soft heads.

Anyway, this set me to thinking — so when I came back to Switzerland where I've been coming for vacations for a number of years I noted once again that everyone was out on the mountain paths and meadow walks and river promenades with a rucksack on the back and a sturdy metal-pointed walking stick in hand.

I decided I was as hardy as the Swiss, Germans, French and Italians trudging up and down the steep slopes with legs like pistons. "Where," I asked resolutely, "do they get this notion that an American can't walk, that he is soft in the legs? I'll show them, and I'll show myself, too!"

IT HAPPENED that my daughter Elizabeth, age 19, my wife Ruth, a little over 50 (I hope she doesn't read this), and myself, 63, were up at the Gorner Grat, 10,000 feet elevation, opposite the shoulder of the Matterhorn. It was really cold that August day — about 40 degrees Fahrenheit with snow all around. The air was crisp and stimulating, and when you were out of the wind the sun felt balmy.

We started down by mountain train to Zermatt, but when we came to Rifelalp I told Elizabeth and Ruth that there was a nice little tea chalet there so we got off. Near the chalet was a path leading down, and the sign read, "1 std (stunden), i.e. one hour to Zermatt." A Swiss with whom I talked assured me it was a nice easy path mostly through woods. "Let's walk and toughen ourselves up," I said.

We set off down the path. I've since had many discussions with walkers as to which is the touchest, walking down a steep grade or plodding up. Personally I favor up-walking, for when you trudge a long distance downward, especially over rocks and roots and sliding on pebbles, your legs, if soft, sure let you know they're not used to it.

I SOON learned to add to the figures on those encouraging sign posts which give you the walking time, for it was two hours and thirty minutes later that we stumbled across the final meadow and babbling stream into the chalet-lined streets of Zermatt. Off long since had come, coat, sweater, even shirt; tie was dangling out of pants pocket. I had to admit it — here was one American whose legs were soft.

"Daddy," opined Elizabeth with Mt. Holyoke thoughtfulness, "maybe our heads are soft also for taking a professional mountain walker's hike the first time out."

"Don't believe a word of it. Whose legs are soft?" I demanded as I wobbled painfully into my hotel. I bought a big bag of Epsom salts, dumped an ample portion of it into a hot bath, and boy, did my poor old muscles feel good! But next morning when I got out of bed! Well, I stumbled down to the drugstore and bought some linament in a box which promised in three languages, French, German and English, that this ointment would penetrate, and penetrate it did, nearly taking the skin off in the process.

But the spirit of the rugged pioneer was not dead, for I got myself a metal-pointed walking stick. It sure helps in leaning. And I went back, muscles groaning, that very day at the mountain paths, only this time mostly up so as to work another set of muscles.

Believe me, those muscles realized that a determined spirit was set upon mastering them. And another half-dozen Epsom salt baths late they settled down and have been working fine ever since. If I say so myself, I can keep up pretty well with most of the walkers I meet. At least, my legs aren't soft any more. Can't say about the head. I must add that Elizabeth and Ruth (women, just think of it — women!) didn't need the penetrating linament at all.

WALKING ISN'T as simple or easy as you might think. There's a real art to it. My friends, Max and Emily Schwab of Palm Springs, Calif., were with us. Max is a native - born Swiss and he and Emily are real walkers. Max taught us how to do it.

The idea is to plod with springy step, getting a bit of rhythm into your movements and just go at it steady and easy like. And it's important to know how to breathe on an up grade; two short inhalations, not deep — maybe about half lung. Then forcibly, even rather noisily expel. Keep this up until the grade lessens. Then breathe deeply, but easily a few times. By this method I was amazed to find that I could plod up long steep grades with nary a puff.

But the physical reactions and effects don't tell the whole story about walking. It's the slow paced and intimate communion with nature that satisfies you the most. You plod upward or downward along a swiftly - moving mountain stream which surges fresh and cold from the enormous glaciers between the snowy mountain peaks that are always above you.

This stream may assume various forms, sometimes as a surging torrent among the rocks of a deep gorge, and at another point dancing down a mountainside under trees through which sunshine sparkles on its surface, making it look for all the world like lace in motion.

You stop to make friends with a cow and listen to his dangling bell; you watch a farmer high on a towering mountainside slide a bunch of hay down a singing wire. Then, hot and deliciously tired, you rest at a rather primitive farm chalet and refresh yourself with rich creamy milk, listening meanwhile to a waterfall which arches out over a 1,000-foot drop from the Breithorn towering above you.

I was in complete agreement with a charming Swiss couple whom we met on the path at the far end of Lauterbrunnen Valley. "Up here," they said, "you discover nature and God and yourself." Indeed, there is joy and wisdom too in walking.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

When I talk to God I'm sure He listens. I'm too young to realize there is such a thing as a skeptic.

I admire the convictions of my Mother and Father. They have shown me by their example that they live what they believe.

Because I've learned to trust and depend on those who love me, I haven't any silly illusion of self-sufficiency. It makes sense to trust and depend on God.

I'm proud and happy that I'm a Christian—so I'm not afraid someone might laugh at me for believing the Truth.

But, of course, my faith is no accident. I'm in Church every Sunday to worship God. Religious training is a major part of my education. I'm one of the millions of Christian youngsters who are the hope of this frightened world.

And when I talk to God, I don't just talk to Him about ME. I talk to Him about YOU!

Community Fund Only Source

District Now Has 1,556 Girl Scouts

The operation of the East Liverpool Area Girl Scout Council depends solely on funds received through the annual Community Fund campaign now in progress.

The only other monies available to the council are the small profits realized from the annual cookie sale, it is pointed out in this article of a series about agencies aided by the Community Fund.

Currently, there are 1,556 Girl Scouts in the council with 1,069 from East Liverpool, 225 from Wellsville, 171 from Chester and 91 from Newell. In addition, there are more than 500 adult volunteer workers active in the area program.

MANY OF these adults are also serving now as workers in the fund campaign and are especially aware of the importance of continuing and expanding the Girl Scout program.

The entire Girl Scout program is based on reverence and respect for God and Country and a friendship for all peoples. The girls are taught to be self-reliant, to be creative, and to be aware of their duties and responsibilities as citizens.

LOCAL Girl Scouts are fortunate in having an expanded summer-fun program. They own and operate the Bryan Recreation Center in Dixonville and Camp Echo Dell on the Bell School Rd. The Bryan Center is open year-round for all Girl Scouts for various activities. Camp Echo Dell is used primarily for older girls.

The expansion of these camping facilities is the most recent accomplishment of the council. As the result of years of planning, cabins have been erected with built-in bunk beds to accommodate 24 girls, and a large outdoor pavilion, with indoor and outdoor fireplaces, tables and benches for up to 75, is now a part of camp facilities.

All troops use Echo Dell for picnics and all-day outings, but a supervised four-day camping program is offered girls of 13 years and older. For only $1 per girl, the program provides sleeping accommodations and food for the four days and the supervision of trained camp personnel.

WHILE facilities at the Bryan Recreation Center are available the year-round to all Girl Scouts, it is operated during June for Brownie Scouts, 7 through 10. For only $2 per girl, the council provides transportation to and from the camp and the Bus Terminal, trained supervision, a trained nurse, milk daily, one cook - out meal and program and handicraft supplies.

Girl Scouts acquire knowledge and skill in a large variety of creative arts and crafts through a continuing year-round program within the troops. Training courses in these arts and crafts are periodically available for the adult leaders.

Intermediate Girl Scouts, 10 through 13, have a rank and badge program. It provides a progressive educational program in scouting. There are four ranks—tenderfoot, second class, first class and the highest award—the Curved Bar.

PROFICIENCY badges are designed to develop depty of knowledge and skill in a specific subject, in contrast to the rank's purpose in creating interest in a variety of subjects.

Senior Girl Scouts follow a specialized program, designed primarily to provide opportunities for service to the community. But all program-levels, Brownie, Intermediate or Senior, give year-long community service to the hospitals, nursing homes and to shut-ins, etc. They participate in any community projects to which they are invited, provided it is not injurious to their health or safety.

WITHIN THE various troops, weekly dues is based on the ability of the girls to pay and varies from 5 to 10 cents. Uniforms are not compulsory, but they do serve to identify the girls (and adults) as members of the vast family of Girl Scouts.

Right now, there are two deterrents to membership expansion—the need for more adult leaders and additional funds to finance their training courses. Adult women are needed as troop leaders, assistants, committee members and program consultants. Leaders must be at least 21 and assistants 18 or older.

THE PRESENT Board of Directors of the council consists of 35 area women, who represent all local racial or religious groups, and every community within East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Newell and suburbs. The local program, spearheaded by the late Mrs. J. A. Bryan, began just 18 years ago, but today over 2,000 girls and women are benefiting from its activities.

Funds are needed to continue these efforts and to expand the program to include still more young people. The council has a modest budget for the coming year, a total of only $13,290, to cover all administrative and property-maintenance expenses. This is the amount needed from the Community Fund campaign now in progress if the Girl Scout program is to continue in this area.

Four Fired, 18 Suspended By Canton's Mayor

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Mayor Charles L. Babcock fired four men and suspended 18 Friday in answer to a state examiner's report on payroll violations.

He also accused City Auditor Joseph DuBar of "gross neglect of duty" in keeping records, but said he did not "intend at this time" to file charges against his May primary election opponent.

Fired were former street superintendent Robert W. Hinten, timekeeper George Vince and laborers Frank J. Forchione and Louns O. Reolfi, all of whom were cited in the examiners' report.

Hinten had been demoted following an investigation made by the Democratic mayor at the time the examiners were here.

The examiners' report cited payroll violations dealing with sick leave pay, time card irregularities, gambling activities in the street department, political sign painting allegedly done on city time and snow removal from private property by city equipment and workers.

The report asked the city solicitor to recover $10,371 is said was illegally paid to workers.

Tigers Battle To Wire But Lose 16-8 In Fourth Quarter

Potters Show Letdown In 4th Loss

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Lacking a consistent offense and showing a big gap defensively, the East Liverpool Potters bowed, 20-6, to an invading Akron Central eleven Friday night at Patterson Field before a slim crowd of 2,500.

It was Central's first victory of the season.

Coach Bob Hedmond, following his team's fourth loss in six games, was the first to admit that the Potters didn't display the same fire that won them a decision over Youngstown Rayen just a week ago.

Meanwhile, veteran coach Felix Latona of Akron Central said "it feels great to win that first one." Latona and his squad had experienced three defeats and one tie before coming here.

It was too much Gary Gump, who has the potential of becoming a fine college quarterback, "Jumpin" Johnny Johnson and ball control.

GUMP DID about everything. His advanced billing showed he was an outstanding passer, but his running ability was just as dangerous.

Gump, a 200-pound quarterback, flipped a 12-yard touchdown pass to John Johnson, scored on a 48-yard run himself and was the bread and butter man on three different fourth down situations when Akron gambled for yardage and won.

Baker dashed around the right side from one yard out to climax a 56-yard drive. The Potter signal caller was stopped on the conversion try when he tried to pass, but ended up keeping the ball.

THE POTTERS met a line about their size, but couldn't do too much with it. After gaining over 300 yards in the Rayen game, the Potters were held to a net of 33 yards last night.

Baker, who was chased out of the passing pocket many times was thrown for losses on several occasions.

Central, coming up with its top performance of the season, rolled up 17 first downs and a net of 295 yards on the ground. The Wildcats ran 58 plays to East Liverpool's 33.

The big play of the drive was a 31-yard pass from Baker to end Jim Richardson, which carried to the Central 19.

Central came back and drove 84 yards in 22 plays, with Gump hitting Johnson on a 12-yard touchdown pass with 6:35 remaining in the second quarter. A pass for the conversion failed.

EAST LIVERPOOL was handed a golden opportunity early in the third period. Akron was forced to punt for only the second time of the evening, and Len Johnson of Central, attempting to kick, saw Bob Parsons rushing in hard, tried to run with the ball but slipped and fell on his own 38-yard line.

This brought the Potter fans to their feet, but three plays later fullback Jerry Bell fumbled on the Central 22-yard line and Bill Brant recovered for the visitors.

Late in the third quarter, Akron took over on its own 29 and the march was on for another TD. In 10 plays Central moved to the Potters 11-yard line, from where the elusive Johnson ripped up the middle for his second touchdown. Gump ran the conversion with 10:52 remaining in the contest for a 14-6 lead.

The Potters got their hands on the ball for the last time but were forced to punt.

Beery's 89-Yard Return Sparks Quakers

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Underdog Wellsville High, held in check by costly penalties and a key injury, turned in one of its best games of the season Friday night but bowed to Salem, 16-8.

The Tigers gave up a touchdown on the opening kickoff, then proceeded to battle their rivals on even terms before succumbing to superior manpower and an apparent "jinx."

Outplayed in the first half, Salem High used quarterback Bill Beery's 89-yard kickoff return to gain an early edge, then capitalized on favorable breaks to gain the 18th consecutive victory over the Tigers.

Beery's dazzling run on the opening kickoff proved to be the deciding factor of a rugged, fast-moving game which otherwise might have ended in a tie.

The Quakers had posted an 8-0 lead with only 14 seconds elapsed in the first quarter as Beery weaved his way through fine blocking and raced from his own 11-yard stripe to the end zone practically untouched by a defender.

Wellsville battled back to tie the score at 8-8 on quarterback Roger Ours' five-yard skirt around right end, and his pass to end Andy Dash for the conversion, with 10:25 left in the second quarter.

It came with 10:13 left in the game after the invaders had marched 75 yards in a series of 14 plays. Halfback Dave Edling bucked one-yard for the score and Jim Gibb crashed over for his second conversion to provide the eight-point margin of victory.

Between the opening whistle and the final play there were some fine moments for Woods' Tiger squad.

Fullback John Euill turned in a standout performance in spearheading Wellsville's ground attack. The 170-pound senior gained 133 yards in 19 carries, his longest being 30 yards.

The steady play of Wellsville's forward wall drew praise from Tiger Coach Woods. From end-to-end the line blocked and tackled hard and threw Salem backs for losses totaling 25 yards.

An injury in the first half to halfback Alvin Thompson, leading scorer and a key in the secondary defense, proved costly for Wellsville. He sat out the last two quarters, his tackling and pass defending skills missed visibly.

The Wellsville line contained for the most part any inside rushing attempts, but halfback Dave Edling of Salem proved a hard runner to stop once he got started to the outside.

In 21 carries, Edling, 152-pound senior, picked up 135 yards, an average of 6.4. Fullback Bob Owens, subbing for the injured regular Fred Kaiser, gained 38 yards in nine carries.

Wellsville turned to passing for a large part of its offensive attack, and Ours succeeded on hitting six of 17. Halfback Mark Leyda hauled in one for a 57-yard gain, and made a diving catch of another. Ours also hit Frank Luckino for a 17-yard gainer.

Playing yeoman roles on the Tiger line were regulars Andy Dash and Jack Culp, ends, tackles Alvin Jackson and Mike Thompson, guards Mike Rubino and Roger Miller, and center Jack Cataldo. Thompson went most of the way although slowed by a leg injury.

Palestine Defeated By Minerva, 20-0

Unbeaten Minerva High came up with an important victory in Tri-County League action Friday night, blanking East Palestine, 20-0.

The defeat, only the second in league play in five years for East Palestine, seriously jeopardizes the Bulldogs' chances of repeating as league champions.

Minerva moved into a deadlock for first place in the league with Poland, each having 4-0 records. Poland, however, was favored to defeat Leetonia in a battle this afternoon at 2.

Minerva capitalized on a faulty punt and an intercepted pass to put the damper on East Palestine's bid for its sixth straight loop crown, or at least a share of it.

The Lions (7-0) packed all their scoring into the second quarter, and a stiff defense blanked the Bulldogs the remaining quarters that were waged fairly evenly.

Folllowing a short punt by East Palestine, the Lions registered again on a one-yard buck and Frank Haynam added the conversion.

Bingham intercepted a pass and went 37 yards for Minerva's final touchdown.

East Palestine's only league loss in five seasons past came in 1959 and Minerva also was the villain then, winning 14-6.

Cumberland Wins, 40-20, Over Rams

Once-beaten New Cumberland High scored five touchdowns in the first half to coast to a 40-20 victory over visiting South Side Friday night.

Katzenmeyer scored touchdowns on runs of 45- 39 and one yard, tossed a 20-yard pass to end Ken Freshwater for another and booted three extra points in the greatest point-producing night of his scholastic career.

Also joining in the Blue Raider scoring parade were halfback Ed Wudarsky, who tallied on a two-yard run, and fullback Allen Pettit, who scored on a 35-yard run. Pettit also plunged for one conversion.

South Side (3-3) came through with single scores in every period but the first.

Wilbur King scored the first TD for the Rams on a two-yard run, while Curtis Clay added another on a three-yard buck. Quarterback Chuck Schmidt passed to end Bob Malone for South Side's first conversion.

New Cumberland showed a 14-10 edge in first downs and an edge of 320 to 266 in yards gained. Katzenmeyer completed six of eight passes, while South Side failed to complete any of seven.

EL Player Undergoing Tests At Pittsburgh

Dick Heddleston, a defensive back for the Potters, is undergoing tests for a head injury at the Presbyterian Hospital in Pittsburgh. Heddleston, a junior, suffered a slight concussion several weeks ago and reoccurrences of the injury showed up this week when he was taken from a practice session at Patterson Field.

Perkins Seeks Junior Welter Crown Tonight

But without yet stepping into the ring for their scheduled 15-round match, they are practically killing each other with kindness. Each feels he will win, though the latest odds give the edge to Loi.

Loi, 32, considered the best fighter Italy ever had, said he felt edgy.

Although "confident of winning," he said the 24-year-old American Negro "has shown too much consideration for me, as a fighter and as a man."

Perkins accepted without a word of protest two postponements of the fight asked by Loi, ailing the first time from a sprained arm and the second from an intestinal disturbance.

Chester Edges Crestview, 13-6; Stanton Rolls At Newell

Myers And Jarvis Net Touchdowns

Coach Dom Amedeo's forces notched their third win in seven starts while Crestview absorbed its fourth loss in six outings.

Jim Cosgrove intercepted a Crestview pass on the Chester 42-yard line with 13 seconds remaining. George Bebout then hit fullback Ralph Rossy with a pass that carried to the Crestview nine-yard line with Rossy going out of bounds to stop the clock with two seconds left in the first half.

With only time for one play, Bebout flipped a short pass to halfback Bob Myers for the touchdown. A run for the extra point was stopped.

Following a scoreless third quarter, Larry Jarvis picked up a Crestview fumble on the Chester 47 and ran to the visitors' 21. A few plays later Jarvis, who set it up, tallied from one-yard away. Don Reese passed to Kelse Johnson for the 13th point.

Chester's second touchdown came with 10:11 remaining in the contest. With 3:54 left, Skip Campbell scampered over from seven yards away to climax a 70-yard march turned in by Crestview.

The New Waterford eleven then drove to the Chester 30 after intercepting a pass, but Chester picked off a Crestview pass in the last minute to kill the scoring threat.

Navy's Rally Beats Detroit By 37 To 19

By The Associated Press

With Detroit again thwarted in its bid to gain national recognition, the college football focus Saturday centered on Notre Dame's attempt to return to the top of the heap against mighty Michigan State.

Navy, after blowing a 13-0 lead, surged from behind a 19-16 third period deficit with three quick touchdowns and spoiled Detroit's unbeaten season 37-19 in the top game Friday night.

The Titans, hampered by first period jitters, relied on the passing arm of Jerry Gross, one of the nation's top college quarterbacks, to forge their third period lead.

Gross, who entered the game No. 2 among the nation's total offense leaders, hit Larry Vargo with strikes of 6, 10 and 26 yards to wipe out Navy's early lead.

Dick Drummond scored four touchdowns, including an 86-yard kickoff return, to spark George Washington to a 49-12 rout of William and Mary in the only other major game.

The effort of Notre Dame, unbeaten in three and ranked fifth in the nation, to regain its former stature against top-ranked Michigan State claimed most of the attention today.

Michigan State, which gained the top spot of its victory over Michigan last week, is unbeaten and holds the favorite's role.

Four Southeastern Conference battles and the game that may produce the Southwest Conference champion head the remainder of the schedule.

Mississippi, unhappy at being holted out of its No. 1 rating, opens serious defense of its Southeastern title against four-touchdown underdog Tulane (1-3). Ole Miss (4-0) fell to the No. 2 spot despite its 47-7 frolic against Houston.

Alabama, ranked fifth in the latest Associated Press poll and unbeaten in four games, goes against Tennessee. Georgia Tech (No. 8) takes on Auburn and Louisiana State, tied for the No. 10 spot with Arkansas, plays Kentucky.

Third-ranked Texas sends its powerful offense against Arkansas in a match that could produce the Cotton Bowl host on New Year's day.

Bears, Dallas Face Crucial Tests Sunday

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago and Dallas face make-or-break contests Sunday, challenging major obstacles in their fight to stay alive in the National Football League title chase.

The Bears take on powerful San Francisco, coleader in the West, while Dallas plays host to defending champion Philadelphia, coleader in the East.

A victory by either the Bears or the Cowboys would put them very much in the running. A loss would leave them only a long-shot chance at the division titles. Each has a 3-2 mark and is tied for third in their divisions.

The Bears, who have won three of their last four, must stop San Francisco's powerful, whirling shotgun offense that features three alternating quarterbacks. San Francisco's defense has allowed only 57 points in five games—second best in the league.

Dallas will rely on its fine pass defense that has come up with 14 interceptions, to discourage Sonny Jurgensen's tosses to ace receivers Pete Retzlaff, Tommy McDonald and Bobby Walston.

The Eagles sport a 4-1 mark and are tied with New York for the Eastern lead.

The Giants, fresh off an all-winning four-game road trip, begin a five-game home stand facing a Los Angeles Rams squad that may be better than its 1-4 mark would indicate.

"There's not much difference between 4-1 and 1-4 when you still have nine games to play," New York Coach Al Sherman said.

Each team is expected to alternate quarterbacks. New York has veterans Charlie Conerly and Y. A. Tittle, while the Rams use Zeke Bratkowski and Frank Ryan. Sherman has not yet announced his starter.

Other games pit powerful Green Bay (4-1), coleader in the West, against the Minnesota Vikings (1-4); Cleveland (3-2) is at Pittsburgh (1-4), St. Louis (2-3) at Washington (0-5) and Baltimore (2-3) at Detroit (3-2).

Mills Stands Out In Irons Victory

It was "Bob Mills night" at Newell Friday when the veteran signal caller showed up all over the field to pace Stanton Local in a 46-0 victory over a crippled Newell squad.

Mills scored two touchdowns and passed for another pair as Stanton rebounded for its sixth win of the season after suffering its only defeat last week to Springfield.

Two first period touchdowns set Newell on its heels. Mills ran 66 yards to start the rout and then flipped a pass to Curt Rose for the conversion.

Before the first quarter was over John Pearson scampered 34 yards for a TD and Stan Wickham tacked on the conversion.

Mills had a hand in both touchdowns scored in the second quarter. He passed to Rose on a play covering 36 yards and then turned around and intercepted a pass and raced 63 yards for his second touchdown of the evening.

A fumble by Newell on the second half kickoff gave Stanton the ball in Viking territory and Mills passed to Wickham on a touchdown play good for 35 yards.

Newell's deepest drive carried to the Stanton 15-yard line in the final quarter.

The Vikings have now dropped seven straight.

Next week Stanton will meet Brilliant Thursday night at 7:30 on the Irondale gridiron. The game was moved up due to a teachers' meeting involving Stanton Local.

Wilt Loops 57 Points As Philly Tops Lakers

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain is off and running in the national Basketball Association scoring derby with 103 points in the first two games of the season.

The Stilt poured through 57 points Friday night to lead the Philadelphia Warriors over the Los Angeles Lakers, 122-115 in the only NBA action of the day. The day before Wilt picked up 46 as the Warriors lost to the Lakers, 118-113.

The Warriors, who took the lead permanently in the first period, had to withhold a late surge by the Lakers. The third quarter ended with the Warriors holding an 88-86 advantage.

Wilt's total on 24 field shots and 9 of 17 free throws broke his own record of 56 for Philadelphia's Convention Hall. The Stilt's personal game high is 67.

Four games are scheduled today, with New York and Philadelphia meeting in the afternoon television game of the week and Detroit at Boston, Chicago at Syracuse and Cincinnati at St. Louis tonight.

Sugar's 11-5 Favorite In TV Battle Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been six years since Sugar Ray Robinson fought twice within a month. That was in 1955 when he began his first comeback and it wound up with Robinson regaining the middleweight title.

Since then Sugar Ray has won the middleweight crown twice more and lost it thrice. At the moment, at 41 and fading, he still hopes to grab a piece of the middleweight crown for the sixth time.

Robinson makes his second start within the past 30 days tonight as an 11-5 favorite over 22-year-old Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore. They clash in a television—ABC-TV 9 p.m., EST—ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The Harlem dandy didn't look impressive in his last outing against easy-to-hit Wilfie Greaves at Detroit, Sept. 25. Robinson was dropped and had to rally to gain a split decision.

Robinson's punch isn't as lethal as it used to be and he no longer can unload combination punches in clusters of four, five and six.

Downes of London and Fullmer of West Jordan are coholders of the world middleweight championship. Downes has New York, Massachusetts and European recognition. Fullmer is recognized by the NBA.

Robinson's record is 144-9-3 including 93 knockouts. He is ranked fifth among the contenders. Moyer, ranked ninth, has a 30-5 record, including eight KOs.

Play-Bearers Near Bottom As Receivers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Clarke and Gern Nagler, the Cleveland Browns' slot ends, have served as coach Paul Brown's play-bearing messengers most of the season, but both are near the end of the line when it comes to pass receiving.

They have caught only eight passes between them although one or the other is in on every play on offense. There are no records to show how many passes have been thrown in their direction.

Milt Plum's favorite target so far this season has been Ray Renfro, with Jim Brown a close second. Renfro has caught 21 passes for 336 yards and Brown has taken 20 for 138 yards.

Others ahead of the slot ends in the receiving department are Bobby Mitchell, with 14 catches for 137 yards, and Rich Kreitling, with nine for 99 yards.

However, Brown doesn't attach any particular significance to the figures.

"The slot ends are the prime receivers on certain plays," he said Friday as the Browns prepared for the game with the Steelers in Pittsburgh Sunday. "It depends a lot on the defense. One of these afternoons you may find Gern or Leon catching a whole flock of passes . . .

Plan Against Attack Now, Speaker Says

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—There is a need to plan now "to assure that state and local government will be preserved and will continue to function effectively" in the event of an enemy attack, a federal consultant told a group of Civil Defense, city and county officials here Friday.

The consultant, Francis X. Dooley, who is in the continuity of government office of emergency planning in the executive office of President Kennedy, urged that Ohio voters pass a constitutional amendment Nov. 7 that would authorize providing for emergency continuity of government in the event of attack. Dooley said 32 states have taken action on this type of legislation.

AFL Contest Postponed By Storm Threat

BOSTON (AP) — The first weather-forced postponement in the two-year history of the American Football League sends the Boston Patriots against the Buffalo Bills Sunday afternoon.

The Eastern Division clubs originally had been scheduled to meet Friday night at Boston University Field. The postponement was based on the threat posed by tropical storm Gerda.

Boston club President Bill Sullivan conferred with AFL Commission Joe Foss and Buffalo owner Ralph Wilson prior to making the announcement. Foss made the decision to postpone the game.

Buffalo is riding the crest of two straight victories over Houston and Dallas behind the direction of its new quarterback tandem of M.C. Reynolds and Warren Rabb.

Boston had managed only a tie in its last three starts despite a scoring output of 88 points.

Lonesome Girl Turns To Overeating

Compulsive eating is always an attempt to make up for something that is missing in life. One can recognize that "stuffing like a pig" only makes matters worse, and still not know how to go about changing. A young woman who signs herself "Desperate" writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"I know there's not much you can do to help me, but I really am desperate. I simply cannot lose weight. I've read your column for years...it hasn't helped. I know about nutrition and the psychology of dieting but I can't lose. I just don't care anymore. I would like to be thin but I lack motivation.

"I live in the country right now and I don't see any boys. It is very boring here because I don't get along with my family and I don't have any friends. In short, I'm lonesome.

"ALL I DO is eat all day long and mother encourages me to eat instead of helping me to diet. I was slender when I was young, but went on some starvation diets to become thin. Then I ate so much afterwards I became bloated like a pig.

"I feel like a pig too. I just don't care. I stuff myself until I am sick and I don't really enjoy eating so much. When I'm not at home I don't eat as much. I'm ready to run away...but I haven't any money. I don't know what to do. I'm 21, I've never had a real boy friend, and it doesn't look like I ever will.

"I'm intelligent and could be attractive. When I was a freshman in college I lost lots of weight and my measurements were 37-23-37...but they're not any more, I would like to do something practical to lose weight. I'm 5 feet 7 tall and weigh 150 pounds. I look best at 120 pounds. Do you have any suggestions?"

Yes, try to ferret out why you are so cross with life. Weight is not really the problem for you are not a fatty. The trouble is that you are idle and bored. This preoccupation with food is either just someting to do or an expression of resentment.

When you are away from home you do not feel compelled to continue stuffing food into your mouth. You need to change your environment, but do not run away in rebellion. Make arrangements to get out and earn your way.

COULD YOU think in terms of going back to college? If funds are lacking, take night courses. You need the stimulation of outside interests and activities. Stop blaming your circumstances and resenting your situation and your mother.

At 21, all of life is still ahead of you. What do you want to do with your life? Nothing just happens. You have to make it happen. A goal is all - important.

If will power isn't used in the direction of a goal it's a form of wilfullness. Take charge of your life, get excited about the possibilities of what you can do for yourself — then do it!

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Can Be Taught ABCs At Home

In the average school in the United States, a child learns a few letters of the alphabet in the first grade and doesn't know nearly all of them until he's in the second grade. A recent publication from the National Education Association — "How to Help Your Child Learn: a Handbook for Parents of Children in Kindergarten Through Grade 6" — has this to say: "He learns the alphabet as he learns to read — not separately for reciting aloud. Actually, he will probably pick up names of many of the letters in the first grade.

"JIM WILL WRITE his name on the board in manuscript and thus learn the letters in his name, or the teacher will point out letters occasionally and name them for the class. Second grade is the time when names of all the letters are usually learned."

Therefore, if your child is in the average first grade class, he may not know nearly all his ABCs at the end of the school year. He may have to wait until he's in the second grade to learn all 26 of them — unless you have already taught them to him at home.

Even if your child is in the second grade, he may not be able to identify all the letters of the alphabet.

Chances are that you don't know whether your child has learned his alphabet or not, be he in the first, second or even third grade. You might be surprised if you tried him out on them.

IF YOU DISCOVER that he does not know them or confuses some of them, why not set out to teach him these letters at home?

Even if he entered the first grade in September he's probably had practice at school at learning to identify on sight some whole words, even whole phrases. Also his learning some of the letters now at home hardly would interfere with his practice in word-reading at school.

But you would not be wise to express surprise to this child that he has not learned his letters at school. Just help him learn them at home, without ever suggesting to him that he should have learned them at school.

DON'T HAVE HIM attack more than one, two or three letters an evening. If more than one letter, have him dwell on it alone before attacking another. Print or type this letter plainly. Have him print or type it several times. Then have him find this letter in words on a printed page.

If he has confused two letters like "b" and "d", "b" and "h" or "b" and "p", don't let him see them together for some time. Have him dwell on either letter with the other out of sight until this first letter is familiar to him.

It's well to have him learn the small or lower-case letters first, as he will have most need for using them.

Unless you observe the foregoing, you will be inclined to have him try to learn ten or a dozen letters an evening — the surest way to get him all mixed up and discouraged.

Kennedy Hopes To Take Cruise

The weather forecast was for cloudy skies and crisp autumn winds, not usually a deterrent to Kennedy's love of the sea.

At Hammersmith Farm, the home of Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, the President planned to get in a weekend of rest and relaxation. There were no formal appointments on his schedule.

Castro Predicts Great Future In Cuba's Economy

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro says Cuba will reach in eight years the rate of economic growth that will take other Latin-American countries 25 years under President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress plan.

The Cuban prime minister painted that rosy future in an economic report to the nation Friday night.

He also charged the United States with keeping Latin America in economic stagnation and with using the threat of war to impose "an imperialist system all over the world."

Castro predicted all unemployment in rural areas would be eliminated next year. He acknowledged the prospects were not as encouraging in the cities. Since taking over power in 1959 Castro said his government has scaled down unemployment from nearly 700,000 to 214,000.

WALTER J. BLACK'S CLASSICS CLUB INVITES YOU TO ACCEPT

THESE 3 beautifully bound classics

PLATO FIVE GREAT DIALOGUES

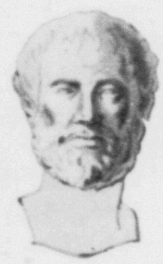
NOTHING short of amazing is the way this great classic (written more than two thousand years ago) hits so many nails squarely on the head today! Here, in the clearest reasoning in all literature, is the pure essence of how to get the best out of life — whether we possess worldly wealth or only the riches in our hearts and minds.

This beautiful edition contains the five great dialogues. In these conversations between friends — fresh, spontaneous, humorous, informal — you have "philosophy brought down from heaven to earth."

MARCUS AURELIUS MEDITATIONS

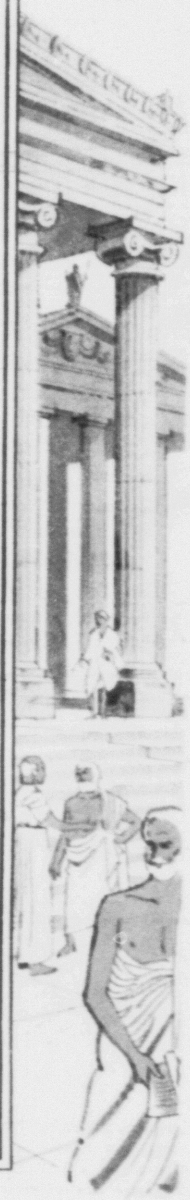
THROUGH these writings, you gaze as if through a powerful telescope at the Rome of eighteen centuries ago. You will be struck by resemblances to our own era as you read the wise Meditations of the great emperor-philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, the Stoic who found peace in traditional customs . . . the witty arguments of Lucian, the Skeptic, who punctured so many beliefs . . . the impassioned words of Justin, the Christian, willing to die for the new religion.

ARISTOTLE ON MAN IN THE UNIVERSE



"THE master of them that know," this supreme mind of the fabulous Golden Age of Greece was called by the poet Dante. He was so far ahead of his era that his ideas are astonishingly timely today. Nature, politics, art, drama, logic, morals — he explored them all, with a mind open to truth and a heart eager for understanding.

Included is the essence of his five celebrated essays. You will be amazed, as you read them, how this great philosopher discovered by pure reason so many truths upon which modern scientists and thinkers have only recently agreed.



Why The Classics Club Offers You This Superb Value

THE CLASSICS CLUB XS

WILL YOU ADD these three volumes to your library — as an introductory offer made only to new members of The Classics Club? You are invited to join today . . . and to receive on approval beautiful editions of the world's greatest masterpieces.

These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "pressed for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

Only Book Club of Its Kind

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes to its members the world's classics at a low price. 2. Its members are not obligated to take any specific number of books. 3. Its volumes are luxurious De Luxe Editions — bound in the fine buckram ordinarily used for $5 and $10 bindings. They have tinted page tops; are richly stamped in genuine gold, which will retain its original lustre — books you and your children will read and cherish for many years.

A Trial Membership Invitation to You

You are invited to accept a Trial Membership. With your first books will be sent an advance notice about future selections. You may reject any book you do not wish. You need not take any specific number of books — only the ones you want. No money in advance, no membership fees. You may cancel membership at any time.

Mail this Invitation Form now. Paper, printing, binding costs are rising. The low introductory price for these THREE beautiful volumes cannot be assured unless you respond promptly. THE CLASSICS CLUB, Roslyn, L. I., New York.

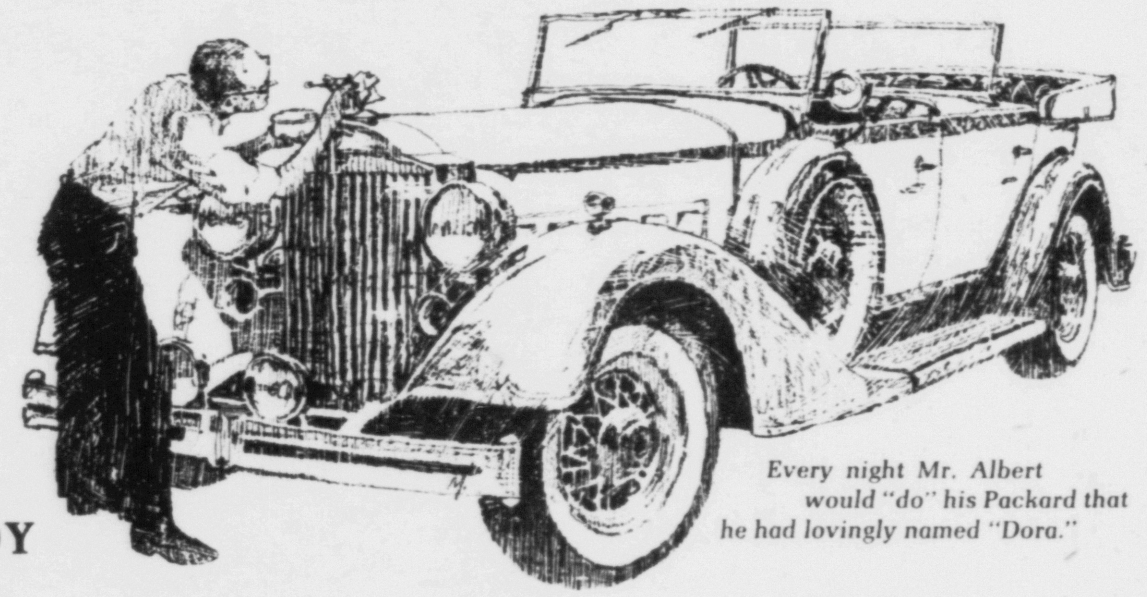
Automobiles Are People!

By KEN PURDY

ILLUSTRATION BY MIKE MIKOS



Every night Mr. Albert would "do" his Packard that he had lovingly named "Dora."

Don't call that car a hunk of steel—she may be somebody's sweetheart!

TO WOMEN, the idea of developing a sense of personal affection for an inanimate thing like an automobile seems weird and inexplicable—but men find it reasonable enough.

Three or four decades ago, when the automobile was comparatively a new factor in our lives, and when the tendency was to keep a car for five, 10 years, or longer, a whole family's attachment to a car could be deep indeed. Father's decision to sell the big high-sided touring car that had carried everyone to a decade's weddings, christenings, funerals, picnics, and unnumbered Sunday "rides" might well bring on a mutiny.

The conviction was real that the car was very nearly as much a living thing as the patient, sway-backed horse it had replaced. After all, each had its whimsies, characteristic faults, and endearing traits. In these days of quick trade-ins there is less of this family affection, but some men still fall in love with a car.

I know a man, for example, who became deeply attached to a '56 Cadillac. After much inner struggling, he sold it last year—and next day phoned the buyer and asked to buy it back. He hadn't been able to sleep all night! The man sold it to him—for $500 profit!

At the opposite end of the scale: three or four months ago I was talking with Dave Garroway, who is an advanced automobile connoisseur. He asked me whom I would recommend to do a really superior restoration on a 1952 Buick. I asked him why in the world anyone would want to restore a 1952 Buick, a useful enough automobile but certainly no immortal design.

Dave said that one of his friends was hopelessly attached to this '52 Skylark, loved it like a brother, and wanted no other automobile. The car was, after all, 10 years old and rather the worse for wear. Dave had spirited the car away on a pretext and had had it completely rebuilt mechanically at a cost well into four figures. Now he wanted it completely done over.

We agreed on Gustave Reuter, whose two-man shop in the Bronx, N. Y., produces work that cannot be improved upon. The Buick was finally upholstered and painted as no other 1952 Buick ever was. Dave cheerfully paid Reuter's bill, another four-figure item, and gave his friend's car back to him as a surprise. Garroway's friend owns the most expensive Skylark of all time.

Race-car drivers particularly tend to personalize their cars. An exception was the great Marquis de Portago. Usually he couldn't tell one car from another, yet he did take a dislike to the 3.8 Ferrari. He considered it malevolent and especially ill-disposed toward him. Portago had ample courage but was afraid of the 3.8 and wrote so just before the 1957 Mille Miglia in which he was scheduled to drive one. He was killed in it—he, his passenger, and 10 spectators.

YEARS AGO I knew a man who seemed to care more for his car than for his wife and children. The car was a Packard touring car which he named "Dora." It was a double-cowl phaeton, carrying an extra windshield for the back-seat passengers. Its owner was a man I'll call Mr. Albert, a machinist, a quiet, rather sad man.

He worked 5½ days a week, and every Saturday after lunch he went to the little garage behind his house and began to "do" his Packard. He worked on the car straight through, except for supper, until 10 o'clock at night. On Sunday morning he washed and polished it. After Sunday dinner, he changed into his good suit, and he and his wife went for a ride, usually not longer than three hours.

Every weekday night, winter and summer, he spent two to three hours in the garage. What was he doing? He was taking care of Dora. I used to watch him by the hour. "Dear Dora," he would say, "there you are, good as new!"

DORA RAN like a watch. She was mechanically so nearly silent that sometimes all I could hear was the crunch of her tires on the gravel as Mr. Albert backed out on Sunday mornings. Now and then on his Sunday drives, Mr. Albert would get caught in a rainstorm. When that happened, he would go into the garage with chamois leathers and dry the car—top and bottom.

He was doing that one cold September night when Dora came off the jack and caught him across the chest with her front axle. He died, they said, instantly. His wife, who had come out to bring him some coffee, said his last words were spoken not to her but to Dora. "Darned old idiot!" he had said to the car, apparently because he was having trouble reaching around something. Then Dora came off the jack.

Mrs. Albert was driven home from the funeral. She sat on the front porch, and when a man came by she called him over and gave the Packard to him. He gave her a dollar, to make the transaction a legal one, and drove it away. Later she told a neighbor that she had made the man promise to destroy the car.

"It's a killer," she said. "I made him promise." Of course, he did nothing of the kind.

I've never forgiven her. She might have thought of me. After all, at one dollar, the Packard was well within my means that year.

Fiesta Roast Pork

This roast pork, with its tantalizing tomato sauce, will remind you of dinner in an intimate, candlelit restaurant in Old Mexico.

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO ROAST: ABOUT 3 HRS.

- 4-lb. pork loin roast
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 teaspoon rubbed sage
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅓ cup flour
- 2 cups tomato purée
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 cup water
- ½ cup thinly sliced ripe olives
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup dark seedless raisins
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms

1. Rub pork with a mixture of the garlic, sage, oregano, and salt. Place pork, fat side up, in a roasting pan. Insert roast-meat thermometer in center of thickest part of meat, being sure the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone.

2. Roast pork, uncovered, at 350°F 2 to 2½ hrs. (Allow 35 to 40 min. per pound.) Meat is done when internal temperature reaches 185°F. Remove meat and pour off drippings; return ¼ cup drippings to pan. Reduce oven temperature to 250°F.

3. Blend the flour into drippings in pan. Stirring constantly, heat until mixture bubbles. Remove from heat. Add gradually a mixture of the tomato purée, chili powder, and water, stirring constantly. Return to heat and bring to boiling; continue stirring and cook until sauce thickens; cook 1 to 2 min. longer. (Scrape pan to blend in brown residue.) Stir in remaining ingredients and cook 10 min.

4. Return pork roast to pan. Basting occasionally with sauce, roast at 250°F about 30 min. Serve hot.

6 to 8 servings

- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- California or Splendent Filling

6. Put half of the chilled dough on a lightly floured surface; roll ¼ in. thick. Cut out rounds with a lightly floured 1½-in. cookie cutter; transfer to ungreased cookie sheets.

7. Make a slight depression in the center of each round and fill with about 1 teaspoonful of filling. Repeat using remaining dough.

8. Cover and allow to stand in a warm place 10 to 15 min.

9. Bake at 350°F 15 to 20 min., or until lightly browned. Remove cookies to cooling racks.

7 ways to enjoy trouble-free driving

There will be no breakdown and bills tomorrow if you give your car a little care today

By STANLEY H. BRAMS

■ IN A SENSE, your car is like the human body. It can be abused for a long time—overworked, neglected—and seemingly it will keep working, even though less effectively than it might. But a day of reckoning will come for a shabbily treated automobile, just as it will for a human being who disdains the ordinary rules of healthful living.

You can minimize your car-care problems by ordinary horse sense and an awareness that every mile you drive brings the need of some kind of maintenance closer. This seven-point check list will make your motoring more trouble-free:

1. Keep Your Engine Tuned

Signs of trouble ahead include excessive intervals before the motor starts in the morning, stalling at stop lights, sudden reduction in mileage per gallon, rough idling, sluggish pickup.

Those slow morning starts often occur in fall; the engine has been tuned for summer driving, and more gas flow is needed for cold weather—you'll be well advised to have the carburetor adjusted in time.

Worn spark plugs (your dealer will tell you how often they need changing) often misfire and waste fuel. Fall is a good time to change, before rigorous winter requirements arise. Points may need replacement; timing adjustment will often result in happier driving. Also, ask the mechanic to check the fan belt for proper tension.

2. Use the Right Fuel

This is a pocketbook saver. Using better-grade fuel than your engine needs merely improves the turnover of your bankroll. In general, a fuel that drives your car without creating engine knock is good enough for steady use, although some fuels have additives which help certain phases of car performance.

3. Keep Your Car Clean

You'll be well advised to start off with an undercoating—at the time you get your new car, or after an older one has been thoroughly steam-cleaned. It deadens rattles and delays under-car corrosion.

Keep your car washed. Water and dirt carry corrosive materials from the roadway. Make a habit of touching up your car finish regularly. Little bits of gravel or stones can crack enamel or lacquer loose from its hold on the body surface, starting a rust patch.

The same goes for bright work. Neglected, it will get dingy, may even corrode; in any case, it won't help the price you'll get when you eventually sell the car. Your serviceman will tell you the best treatment—it varies, depending on the kind of bright work on your car.

4. Keep It Greased

Most 1962s have semipermanent grease systems and don't require lubing for 30,000 miles or so. But others should be lubricated regularly, at least every 2,000 miles to avoid squeaks and rattles and the danger of failure caused by surfaces rubbing against each other instead of on a thin coating of lubricant. Under the heading of greasing, too, remember that wheel bearings need repacking regularly.

5. Check Your Tires

To begin with, they should be rotated periodically—front to rear, one side to the other, with the spare worked into the shift pattern. Look regularly at your tires for cuts and bruises—have them fixed. Pry out bits of embedded glass and metal and have the cut vulcanized.

When the time comes to buy new tires, if you drive a smaller car you might find savings in the new two-ply casings introduced this fall on the compacts. They're just as safe as the four-ply tires, say the manufacturers, and run cooler—hence last longer.

Have your wheels balanced—at least your front wheels. You'll eliminate annoying vibration that can sometimes become downright dangerous.

6. Watch Your Battery

New, improved batteries rarely need refilling, but whether your car has a fine new one or an old one, it pays to watch the water level in the cells. A dry battery performs badly only for a short time—then it's completely ruined.

Scrape off those white deposits of acid on the case and terminals. They rob you of power—you pay for it in excessive gas use, shortened battery life, and the continuing danger of electrical-system failure.

7. Clean Your Cooling System

Before you install any antifreeze in your cooling system, your serviceman should check all hoses and fittings and flush out the system, if possible with a high-pressure reverse flow of water.

One warning we all need: install antifreeze before that first sudden swoop of icy weather to avoid frustrating steamups and possible radiator damage.

This check list can be a lucky seven for you if you observe it. Being careless about it can, at best, be annoying—and, at worst, dangerous and expensive.

CHALLENGED NIAGARA

Sixty years ago this week, a woman became the first to dare the Falls; others have tried since— some to find fame, others death

the ball is pulled out. No one knows if I'm dead or alive.

"At 4:23 the ball is finally opened. I am exhausted but smiling. Jean is proud to have carried the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes over Niagara Falls."

Now the score stood 3-1 in favor of the daredevils, but not for long. The next two challengers were destined to die. George L. Stathakis, a Buffalo, N. Y., chef, took the plunge in a wood and steel barrel July 3, 1930. The barrel remained intact but was trapped behind the Horseshoe Falls for 22 hours. Stathakis suffocated.

William "Red" Hill, Jr., a veteran Niagara riverman, built a contraption of truck inner tubes, webbing, and fish net. The conveyance, which he called "The Thing," broke up when it plummeted over Niagara on Aug. 5, 1951. Hill's body was recovered from the river the next day.

WHAT HAD these daredevils gained? All made a little money, but not much considering the risks. Anna Edson Taylor died penniless, nearly blind and friendless in the county infirmary near Niagara Falls. Bobby Leach slipped on an orange peel in New Zealand, breaking a leg. He died soon after the leg was amputated. Jean Lussier became a factory worker during World War II, is now retired but still makes occasional public appearances.

Despite the dismal prospects, still another daredevil was to try his luck. He called himself Nathan Boya when he entered his steel and rubber ball July 15, 1961. In reality, he was William A. Fitzgerald of Jamaica, N. Y.

"Compulsion" drove him into the river, Fitzgerald said. His ball, based on the design of Jean Lussier's, was badly dented in the plunge over Niagara, but its occupant emerged smiling. A Canadian judge fined him $113 for stunting, which modern-day authorities frown upon.

The exploits of all these daredevils pale, however, beside the fate of seven-year-old Roger Woodward. With his sister Deanne, 17, he ventured into the placid river some five miles above the Falls in a boat operated by a family friend. July 9, 1960, was a pleasant day for an outing. The temperature was in the 90s.

The boat, powered by a small outboard motor, headed downstream. Then, suddenly, it was in trouble. The motor failed. The friend, James Honeycutt, began to row frantically, but the current was too strong. The boat was sucked relentlessly into the treacherous rapids.

In a few moments the craft was swamped, its occupants thrown into the water above the Horseshoe Falls. The current carried them closer and closer to the brink. Roger and Honeycutt were swept toward the center of the cataract, Deanne toward the American shore.

At the U. S. flank of the Horseshoe, two tourists leaped into action. John R. Hayes of Vauxhall, N. J., grasped the girl's arm as he maintained a perilous grip on a railing with his other hand. John Quattrochi of Penns Grove, N. J., raced to his assistance. The men pulled Deanne to safety.

But the girl's brother and friend were swept over Niagara.

In the river below the Falls, Maid of the Mist II, an excursion vessel, plied its regular course toward the Horseshoe Falls. "There was nothing there, and then up he popped," Capt. Clifford Keech recalls.

Clad only in bathing trunks and a life jacket, frail Roger Woodward had emerged, dazed but alive, from the seething caldron at the base of Niagara. He was rescued by the boat's crew.

Jean Lussier happened to be standing at the Falls that afternoon. As the drama unfolded in the river below, Jean said: "The Lord was with that boy like He was with me. It just wasn't his time to die."

By CLIFF SPIELER

THOUSANDS OF THRILL-SEEKERS lined the river banks above and below thundering Niagara on a bright autumn day 60 years ago this week. Everyone watched an oak barrel tossing and turning in the raging rapids, buffeted mercilessly from rock to rock as it swept headlong for the cataract's brink and the terrifying 161-foot plunge over the Horseshoe Falls.

For hundreds of years sight-seers had marveled at the beauty of the cataracts and at their relentless power, but not until Oct. 24, 1901, had any human mustered the courage to attempt to conquer mighty Niagara Falls.

Inside the barrel, disregarding what Niagara rivermen considered certain death, a widowed 43-year-old schoolteacher rode toward the precipice. Anna Edson Taylor was traveling the deadly route to what she hoped would be glory and financial security.

The drop took about three seconds. Then the crudely constructed barrel disappeared in the boiling mist rising from the base of the Horseshoe. Ten seconds later it bobbed into view and, as the crowd gasped, floated toward the Canadian shore.

The minutes—17 of them—seemed like hours until a riverman named Kid Brady hooked the barrel with a long pole. In a short time the cask was opened. Carlisle Graham was the first to peer inside. "She's alive!" he said disbelievingly.

Mrs. Taylor, married at 19, widowed at 20, graduate of Albany, N. Y., Normal School, a Michigan schoolteacher and dancing instructor—all in all, an unlikely candidate for such a stunt—had accomplished what no man had dared. And had added a new expression to our speech. She had "gone over Niagara Falls in a barrel."

Others would follow Mrs. Taylor's path, risking the rocks and the torrent which dump 1,500,000 gallons of water every second over Niagara's brink into a 180-foot-deep pool at the base of the falls. Three men would die in their attempts; three others would succeed. And on a summer day 59 years later, a seven-year-old boy would amaze the world by surviving the wrath of the Thunderer of Waters, as the Indians once called Niagara.

It was stage center for Anna Edson Taylor—for 10 years at least. Then a circus stunt man, Bobby Leach, crawled into a steel barrel in the middle of the upper Niagara River July 25, 1911. Forty minutes later, aides helped the small, 54-year-old Englishman, cut and bruised, from his conveyance. He, too, had conquered the falls.

MANY HAVE DIED in the churning waters of the Niagara River. Several persons each year, drawn in some eerie fashion by the cataracts, take their lives by plunging into the raging river. Not until 1920, however, did a daredevil sacrifice himself in trying to conquer the falls.

Charles G. Stephens, a 38-year-old English barber, plunged over the Horseshoe Falls July 11, 1920, in a heavy oak barrel. It was crushed like an eggshell; Stephens was torn to pieces.

Undaunted, a handsome, gregarious French-Canadian-New Englander decided to bid for fame and fortune at Niagara—not in a steel or wooden barrel, but in a seemingly vulnerable rubber ball.

Joseph Albert Jean Lussier's six-foot ball, with two layers of fabric and rubber stretched over a steel frame, was cut loose from a boat July 4, 1928. A crowd estimated at 150,000 persons had come to watch. Jean Lussier hit the brink at 3:35 p.m.

But let him tell the story in his French-Canadian English:

"Hitting below the Falls the water pressure is so heavy I'm going to the bottom of the river and the first cover is smashed. Water is rushing in between the two covers and the ball is rolling behind the Falls.

"It circles around maybe five or six seconds and then it's coming out with a strong current. Men are waiting with a boat and big-selling brands of cigarettes? Then along came king-sized smokes, filters long and short, boxes and redesigned packages, and menthol types. Your cigarette store today is banked with shelves of various brands, all with large and loyal followings.

The same thing is happening to cars. About four years ago, the auto makers caught on to the fact that the public was tiring of gargantuan, chrome-bedecked gas burners. They turned to compacts like the Chevrolet Corvair, Ford Falcon, Plymouth Valiant and found a booming market.

Then the manufacturers learned that while some buyers wanted austere economy, others wanted small size and mileage—plus luxury upholstery, choice of color and trim, and more power. The result is flashy, hot-rodded compacts which will command half the sales in the small-car field this year.

Even the overcrowded medium-priced field got into the act. Buick, Mercury, and Oldsmobile scaled down their models without sacrificing the "big-car" concept in appointments and equipment. In fact, all the hallowed old names except

To prove my point, just give your wife
The choice of cash—or mink.
—Hal Chadwick

As each employee arrived at the office, he was somewhat surprised to receive a cigar labeled, "It's a boy!" from the bachelor girl on the switchboard.

"I don't get it," said one puzzled worker.

"Why, it's a boy!" the girl repeated. Then, flashing a big engagement ring, she added: "Six feet tall and weighing 190 pounds."

—Jim Henry

The couple had wandered into an ultramodern, lavishly furnished "home of tomorrow." The rumpus room featured walls of glass behind which swam hundreds of brilliantly colored fish.

"I suppose so," his wife said hesitantly, "but I think the wallpaper would drive me crazy."

"There goes the last one. Now will you start raking?"

Meanwhile, Rambler, which started the compact trend, and Studebaker, which followed closely, broadened their existing lines to include such models as convertibles.

You'd think the automakers could sit back, and except for the usual facelift, concentrate on selling what they already have. But no—it appears that still another area has been neglected. Some people who felt that standard cars were too big also felt that even the biggest of the compacts were too small. For this "in-between" group, Ford and Chevrolet will each offer an all-new "in-between" series of cars this coming year, in addition to their larger and smaller models. Plymouth and Dart, on the other hand, have shed so much weight and girth that their 1962 offerings for all practical purposes fall into the new category.

And all is not over yet! There seems to be still another vocal minority who think that compacts are not small enough. For them Ford is planning a Volkswagen-sized car for introduction next spring. It may be called the Cardinal and will have a V-4 engine and front-wheel drive. Studebaker has a similarly sized car in the design stage, and others are studying the field.

STYLING: Any professional will agree that most of the new cars are styled with excellent taste. Cadillac and Imperial are the only makes to retain tailfins and these are relatively subdued. Emphasis is on sculptured body panels with chrome used sparingly for headlights. The vast windshields of the recent past have for the most part been abandoned in favor of simpler curvatures and therefore less distortion. Honors for the most complete styling change should be shared by Plymouth and Dart, although Studebaker has done a creditable job in eliminating the boxiness characteristic of previous models.

BODIES: The new Chevrolet offering, called Chevy II, has a full line of unitized bodies including a smart convertible. They are only a few inches longer than the Corvair but roomier inside. The "in-between" cars offered by Ford and Mercury use a unitized body shell on a 115.5-inch wheelbase. Plymouth and Dart have shed up to 400 pounds and 10 inches of length as a result of a completely new unitized body. Buick Special, Pontiac Tempest, and Olds F-85 have each added a convertible to their line, and Rambler offers a two-door in its Classic series for the first time. All makes have paid considerable attention to deadening sound and adding some extra leg room.

There's more wisdom than whimsey in this father's remark. The rising costs of a college education make it impossible for most families to meet this expense unless they prepare for it well in advance. How? Many have decided that a New York Life Educational Plan offers the surest and most practical way.

There are two of these specially designed plans: the Educational Endowment, and Whole Life with Educational Endowment Benefits. With either, a father can be certain his son or daughter will have most or even all of the funds needed for college. Just remember—the earlier you start such a plan, the easier it will fit into your budget.

Your first step is to call the New York Life Agent in your community. He will gladly explain these plans in detail, and without obligation to you. of engine has been used in trucks and a few European passenger cars but never in an American car. It is of cast-iron construction and rated at 135 horsepower. Optional on the Special and Pontiac Tempest and standard on the F-85 is the aluminum, 155-horsepower V-8 of last year.

Tempest continues its slant four-cylinder, liquid-cooled unit standard in the Chevy II. It produces a peppy 90 horsepower, and the optional six-cylinder unit for this car is rated at 120 horsepower. Both engines are of similar design, to the extent that many of the reciprocating parts are interchangeable. Corvair is sticking with its familiar rear-mounted, air-cooled power plant.

The Ford in-between cars (Fairlane and Meteor) offer the option of a new 221-cubic-inch V-8 for the performance-minded. Rambler continues to offer its aluminum six in some models, as do Lancer and Valiant. This last engine is little known to the public, but was tested extensively last year in fleets. The manufacturers claim exceptional performance with little sacrifice of economy. Engine design in larger cars has remained relatively static although a family of power plants have been developed over the years for each make ranging from detuned, regular gas units to hot rods.

DRIVE TRAIN: Pontiac Tempest, with its transaxle, and Corvair, with both engine and transmission in the rear, continue to be the only unorthodox designs. The three newcomers, the Chevy II and Ford's Fairlane and Meteor, have a conventional layout with a front-mounted engine and transmission driving the rear wheels. Next spring, though, the Cardinal will re-introduce front-wheel drive on the American scene for the first time since the late, lamented 1937 Cord.

Rambler has come up with what it calls an "E-stick" transmission on its American series. The driver shifts through the standard pattern, but the clutch action is entirely automatic. The unit is tagged to sell for about $60.

RUNNING GEAR: Big news here is the large number of cars switching to chassis bearings that need little if any greasing. Only Chevrolet, Falcon, Comet, F-85, Studebaker, Buick, and some Ramblers still require a monthly grease job. Oldsmobile and Cadillac never need greasing in normal usage, and the rest specify a 30,000-35,000-mile interval.

Other trends in this service-free direction include almost universal use of self-adjusting brakes (the kind that adjust themselves automatically when you back up), extended warranties, and Chevrolet's, Ford's, and Rambler's two-year coolants. Another item new to smaller 1962 cars is the two-ply tire. These are just as strong as the old four-ply design, but producers claim they give a softer ride and better gas mileage. Suspension remains about the same except for detailed refinements to improve ride.

INCIDENTALS: Lincoln Continental has a hydraulically driven windshield wiper and the only 24-month, 24,000-mile guarantee in the business. Rear-window defrosters have been revived for sedan models of many makes, and so, too, have bucket seats. If you want an air-conditioned convertible, Cadillac has one.

In fact, no matter what you might want in a new car, some auto manufacturer probably has anticipated you and has your dream buggy ready to roll.

Balloon Balance
By Ragna Eskil

Pass uninflated balloons around and tell each player to inflate his own. Divide the players into two teams and each group into pairs. Give each player a teaspoon and set a goal line. The players, a pair from each team, balancing the balloon on their teaspoons held in one hand, see who can reach the goal first. Or, to make it even harder, the teaspoon may be held between the teeth!

Let's Count!
By Ragna Eskil

This game is for playing on a long auto ride. Players try to be the first to spy numbers, in their sequence, from 1 to 20 in signs along the road. When it comes to the double numbers, they may occur (if in sequence) in any long number. For instance, the long number 2118 could count as 2, 11, or 18, depending upon the number the player is looking for.
